BIG SMASH IN BOSTON.

R. Gardner, Chase & Co. Forced to Make an Assignment.

LIABILITIES OF $2,000,000.

The Failure Solely Due to the Stringency in Money.

BROKERS GREATLY SURPRISED.

The Firm a Conservative One of Excellent Standing.

STOCKS IN THE NEW YORK MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—At 2 o'clock today the Chairman of the Stock Exchange announced the failure of Messrs. R. Gardner Chase & Co., and purchases or sales on account of the firm which followed included Atchison, Mexican Central, West End Land, Osceola Mining, New England Telephone, and Sugar Trust shares. The firm's largest accounts were in New York. The assignment was made about 2 o'clock to Mr. James T. Phelps, who says the liabilities are about $2,000,000 and that he will make a statement as soon as possible. The doors of the firm's office in the Equitable Building were found closed just after 2 o'clock, and it was learned that both Mr. Chase and the junior partner, Mr. Legg, had gone for the day. This firm has done a large stock commission business—possibly the largest of any Boston house in New York. No cause could be learned officially for the suspension, but the state of the money market and a real estate undertaking by the senior partner were included in the gossip.

The failure was a complete surprise to the brokers as well as to the general public. The standing and reputation of the house were first-class, and prominent brokers, men in a position to know what was going on in financial circles, would have considered R. Gardner Chase & Co.'s notes nearly as good as gold.

George R. Chase, the son of the senior member of the house and the chief clerk, said: "The trouble is due wholly to the tight money. The calls upon us have been greater than we could withstand; our collaterals have shrunk in value beyond all expectation, and, much as we endeavored to avert a suspension, we have been forced to it. No outside transactions or speculation have led to this trouble. It is tight money and nothing else. We have done business of a speculative character as a house, and such as we have done for our customers has been done on a conservative basis. I do not feel warranted now in giving the circumstances that were the immediate cause of the failure. Mr. Chase (my father) and Mr. Legg, his partner, have both gone home for the day, but both will be here tomorrow morning and then will be able to make further explanations. We are unable at present to tell how we shall come out, but we propose to do all that we can and to deal honorably by all our creditors."

The failure is generally regarded as the result of misfortune that could not be averted, and the kindliest expressions are heard on all sides for the crippled house. The impression is strong, also, that the trouble will not be far-reaching, and that its effect on the market will be only temporary.

A well-known financier said: "I know both gentlemen personally and can vouch for their business integrity. It is an honest failure. I do not think it has the slightest connection with the Potter-Lovell affair."

Mr. Evans of the firm of Irving Evans & Co. said that, to the best of his knowledge, while the embarrassed firm was engaged in note brokerage some fifteen years ago, for the last ten years they had neither bought nor sold a piece of paper. They had no connection and were not acquainted with Potter, Lovell & Co. He had absolutely no idea as to the cause of failure.

The firm is the Boston correspondent of S. V. White & Co. of New York. The members of the firm are R. Gardner Chase and Charles E. Legg of Chelsea. They have always been popular on the street. The senior member of the firm was formerly a note broker in this city, and in 1870 organized the present firm. It is stated that lately the firm has been doing a large business in Western railroad stock, and on the street the general cause given for the failure is that it was caught short of the market.

SURPRISE FOR NEW YORK BROKERS.

Stocks Fail to Respond to the Purchase of Government Bonds.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Room traders have completely reversed their position today. Confident that Secretary Windom would be offered all the "fours" he could take the traders yesterday covered their shorts. They went home last evening long of stocks, and prices were higher. This evening they have gone home short of the market and prices are lower. When it was officially announced this afternoon that the Treasury had accepted enough "fours" to insure the immediate disbursement of more than $21,000,000 the nimble traders all started to sell out and bag their profits. But there was no wild rush of outsiders to buy stocks on the good news, and consequently the selling resulted in lower prices. Then they cried out, "If stocks won't go up on this news they won't go up at all," and therefore they closed out their long accounts and went short.

The Vanderbilt stocks were conspicuously strong and showed smart net advances. The "Little Wizard's" issues also received support—the first for a long time—and the party that has been attacking Lackawanna was routed. Sugar Trust certificates lost 2 per cent and reacted 1⅜, and Lead Trust gained a fraction. The bulk of the $21,000,000 to be paid by Secretary Windom for bonds tomorrow will be disbursed from the Sub-Treasury in this city, and the more prominent men in Wall street think that there will be no further monetary stringency this year.

HAVE RECOVERED BRAZOS BONDS.

Col. Abner Taylor Says That His Company Will Not Be Troubled.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Col. A. B. Taylor said this evening regarding the relation of the Potter-Lovell company to the Brazos River bonds: "There were $2,000,000 worth which the firm was expecting to place in Europe some time in October. When the crash came we got hold of $1,500,000 without much trouble, but we could not find any trace of the remaining $500,000. It seemed impossible to get a statement, and for all we know that half million might have been sold or hypothecated. Walter Potter had promised to meet Mr. Lee of Ferguson & Lee in New York, and we hoped for an explanation, but the day he was to be there he was arrested in Boston on complaint of Philadelphia parties. We had known for two or three days that something of this kind was likely to happen, but to find the members of the firm charged with criminal purposes naturally did not tend to reassure us. However, we kept up the search and today succeeded in locating the missing bonds. We found that $260,000 had been put up in a legitimate manner in connection with Lee and Ferguson paper. Then we got word that the remaining $240,000 had been passed to J. V. Farwell & Co. in the course of a commercial transaction. I can't give the details, but the Brazos company will get its bonds back without loss.

"Those people," continued Col. Taylor, referring to Potter and Lovell, "were high-rollers. I was satisfied some time ago that when the first money squeeze came they would have trouble. They secured so many loans on call that it was inevitable. Their practices were both reckless and irregular, yet I have some doubts whether the criminal charges against them will hold. There are a good many ways of using other people's money without being criminally liable, and they had reduced this practice to a system."

J. T. Chumasero admitted yesterday that $240,000 worth of the Brazos bonds had been turned over to J. V. Farwell & Co. as collateral a few months prior to the Potter-Lovell failure. He said he must decline to state for just what the bonds were given as collateral because there was a legal question involved that it would require time to settle.

PURCHASES BY THE TREASURY.

Offers of Four Per Cents Aggregating $16,883,800 Accepted.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—In reply to the circular of the Treasury Department of Saturday, Sept. 13, inviting proposals for the sale of $16,000,000 4 per cent bonds at noon today, the Treasury Department received offers aggregating about $28,000,000, of which $16,883,800 were purchased, as follows: $1,800 at 125; $50,000 at 125 24-100; $132,750 at 125⅛; $33,100 at 125⅝; $700 at 125 80-100; $596,700 at 126; $19,800 at 126¼; $400,000 at 126⅜; $27,000 at 126 49-100; $3,693,200 at 126½; $102,000 at 126⅝; $8,500,000 at 126 74-100; $3,326,750 at 126¾. A number of other offers were made at prices below the highest price paid, but they were rejected because they were received after noon.

The disbursements by the Treasury in thirty-two days have exceeded the receipts by $65,000,000.

The total offers of 4½ per cent bonds to the Treasury yesterday for the entire country amounted to $1,057,500, making a total so far of $12,050,300. The prepayment of interest on the 4 per cents yesterday aggregated $851,772, making a total so far of $4,212,060. The offers today for the entire country so far as heard from aggregated $341,250.

The amount of silver offered for sale to the department today was 519,000 ounces, and the amount purchased 326,000 ounces, as follows: 30,000 ounces at $1.16¼, 50,000 ounces at $1.16¼, 50,000 ounces at $1.16½, 75,000 ounces at $1.16⅝, 121,000 ounces at $1.16¾.

JAY GOULD'S OPINIONS.

He Thinks Money Will Be a Drug at Low Rates in a Short Time.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—[Special.]—In an interview today Jay Gould said: "I think the street is commencing to realize that it was more frightened than hurt on the recent monetary squeeze. As far as I can learn there was no legitimate reason why funds should command the high premiums of ⅛@½ per cent per diem and interest. I feel certain that manipulation had a great deal to do with the local money markets, for the simple reason that funds, after loaning at the extraordinary rates mentioned, fell within an hour or two to less than the legal rates. In the interim no money had been received from outside sources, and had the demand been legitimate funds would necessarily have become scarcer as the day wore on and the supply gave out. Many banks and trust companies kept their rates at 6 per cent throughout the spasm. Some brokers kept their interest account at 6 per cent. I am satisfied that in a short time money will be as much a drug at low rates as it was a luxury last week. I think that the low-priced shares will appreciate considerably. I am a great believer in the State of Texas; it is growing rapidly and improving perceptibly. The strength of Western Union has unquestionably been due to the fact that it is largely held by investors. There are very nearly 4,000 stockholders on the transfer books. The Missouri Pacific directors will meet, I think, tomorrow. Of course the regular quarterly dividend will be declared."

ASSIGNMENT AT KANSAS CITY.

Collapse of the Cookson Iron Works—Failure at Bloomington, Ill.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Cookson Iron Works made an assignment today for the benefit of its creditors. The plant cost $40,000. Creditors will probably be paid in full. Lack of home patronage assigned as cause of failure.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Sept. 17.—Patrick Kealy's dry-goods store was closed today by the Sheriff; there are four executions amounting to nearly $9,000. The executions are in favor of a local bank and Kealy's father-in-law.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Salter Silk company, No. 38 Bedford street, assigned this afternoon to Oscar A. Marden of Boston and W. W. Coolidge of Salem. The liabilities are estimated at from $20,000 to $25,000. The trouble is due to complications arising from the Potter-Lovell failure and that of Seavey, Foster & Bowman. The concern is a small one.

ELLENSBURG, Wash., Sept. 17.—Samuel Kreidel, dealer in dry goods and clothing, today made an assignment with liabilities of $75,000 and assets of $40,000.

SAYS THAT MILLIONS ARE CONCEALED.

A Miner's Story of How Comstock Men Run Things to Suit Themselves.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—M. W. Fox, who is at the head of the Mining Stock Association, which is at war with the Comstock millionaire owners and big moneyed men of the Hale and Norcross Mining company who are accused of stealing $2,000,000 from the smaller stockholders of the concern, received yesterday the following letter from a miner working in Virginia City, Nev.:

In the Hale-Norcross mine it is well known among the miners that the few men who are now working are running waste rock into all the drifts where the best rock is and stopping them up so as to keep the pay rock hidden. One of the tools of the ring told the miners that if a two-legged fox found out what was in the mine he would have to dig for it and that Mr. Leary and Mr. Keating would remain in power for some time to come. Is there not some way to stop them working altogether and is there not some way to examine that mine before they get it blocked up?

Said Mr. Fox today: "I was in Virginia City in May, 1889, and while there visited the ore-producing levels of the Hale & Norcross mine. I saw sufficient ore for a million dollars in dividends, together with all legitimate running expenses. Since then there have been several new discoveries of ore made in that mine, the greater portion of which discoveries have been kept from stockholders in order that the management might assess the stock out of the hands of its present holders."

STEEL MADE FROM SOUTHERN IRON.

An Experiment at Chattanooga, Tenn., Results in Success.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 17.—The most important event in the industrial development of the South occurred here yesterday by the successful casting of steel from Southern material by the Basic process. The result clearly demonstrates that Southern iron will make steel and explodes the notion that the iron contains too much phosphorus to be used for that purpose. The first cast of twenty-two tons was made in the presence of a large crowd and was of a superior, soft, low carbon steel finely adapted for structural work. A second furnace will be put in operation in thirty days. The great importance of this event is the fact that it affords a market for the lowest grade of Southern iron.

LOAFER, LIAR, BOODLER.

ANDREW T. POWERS THUS DENOUNCED IN THE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

The Cook County Member Mercilessly Scorched by His Associates for Insinuating They Were Corrupt—He Finally Acknowledges He Was Not in a Condition to Be Held Responsible and Crawls in the Dust—Forty-seven Millions to Be Added to Cook's Assessment.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Never since the occupancy of the present Senate chamber has such a scene been portrayed during the deliberations of an official body of the State as was enacted this morning.

Monday evening Mr. Powers, member of the State Board of Equalization, took occasion while at a taxpayers' meeting to cast a reflection of dishonesty and corruption upon the board in general and some of the members in particular. Hence the trouble. Mr. Powers is a Democrat, and many think his tangent was the outcome of a desire to furnish his adherents with a little buncombe. He has been given to making underhanded insinuations about members in the board meetings for some time, but never made any direct charges. To him, also, may be attributed in a large degree the trouble Cook County is experiencing in her equalization of assessments with the rest of the State. He has been against his own county and for an increase. He wanted to be a member of certain committees, although he himself insinuated that railroad and corporation boodle was floating about in large quantities, and that the railroads and corporations knew the value of having friends at court. Mr. Powers made a grave mistake, and found it out this morning. Never was a man scored and denounced so relentlessly. Politics cut no figure in the matter, some of the most violent arraignments coming from members of his own political faith. Mr. Powers as a representative of the people is dead, and his funeral sermon was of a character few would care to anticipate as the close to a public career.

Groveling in the Dust.

Learning upon his arrival in the city this morning of the tumultuous feeling he had created, Mr. Powers arose to a question of privilege at the convening of the board and said he was sorry for what he had said, if he did say it. He was not sure whether he did or not. He had gone to the meeting by chance, had met some friends and been out with them, and must say he was not responsible for his conduct, and that if anything was said reflecting discredit on the board it could not have been said in good faith, and he did not know why he said it. Therefore he would ask the indulgence and forgiveness of the board.

The utterances of Mr. Powers were read. Then things began to assume a ruddy hue. Judge Scott (Democrat) of the Thirteenth District got the floor.

"If Mr. Powers," said Judge Scott, "will make a written statement that what has been read is untrue I am willing to drop the matter. I have been fourteen years on the board, part of the time on the Railroad Committee, and I never even had one railroad, either by its agents or attorneys, directly or indirectly, come to me and offer one cent one way or the other. Any member of this board that will make such statements as have been read is a loafer, a malicious liar, and a maligning scoundrel."

Mr. Glenn remarked that Mr. Powers pleaded guilty and said he did not know what he was talking about. In this Mr. Glenn agreed with him. He never thought Powers knew what he was talking about and was glad he had told the people of the State and his district so.

Scored by Neff.

Mr. Neff of Freeport next took a hand. He spoke more at length than as to details. His arraignment was awful. "Andrew T. Powers," he said, "by his own conduct, lying speech, and peculiar methods has incurred the suspicion and distrust and to a large degree the odium of a large majority of the members of this board. Under the cry of 'stop thief' he seeks to elude the just punishments by which his constituents are pursuing him. Except for the fact that he is a member of the State Board of Equalization the words he has uttered would pass by unheeded as the idle wind. With the tongue of a fishwoman and the heart of a robber, with the voice of deception and the manners and methods of a boodler, shunned and despised by the persons with whom he is associated, it is little wonder he seeks audience in a distant city where his qualifications for public place are little known. The language he is reported to have used with reference to his associates here may be the proper language to use in the slums of Chicago. It may answer his purpose as a briefless shyster in the police courts of Chicago, but in a body of dignified gentlemen who come here in an honest, upright, fair-minded spirit to deal with public affairs it is indecent and deserves the censure of all honest, true-minded men. The idea that a 'bog-trotter' from the slums of Chicago should come here and accuse the majority of the members of this board of dishonesty is an outrage on common decency. Complaint has been made here by gentlemen from Cook County, strictures have been put upon this board by the public press of Cook County, because they anticipate a disposition on the part of members of this board to raise the assessment. Let me tell you, Mr. Chairman, that that man Andrew Powers has more to do with the responsibility for this feeling among members of this board, that Cook County should be raised, than all other agencies combined. He made statements that he had assessed property fairly and honestly, but that after the manipulations of his chief it had been reduced 10 to 15 per cent. Also that he was instructed not to assess people who had not more than $500 worth of property. This he denied when his chief came before the board, being overawed by his presence. Thus the man who has seen fit to criticise this board places himself before the people of the State and of his district and before the members of this board as an arrant liar. I believe more than that. My convictions are that behind all his deception, behind all his lying, there is a sinister, corrupt, impure, dishonest, and wicked motive. I make no hesitancy in saying it."

Apologies and Tears.

Mr. Powers jumped to his feet. He had borne about all he could. He begged forgiveness, but could not account for the outbreak he had been guilty of. Then he attempted to answer Mr. Neff's scathing arraignment by saying he was of the opinion—he would not charge it directly—that certain members of the board were in the employ of corporations and used their positions to further their interests, and referred to Mr. Neff particularly in this connection. Then he gave up, sat down in his seat, and cried.

Mr. Neff in reply said he had been employed by corporations as an attorney in courts of record at various times. As a member of the board he was not in the employ of any corporation, and he challenged Powers to substantiate his last statement. Mr. Powers had nothing to say.

Maj. Blodgett of Cook was one of the members directly mentioned. "When a man is hunting the conviction of other men, as is this man," said he, "he simply mirrors his own thieving soul. He sees in others what he seeks as his own opportunity. I believe this is brought about by a desire to benefit his own financial condition through official position. He has been making his assaults and insinuations simply to try and compel certain corporate interests in the State to call on Mr. Powers. I am glad he comes here and says he went out with some friends and was not responsible for his talk."

To prevent the introduction of a resolution of censure in keeping with his denouncement on the floor Mr. Powers sent the following to the Chairman:

> Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen: In reference to my speech delivered in Farwell Hall last Monday evening I hereby disclaim any intention to impute dishonesty to any member of the board or its members. ANDREW T. POWERS.

In view of the extenuating plea of drunkenness advanced by Mr. Powers this was accepted and the matter dropped.

A Raise of $47,000,000.

The Yantis resolution that it was the sense of the board that Cook County was assessed but 15 per cent on the personal and real property, which means an increase in the equalization of $122,000,000, or 66⅔ per cent, came up during the day. Mr. Yantis made some comparisons of the low returns from Cook County on personal property and said it was less than in any other district and less than in many of the counties. He wanted to be fair and thought the proposition just.

The Cook County members in the last few days have done some good work and were well prepared to meet the arguments of an increase. Mr. Blodgett compared the assessments of 1873 and 1889. The latter showed a large increase in Cook County, while there was a decrease in some other ten counties in the State, picked out indiscriminately, of 40 to 60 per cent. He wanted to know if it was not proper to institute a commission of inquiry as to them and not do so much "gunning" in the direction of Cook.

Mr. Taylor said he thought if an increase of $40,000,000 over the last year's assessment was made it would be satisfactory. That would be about 10 per cent, and they had increased the assessment $21,000,000 already.

Mr. McKnight created a laugh by saying he had figured up at the present rate of increase tacked on to Cook County that in ninety-eight years the county would pay all the taxes of the State. A member replied he supposed the State would be annexed to the county by that time.

Judge Scott thought the county assessed at about 18⅜ per cent. He thought about 25 per cent added net after the surplus was spread back would be a fair assessment. That would raise the county $47,000,000 over the assessment of this year and would be a fair equalization.

This proposition met with favor by nearly every member of the board, including those from Cook. It brings the amount within the limit of the Glenn resolution, and this is about the figure at which the result will stand. On motion of Mr. Glenn, however, all the resolutions were postponed for final consideration until the committees can report progress, and their reports doubtless will be in conformity with the view expressed this morning.

MURDERED BY TRAIN WRECKERS.

Two Men Killed in a Mississippi Catastrophe—Other Accidents.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Sept. 17.—The passenger train on the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas railroad, due here from Memphis at 10 o'clock this morning, was wrecked at the National Cemetery, on the outskirts of this city. The switch had been turned by some person who had a key, and Engineer John Welch and Fireman Jim Goddy, the latter colored, were fatally injured and died in a few hours. Welch saw his peril, but put on the brakes instead of jumping for his life. The engine, tender, combination, and smoker were derailed, but no one else was hurt. The track was clear at 10 this morning.

ARKANSAS CITY, Ark., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—A bad wreck occurred on the Warren Branch of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern railway, five miles west of Collins. The east-bound train consisted of several freight-cars, a baggage and mail car, and one passenger coach, about forty-five passengers being aboard. The engine, in passing over a guard rail, broke it. The freight-cars passed over safely, but the baggage-car and passenger coach jumped the track and rolled down an embankment. Fifteen passengers were injured, as follows:

W. J. COLE, traveling salesman, cut about head; spine severely injured.

A. N. FREEMAN, Baxter, Ark., severely.

M. E. FERGUSON, Baxter, Ark., hand cut and crushed.

T. W. OWENS, Dermott, Ark., arm fractured.

MISS FANNIE OWENS, fractured arm.

MISS NELLIE ANDERSON, internally injured.

MANNING WARREN, hip crushed.

MRS. S. GASTER, Monticello, head cut.

MRS. NICHOLS, arm crushed.

MRS. BAILEY, Monticello, shoulder crushed.

T. J. BRATTON, traveling salesman, Memphis, arm broken.

W. H. LEPPIEW, Baxter.

MISS LEPPIEW, seriously.

CONDUCTOR HOBSON, seriously cut and internal injuries.

It is thought that Mr. Cole and Conductor Hobson will not survive.

WYOMING, N. Y., Sept. 17.—As a freight-train on the New York Central road was nearing this station at 3:45 o'clock this morning from the East it was thrown from the track by a misplaced switch. The engine did not leave the road, but about fifteen of the cars were piled in every conceivable shape. No one was hurt. It is evident that the wreck was caused by some one who had a grudge against the road or some of the crew, as the switch was taken apart, ties removed, and the rails displaced.

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—John Kiernan and John Cordial, two of the alleged train-wreckers, were brought before Judge Griffith at an adjourned examination this morning. The prosecution was not ready, as the District Attorney was busy with the grand jury. The examination was adjourned till Friday at 11 a. m. The bail was fixed at $20,000 for the two, the sureties to qualify in double that amount. Reed, Cain, and Buett were not arraigned. The grand jury will probably take up the cases this week.

SENECA, Ill., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—An accident occurred on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad at 4 o'clock this morning. A heavily-laden east-bound freight-train was standing on the main track when a freight-train following, not seeing the danger-signals on account of a heavy fog, ran into it. The engine and three stock-cars filled with hogs were wrecked. There were eight drovers on the train, but none was seriously hurt. The fireman and a drover were badly scalded.

THE PRINCESS BEATRICE WRECKED.

Loss of a Prince Edward Island Steamship Company's Boat.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 17.—The steamer Princess Beatrice, which left here Monday night for Charlottetown, P. E. I., and intermediate ports, was wrecked last night near New Harbor, Guysboro County. The passengers and crew were saved. It was owned by the Halifax and Prince Edward Island Steamship company.

KILLED BY A BOILER EXPLOSION.

An Accident Causes the Death of One Man and the Injury of Several.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 17.—The boiler at the gin-house of Hugh Boyce, a few miles from here, exploded today, killing Will Boyce, son of the owner of the gin-house, and severely injuring several other people.

RUMORED RAILWAY COMBINATION.

Several Lines Said to Be Placed Under the Management of J. F. Goddard.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—[Special.]—It was announced here today that the Missouri Pacific, Atchison, and several other roads are to be organized and placed under J. F. Goddard's management. One of Gould's schemes may possibly be realized.

Indorsed the McKinley Bill.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17.—At the meeting of Ohio wool-growers today resolutions were adopted indorsing the schedule of wool duties contained in the McKinley Tariff bill as affording the best protection to be obtained under the circumstances. The provisions of the McKinley bill are pronounced wise and patriotic.

NATURALIZATION FRAUDS

JUDGE ALTGELD'S LAXITY RECEIVES A REBUKE FROM THE BENCH.

Judge McConnell Flatly Declares That He Will Not Follow in the Footsteps of His Colleague—Methods of "Naturalization-Bureau" O'Brien and His Assistants—How American Citizens Are Made—The Democrats Doing a Wholesale Business.

Fifty new citizens of the United States were "made" in Judge McConnell's court last night, but just before they were taken into full citizenship the court administered a black eye to Judge Altgeld, or rather to the position taken by the latter in the matter of naturalization. The blow at Judge Altgeld's interpretation of the law was struck gently but firmly, and was brought about through the efforts of "Nic" Sennott, chief aid to Naturalization Bureau O'Brien, to have Judge McConnell issue final papers to one Trevenan, who had witnesses ready to prove him worthy of all the rights of citizenship, and who himself claimed to have taken out his first or "declaration" papers. These papers Trevenan, according to Sennott, was positive were taken out in this county and State, but in what court he could not say.

It was after 8 o'clock when Judge McConnell entered the court-room, and he had hardly dropped his overcoat before he was corralled by Sennott, who endeavored to secure a private interview before the Judge took his seat. He explained the position of the man Trevenan, for whom O'Brien's Democratic naturalization bureau was trying to secure a franchise. Judge McConnell listened with patience for a short time and then said sharply:

"The papers cannot be issued through this court."

"But," protested Sennott, "only last Monday night several similar cases were passed upon favorably by Judge Altgeld."

"I do not pretend to say," said Judge McConnell, "that Judge Altgeld is not right, but I will not follow in his footsteps."

Sennott tried to argue the matter, but his plea availed him nothing.

"If the man had his papers and lost them," said Judge McConnell, "he has a right to file a suit to establish the fact, the same as is done in other cases of lost records, and there is no other recourse as far as this case is concerned."

Sennott left the court-room discouraged, and he and O'Brien will probably run their aspirants to citizenship before some other Judge than McConnell during the remainder of the campaign. Monday night Judge Altgeld issued final papers to about sixty-five persons, among whom were seven who produced no declaration papers.

Statutes of the United States.

The statutes of the United States provide that aliens of such races as are designated may become citizens by filing a declaration of their intentions not earlier than two years after taking up their residence in any of the States or Territories. Later, by producing the first declaration, final papers of full citizenship can be issued after a full residence of five years is shown. Minors who take up residence in any State or Territory three years before coming of age may secure full papers after an uninterrupted residence of five years. In the case of adults, however, the law is imperative that the first papers must be produced before final ones can be issued. That is the position assumed by Judge McConnell last night when he refused to entertain the application of "Nic" Sennott's protégé. But Judge Altgeld Monday night allowed full papers to issue to Louis P. Hansen of No. 61 Emma street, vouched for by William Derichs of the same number; to John Liskowski of No. 142 Fry street, vouched for by Theodore Lisner of the same number; Nels Pedersen of No. 238 North Morgan street, vouched for by Frank Hainsch of the same number; Andrew Pearson of Forty-third and Wood streets, vouched for by Ed Sweeney of Forty-second street and Hart avenue, and Owen McCabe of No. 53 Superior street, and Richard Madden and Lawrence Reddington of No. 34 Superior street, all three of whom were guaranteed by Martin Reddington of No. 40 Chicago avenue. All of the seven claimed that their declaration papers had been duly taken out, but had either been destroyed or lost. Some of them were unable to tell in what State, Territory, county, or court they filed their declarations and received their first papers, but evidence was heard, and on the margins of the affidavits of application was indorsed the approval of the evidence by the court, and the papers were issued accordingly.

They Had Lost Their Papers.

Sennott was encouraged and had the halls of the County Building filled with men who had lost their papers, last night. After the rebuff he received he says:

"Well, we'll run in twenty-six good Swede Democrats, just as hard, and as many more other good voters of other nationalities."

"Who are 'we'?" Sennott was asked.

"Why, the Bureau of Naturalization, with headquarters at No. 76 La Salle street."

The bureau is located in the rooms presided over by "Johnny" O'Brien of the Junior Tammany.

True enough, in accordance with Sennott's boast, a drum corps marched into the lower corridor of the County Building. Behind it marched the "Swedish Democratic Club of Cook County," with twenty-six members, all pledged to the purposes and dictation of Naturalization Bureau O'Brien. They came mainly from the Twenty-third Ward and were in command of one Nelson. Sennott ushered them quickly to the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court, where they were provided with affidavits. Most of the men had their first papers, and the others came to America as minors. All were quickly "made" citizens.

Then John Blake and John Sullivan took an inning. They were the men who secured papers for so many applicants from Judge Altgeld Monday night. Blake lives at No. 4334 Goodspeed avenue. He is employed as a carpenter by the city, but he is evidently exercising more industry in "making" citizens of Democratic tendencies than in any other direction. Sullivan is a man of some influence down around Grand Crossing and thereabouts.

They did not find it such easy sailing before Judge McConnell as they did before Judge Altgeld. The latter merely asked them as to each of the aspirants they vouched for. But Judge McConnell wanted to know if they had known them for five years, whether they had known them as minors, and such other questions as seemed to come within the province of a legitimate examination. Through the efforts of Blake and Sullivan the following were made citizens:

List of New Citizens.

Pat McInerney, No. 5964 Lake avenue; Thomas Goldrick, No. 5422 Lake street; Michael Beardon, No. 7706 Greenwood avenue; Michael Carroll, No. 544 Fulton street, Pullman; Thomas Davey, No. 5550 Greenwood avenue; Dan Grady, No. 7706 Greenwood avenue; Daniel Carroll, No. 4544 Wood street; John Bradwell, No. 4308 Lincoln street; James Naughton, No. 4437 Goodspeed street; and James Gorman of Lincoln and Forty-fourth streets.

When Gorman was sworn he was asked his place of residence. He stumbled over a number and did not appear to know just where he did make his residence. Blake, who was coaching him, punched Gorman in the ribs and with an oath said:

"Don't you know where you live?"

This remark failed to reach the ear of the court.

August Jansen of No. 148 Milton avenue, which sheltered half a dozen newly-fledged citizens, was the last man naturalized. He produced a declaration paper, in which he renounced allegiance to the Emperor of Germany. His application for final papers represented him as renouncing allegiance to the King of Sweden and Norway. This was a discrepancy that puzzled Judge McConnell for a moment, but after Jansen had explained that he had lived in Germany and agreed to swear off on all foreign princes and potentates he received his papers.

Another "plugger" for the Naturalization Bureau, who made himself quite conspicuous last night, was R. E. Spiedel of No. 190 Fifty-fifth street, who managed to favorably vouch for half a dozen applicants. Spiedel says he is in the "sewer business." He is in the employ of the city and is one of the most active adjutants of Sennott and Naturalization Bureau O'Brien. Sennott is in the employ of the West Sides Yerkes system and puts in his time securing frontage for new lines and extensions when not rounding up "new" citizens. He was disappointed over the result of last night's work, as he had many aspirants whom he did not care to present, after his first consultation with Judge McConnell.

"But the bureau will keep on finding the boys," he remarked, after he had informed the court that there would be no more applications.

An old employé about the courts said:

"I've seen lots of naturalization business during campaign times in my career, but I never saw men rushed through as lively as they have been by the Junior Tammany Naturalization Bureau during the first few weeks. And such a thing as seven men in one night securing final papers without producing original papers is something of which I never even heard."

NEW YORK CENTRAL STRIKE IS OFF.

District Assembly No. 246 Finally Gives Up the Hard-Fought Battle.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Executive Committee of District Assembly No. 246, which ordered the strike on the New York Central railroad because of the constant importuning of the strikers, today ordered the strike off, and the fact was announced in each local assembly from New York to Buffalo during the day. But few places on the road are accessible to the strikers.

John Reed, the man arrested at Hudson for train-wrecking, confessed his crime the night he was arrested, and his confession is now in the hands of Mr. Parmenter of Troy. Reed said: "Wednesday night before the wreck was accomplished Cain, Buett, and myself were talking in a saloon on Second street. Somebody said that a good way to make the road know that their men were incompetent and that they were not dealing with a lot of milksops was to send a few trains in the ditches. All of us had been drinking, and Cain said: 'Well, if they let Pinkertons shoot us down without cause, why should we not retaliate by spoiling their goods?' A little later we were joined by Cordial and Kiernan, and after a little more liquor had been drunk the subject was again broached. I said: 'Come on down on the Hudson division and we will put a freight in the ditch.'

"Buett said: 'What is the matter with sending a passenger-train in the ditch?'

"'That would not do,' said Cordial. 'I don't want to become a murderer.'

"From that things went on until we determined to do the job. We went on the horse cars to Greenbush, and from a point about a mile below there struck the road. We walked along in the bushes behind the fences, and suddenly I came upon a lot of railroad iron near a cattle-guard. From there we got the material. Then we started in and built the barricade, and I think we were at it about twenty minutes. When we got it fixed we all started off. We had hardly got over the hill when we heard the train, and we all knew by the speed that it was a passenger.

"Cordial said: 'My God, we've done it'; and then came the crash. We were excited after that, but I remember stopping for a glass of water at a farm house. I don't think Cordial or Kiernan were with us then. They went up the road on a run. They all went back to Greenbush but me. I went down to Hudson to see friends."

The confession was read to Cain and Buett at Albany, and they agreed to sign it. Buett, however, also wished it understood that the Knights of Labor as an organization did not know of the job and it was not done with its consent. Cain, in an additional statement, says that he was grossly intoxicated at the time.

CHARGED WITH KILLING HIS WIFE.

M. J. Persons of Memphis in Jail for a Brutal Crime.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The death of Mrs. M. J. Persons, which was supposed yesterday to be suicide, today appears to have been a most brutal murder. Yesterday morning the stiffened corpse of the woman was found in the rear yard of their home by one of her children. The household was aroused and the children were wild with grief, while the husband fainted. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of suicide, but the testimony of the 16-year-old child caused suspicion to rise in the minds of many. M. J. Persons is a retired farmer, and to all appearances Mrs. Persons was happy, the mother of five children, three sons and two daughters. She was nearly 50 years old, and not always in good health and subject to fits of despondency. Before the Coroner's jury the son Solon testified that some weeks ago his mother had discovered his father in possession of a number of letters from another woman and that after that there had been frequent quarrels, while his father at times left home and remained away without explanation. Last Wednesday a reconciliation was effected, and since then his parents had been upon the best of terms. Suspicions that had been aroused assumed active form and a committee of surgeons, at the instance of Attorney-General Peters, went to the house to hold an examination of the wounds. The funeral procession was on its way to the cemetery but was stopped, the corpse taken out of the casket, and a thorough examination made. They found that there were two bullet holes through the head entering from opposite sides. The skull was also crushed as with a blunt instrument, and nose and one cheek bone also broken. After the examination the procession was allowed to continue to the grave and the remains were interred. The Sheriff was at once given a warrant for the arrest of Persons on a charge of murdering his wife and he is now confined in the county jail.

STREETS AND FACTORIES FLOODED.

Considerable Damage Done by the Heavy Rains in South Norwalk, Conn.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Sept. 17.—Great quantities of rain have fallen here the last forty-eight hours. The streets are flooded. Some factories have closed, as the boiler-rooms have been filled with water. That portion of Wilson Point extension, where the tracks pass under those of the consolidated railroad, just west of the center of the city, is several feet under water and traffic has been suspended for a time.

Louisiana's Cotton Crop Damaged.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Thomas S. Adams, Commissioner of Agriculture and President of the State Farmers' Alliance, is in receipt of a letter from Sinn Tanner, crop statistician of the order, which states that the cotton crop of Louisiana this year will be at least 15 per cent short of that harvested in 1889. He says: "I find that the crop has been much lowered both in quantity and quality below that of last year. From nearly every section there are complaints of rust and boll worms are reported in considerable numbers from the overflowed sections and many are resorting to the use of Paris green.

DO NOT LIKE THE SITE.

A Possibility the Commission Will Reconsider Its Vote.

DIRECTORS TO MAKE HASTE.

By Friday Morning They Are to Select a Director-General.

UNABLE TO MAKE UP THEIR MINDS.

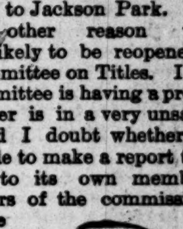
At a Meeting This Evening They Will Try to Reach a Conclusion.

POWERS OF LADY MANAGERS DISCUSSED.

There are strong indications that the National Commission will reconsider the vote by which Jackson Park and the Lake-Front were selected as a site for the Fair. There seems to be a great deal of dissatisfaction among the members of the commission over this matter, and a number of them expressed regret yesterday that they had ever voted for a dual site.

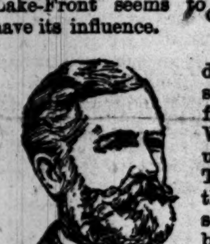
PRESIDENT PALMER.

"The Commissioners," said a prominent member of the National Board last evening, "have visited their constituents since they voted on that question and they find that the feeling is strongly against a dual site. I do not say that there is so very strong prejudice against either one of the sites, taken separately, but I know that a good many of the Commissioners do not feel that it is just the thing to go away down to Jackson Park. Another reason why this site question is likely to be reopened is the report of the Committee on Titles. I understand that the committee is having a pretty hard time. The matter is in a very unsatisfactory condition and I doubt whether the committee will be able to make a report that will be satisfactory to its own members let alone the members of the commission. I think the whole country would be much better pleased if the Fair were located on one site."



R. E. GOODELL, Commissioner for Colorado.

There seems to be no preference expressed by the members of the commission for any particular site, though one member indicated a slight preference for the West Side last evening. The unsatisfactory title to the Lake-Front seems to have its influence.



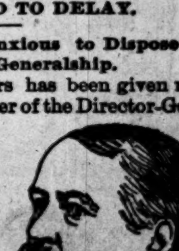
H. P. PLATT, Commissioner from Ohio.

The strongest prejudice against the dual site seems to come from the people of the West and the agricultural communities. The long delay in settling upon a location seems to have made a bad impression, and the members of the commission appear to desire a reopening of the question in order that it may be settled to the satisfaction of the public at large.

DON'T INTEND TO DELAY.

Commissioners Are Anxious to Dispose of the Director-Generalship.

The Board of Directors has been given notice to hasten in the matter of the Director-Generalship. It has been practically notified that its wishes will receive no consideration whatever unless it presents its nomination not later than Friday morning.



W. J. SEWELL, Commissioner for New Jersey.

The notification came, not from the commission as a body, but from the Executive Committee, which is to make the nomination to the commission.

The Executive Committee certainly acted promptly, as it was only appointed yesterday morning and acted yesterday afternoon after a conference with the committee of the local board.

J. D. BUTT, Commissioner for West Virginia.

The appointments were apparently most satisfactory, as they were received with applause on all sides.

They were as follows:

M. L. McDonald, Commissioner-at-Large, of California, Democrat.

R. C. Kerens, Commissioner-at-Large, of Missouri, Republican.

Henry Exall, Commissioner-at-Large, of Texas, Democrat.

P. A. B. Widener, Commissioner-at-Large, of Pennsylvania, Republican.

John T. Harris of Virginia.

B. B. Smalley of Vermont, Democrat.

E. B. Martindale of Indiana, Republican.

John Boyd Thacher of New York, Democrat.

Francis W. Breed of Massachusetts, Republican.

Euclid Martin of Nebraska, Democrat.

Reese R. Price of Kansas, Republican.

M. B. Harrison of Minnesota, Democrat.

James D. Butt of West Virginia, Republican.

Adlai T. Ewing of Illinois, Democrat.

William F. King of Iowa, Republican.

H. P. Platt of Ohio, Democrat.

L. McLaws of Georgia, Republican.

T. L. Williams of Tennessee, Democrat.

Joseph Hirst of Florida, Republican.

R. L. Saunders of Mississippi, Democrat.

L. H. Hershfield of Montana, Republican.

R. E. Goodell of Colorado, Democrat.

A. T. Britton of District of Columbus, Republican.

James A. McKenzie of Kentucky, Democrat.

The President, Republican, as Chairman of the committee by resolution of the commission adopted July 1, 1890.

Didn't Wait Long.

The first duty of the committee was to get to work on the Director-Generalship, and it did so promptly. It sent word to the Board of Directors and the Executive Committee responded for it with some others who happened to be in the vicinity. These were:

A. T. EWING, Commissioner from Illinois.

Directors Kirkman, Keyes, Butterworth, Young, Palmer, Bryan, Gage, McNally, Waller, Baker, Jeffery, Hutchinson, and Peck.

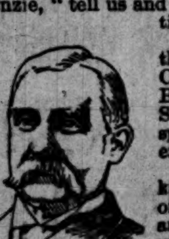
President Palmer of the National body presided, and President Gage of the local body sat beside him.

The National body wanted a candidate for Director-General presented to it, but the local body had not decided on one.

The commission, however, was impatient. "If you can't agree on any one," said Mr.

McKenzie, "tell us and let us make the selection."

That seemed to be the sense of all the Commissioners, P. A. B. Widener, B. B. Smalley and others speaking, to the same effect.



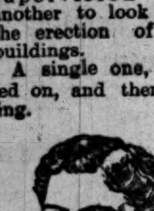
R. B. MARTINDALE, Commissioner from Indiana.

Smalley wanted to know if two executive officers were wanted, and Bryan replied it might be necessary to have one for general supervision and another to look after the erection of the buildings.

A single one, however, was finally decided on, and then the matter became interesting.

It was an executive meeting, but enough leaked out to show that the commission was decidedly impatient and would not wait a moment.

The time was then set for 9 a. m. Friday as the last moment that will be given the local board.



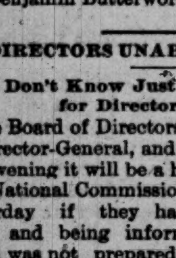
FRANCIS W. BREED, Commissioner from Massachusetts.

At the present time there are five candidates in the field — or rather five candidates mentioned. They are George R. Davis, Gen. Hastings, Col. McKenzie, Benjamin Butterworth, and A. E. Stevenson.

DIRECTORS UNABLE TO AGREE.

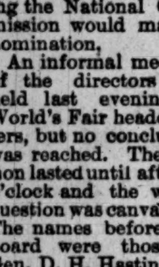
They Don't Know Just Yet Whom to Select for Director-General.

The Board of Directors has not agreed upon a Director-General, and from the indications last evening it will be a hard matter to settle. The National Commission asked the directors yesterday if they had a name to propose, and being informed that the local board was not prepared to make a recommendation stated that if a name was not presented by Friday morning the National Commission would make a nomination.



W. R. L. SANDERS, Commissioner from Mississippi.

An informal meeting of the directors was held last evening at World's Fair headquarters, but no conclusion was reached. The session lasted until after 11 o'clock and the whole question was canvassed. The names before the board were those of Gen. D. H. Hastings of Pennsylvania, Gen. E. A. Stevenson and Col. George R. Davis of Illinois, Col. McKenzie of Kentucky, and Benjamin Butterworth of Ohio. There was a conflict of opinion and President Gage said the matter would come before the directors at their meeting tonight. None of those present last evening would venture an opinion as to whether they thought the board would be able to reach a conclusion. It may be possible that the directors will be compelled to report to the commission that they are unable to agree. Among those present were President Gage, Mr. Bryan, Mr. Jeffery, Mr. Young, Mr. Peck, Mr. Nathan, Mr. Palmer, and Mr. Kirkman.



A. T. BRITTON, Commissioner from the District of Columbia.

PLAIN TALK TO THE LADIES.

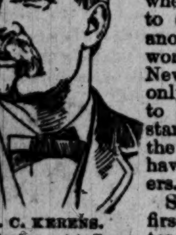
The Commission Discusses Their Powers in the Board—Salaries Fixed.

The Board of Lady Managers occupied a good deal of the time of the commission when it met in the Council Chamber yesterday, and the ladies had a narrow escape from having certain arbitrary rules laid down for them.

The matter came up when the report of the Committee on Rules, Bylaws, and Regulations was read. That report circumscribed their powers materially, the most objectionable clause being the following:

> No lady manager or alternate shall receive compensation for more than ten days during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1891, or for more than twenty days during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, nor for more than twenty days during the time intervening between June 30, 1892, and May 1, 1893, and from and after the last mentioned date.

And what a row it did raise!



R. C. KERENS, Commissioner at Large, Missouri.

The discussion over the rights and duties of alternates which had preceded it was nowhere. It was one thing to deal with men, but another to deal with women, and Sewell of New Jersey was the only man who seemed to have the nerve to stand up and say that the women should not have unrestricted powers.

Smith of New Jersey first brought the matter to the attention of the commission by moving that the length of their meetings be made thirty, fifty, and fifty days, respectively, instead of ten, twenty, and twenty as provided for in the report of the committee.

White of New Mexico wanted the last part of that section stricken out, leaving it to the ladies to decide how long they should be in session.

Harris of Virginia moved that the last session be from March 1, 1893, but the motion was lost.

Grover of Virginia wanted the matter referred to the Executive Committee to the extent that the Board of Lady Managers should be in session under its direction.

M. L. M'DONALD, Commissioner-at-Large, California.

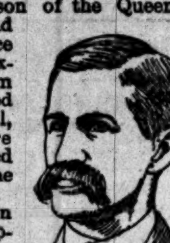
Sewell's Outspoken Sentiments.

Sewell of New Jersey showed his hardihood. He did not believe in giving the ladies unrestricted powers and he did not hesitate to say so. He said:

> As it is now there is no practical limit to the period in which the lady managers can sit, not alone this year or next year, but all during the period from now until the Exhibition. It has been estimated that the meetings of the lady managers would cost about $1,000 a day, and that the appropriation available for this commission up to the end of the fiscal year, 1891, which includes all the expenses of the Treasury Department besides that of the commission in the transportation of Government exhibits, etc., is $200,000. If this commission allows an unlimited number of meetings of the lady managers they will have a quorum one-half the time.
>
> Now, Mr. President, it seems to me that we are carried away here by our gallantry in the matter, a large number of us. So far as I am concerned, personally, I have no hesitation in saying that I have no sympathy with getting women into the management of such affairs as this. I have an old-fashioned idea that woman is best in her own household, and that when you take her away from that and transfer her thousands of miles to look after business of this character, you are destroying, to some extent, the welfare and happiness of some families. I have not appointed a lady Commissioner. I will, of course, as a matter of duty to this board, if it insists upon it. But I think somebody should say: "Here, there ought to be a limit;" and that simply because we are gallant gentlemen we ought not to be jumping at any string that is pulled in the interest of any aggregation or congregation of ladies in connection with this commission. If my friend from New Jersey, my colleague (Mr. Smith), had not doubled the number originally intended of these ladies, we would all have acquiesced in one from each State. But as soon as the proposition is made everybody proceeds to vote upon it; and I have no doubt today that if some gentleman would get up in his seat here and propose three or more from each State he would probably get the majority vote of this commission. [Laughter.] Now, I know that it is an unpopular thing for me to do to arise in my seat as a member of this commission and criticise this action. But I feel it my duty to do so, and I call your attention to the fact that a lady board, no matter how bright and intelligent and good it may be—and all women are fine to me—will sit just as long as it possibly can, and will talk just as much as it can, and if we are up to furnish official stenographers it will use up all the printing paper in this country almost with its record.
>
> I merely arise, Mr. President, to suggest that it is necessary to look into the economy of this matter, and to state that your appropriation is $200,000, out of which must come the Treasurer's expenses, and unless there is some limit with these meetings you will have a deficit in the amount of money that you can expend between now and the end of next year.

The Board of Lady Managers.

Dr. Frances Dickinson of the Queen Isabella Association and Mrs. M. R. M. Wallace of the Woman's Auxiliary, both of whom were in hearing, looked sharply at Mr. Sewell, but his remarks were nevertheless received with applause by the commission.



HENRY EXALL, Commissioner at Large, Texas.

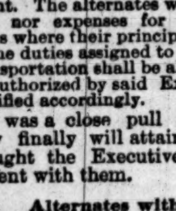
But the commission did not stand by its applause. The matter was finally left to the Executive Committee, and Mr. Massey was given the duty of drafting the new article. It is as follows:

> Art. 11. The Board of Lady Managers—The Board of Lady Managers shall consist of two women from each State and Territory and the District of Columbia, to be nominated by the Commissioners from the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia, and one woman to be nominated by each of the Commissioners at large, and to be appointed by the President, and also nine women of the City of Chicago to be appointed by the President, as has been expressly determined by the order of the commission, and a like number of alternates to be appointed in the same manner as principals, and to assume the duties and functions of such principals only when the principals are unable to attend. The principals and alternates will be duly commissioned in accordance with the directions of the commission. The Board of Lady Managers shall be convened by order of the Executive Committee of the commission at such time and place as it may deem proper, and when so convened shall organize by the election of a Chairman and Secretary. The duration of such first meeting, as well as the number and duration of each subsequent meeting, shall be wholly under the control and be determined by said Executive Committee. The members of this board shall be officers of the commission and they shall perform such duties in connection with the woman's department of the Exposition as said Executive Committee shall prescribe. Each member of the board shall be entitled to receive $6 per day for each day's necessary absence from home engaged in the work of the commission, and also the expenses of transportation actually incurred by her on that account. The alternates will receive no compensation nor expenses for transportation except in cases where their principals are unable to attend to the duties assigned to them. No expenses for transportation shall be allowed except the travel be authorized by said Executive Committee and certified accordingly.

It was a close pull for the women, but they finally will attain their end, as it is thought the Executive Committee will be lenient with them.

Alternates with No Salaries.

The only other question that took up much time in the consideration of the bylaws was Art. 3, defining the powers of the Alternate Commissioner. It is as follows:



P. A. B. WIDENER, Commissioner-at-Large, Pennsylvania.

> An Alternate Commissioner shall assume and perform the duties of the Commissioner whose alternate he is only when his principal may be unable to attend the meetings of the commission. Service upon standing or special committees shall not devolve upon an Alternate Commissioner whose principal is a member thereof, unless in the absence of such principal service upon such committee shall be specially assigned to the alternate by the commission.

Although defined in that section, the question of their duties really comes up under the section defining the duties of the Committee on Legislation.

McKenzie of Kentucky wanted the alternates made members of that committee, but Cochran of Texas held that alternates could only follow their principals and act in their absence.

Martindale of Indiana thought it would strengthen the committee, but St. Clair of West Virginia raised the question of paying them. Tousley of Minnesota said it was not a question of sentiment but of law. According to his interpretation an alternate was "nil" when his principal was present.

Lindsay of Kentucky held that it was a matter of recognition more than anything else; that it simply gave them the power to act, not to draw pay.

The alternates were finally added to the committee, it being explained that no salaries as yet attached to the position.

The question of salaries was another matter that came up. The salaries fixed were: President, $12,000; Secretary, $10,000; Director-General, $15,000. The salary of Secretary was the only thing that created any disturbance. Gregg of Arkansas wanted the President paid the salary of a Senator, the Secretary the salary of a Representative, and the Director-General the salary of a Chief Justice.

Then the question of the salary of the Secretary of the local board was brought up. It was understood to be $12,500, and Smith of New Jersey thought the commission could afford to pay as much as the local board. It being explained, however, that Secretary Butterworth's salary was only $10,000, the article was adopted.

The Committee on Titles and Local Facilities asked for more time to make a complete report, satisfactory answers not having been received from the Illinois Central and South Park Commissioners for a complete report. It was granted and the Commissioners adjourned until 10 today.

WANTS THE FAIR SITE REJECTED.

The San Francisco Board of Trade Objects to the One Chosen.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—At the annual session of the Pacific Coast Board of Commerce this afternoon resolutions were adopted requesting the Senators and Representatives in Congress to use their influence to so modify the provisions of the Tariff bill that it may not unjustly discriminate against the Pacific coast merchants. While three months is ample time for shipments made prior to Aug. 1 to arrive at Atlantic ports, it is not so at Pacific ports, and it would be only just if the present tariff should be continued to cover all shipments prior to Aug. 1, 1890, without regard to time of arrival.

Mr. Cushing introduced the following resolution, which was adopted:

WHEREAS, In selecting Chicago as the site of the World's Columbian Exposition the Representatives of all the States in Congress intended that equal advantages should be extended to exhibits from every portion of the United States; and

WHEREAS, The selection of a double or divided site by the Commissioners at Chicago would result in relegating the agricultural States to a secondary and unfavorable location; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Pacific Board of Commerce earnestly protests against the site selected, and calls upon the National Commissioners now assembled at Chicago to refuse to accept such site in the form proposed.

M. M. Estee followed with an address on "Reciprocity." By request of a delegate from the State Viticultural Committee a resolution was unanimously adopted requesting that the provisions of the Sweet Wine bill be restored to the pending Revenue bill.

The Portland delegation introduced a resolution asking for a recount of the State of Oregon. The delegation claims that the State lost a Congressional Representative by the improper taking of the census.

More Thanks for the Commissioners.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The upper floor of our new building was solicited for the use of the World's Fair Commissioners and we agreed to let it for a sum much less than the cost of fitting it up. Having subscribed $5,000 to the World's Fair we were willing to do even more, and hence fitted up the floor with tables and chairs, speaker's desk, electric light, besides other things. It was not our fault that there was noise in the building. Our entire business cannot stop even to accommodate the World's Fair Commissioners, nor was it contemplated that it would. We did not rent it as a "hall," but as the seventh floor of a business block. We wish, therefore, to thank the Commissioners for giving us the pleasure of their company even for a few days and to offer this explanation for any noises or disturbances and to assure them like loyal Chicagoans that we will do all in our power to aid in the good work in which they are so unselfishly engaged—of making the World's Fair a distinguished success. Illinois Central Stockholders to Meet.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 17.—Dissatisfied stockholders of the Illinois Central railroad living hereabouts will hold a public meeting on the Hartford Board of Trade rooms tomorrow morning.

BRACKETT AT THE HEAD.

MASSACHUSETTS' GOVERNOR RENOMINATED BY THE REPUBLICANS.

A Full State Ticket Placed in the Field at the State Convention Held in Boston Yesterday—Merwin Again Chosen for Governor of Connecticut—New Hampshire Republicans Meet at Concord—Congressional Nominations—General Political News.

Governor..........J. Q. A. BRACKETT
Lieutenant-Governor..WILLIAM M. HAILE
Secretary of the Commonwealth..W. M. OLIN
Treasurer..........GEORGE A. MARDEN
Auditor..........J. HENRY GOULD
Attorney-General..ALBERT E. PILLSBURY

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The above is the ticket which the Massachusetts Republicans put in the field today. Unanimity, absolute unanimity, characterized the nominations of Brackett, Haile, and Marden. Mr. Pillsbury had 1,000 of the 1,200 votes for Attorney-General, swamping the present incumbent, Andrew J. Watterman of Pittsfield. Maj. Gould, who is a former Chairman of the State Committee, defeated Ladd of Springfield, the old-time Auditor, by less than 50 votes, and Olin secured the Secretaryship by a majority of 57 over Willard Howland of Chelsea.

This fight over the Secretaryship was the only real one in the convention, and it is the first defeat which Editor and Speaker Barrett has received since he began his political career. Although Olin is only about 40 years old he has been styled the candidate of the old fogies, and a brisk warfare has been waged upon his candidacy even up to the moment of balloting. His own campaign has been a quiet one, and he won, having nine votes more than the necessary number. He is a newspaper man of long experience, served all through the war in the ranks, and has passed the last ten years of his life as private secretary to Governors Talbot and Long, Senator Dawes, and Collector Beard. All the nominations were cheerfully made unanimous.

Congressman Greenhalge's speech was even brighter and wittier than is his wont, and it "took" immensely. Here is a paragraph which called out rounds of cheers: "The period from 1860 to 1884—from Buchanan to Cleveland—is the grandest in the history of the United States, stretching like an arch of triumph and a bow of promise blended and combined, which two Democratic Presidents, one at either end, like a pair of sullen caryatids, are compelled by the irony of fate to support and to make more brilliant by contrast."

The convention was called to order shortly after 11 o'clock this morning in Tremont Temple, and J. O. Burdett was made Temporary Chairman. The usual committees were then appointed.

A novel feature of the platform arrangement was the placing thereupon of three ballot-boxes placarded respectively "Attorney-General," "Auditor," and "Secretary of State." There being no contest for the head of the ticket, Gov. Brackett and Lieut.-Gov. Haile were renominated by acclamation. Ballots for other State offices, the nominations, in all of which are contested, were deposited at one time, the voting being done by counties.

The Committee on Permanent Organization reported the Hon. Frederick T. Greenhalge as President and the usual long list of Vice-Presidents-at-Large.

Mr. Greenhalge spoke for an hour and was frequently applauded, his reference to Speaker Reed and the Pan-American policy receiving exceptional favor.

C. W. Clifford of New Bedford in a brief speech nominated J. Q. A. Brackett for Governor, and the nomination was make by acclamation. Senator Coffin of Boston then presented the name of William H. Haile as candidate for Lieutenant Governor. The convention renominated Mr. Haile by a unanimous vote.

Thomas W. Bicknell then presented the name of George A. Marden for State Treasurer, and he was nominated by acclamation. The Committee on Resolutions, through its Chairman, F. P. Goulding, presented the platform, which was adopted unanimously.

The platform expresses unqualified approval of and confidence in the administration of President Harrison; devotes a paragraph to praise of the able manner in which the affairs of the Department of State have been conducted by Secretary Blaine; and another indorsing the members of the Cabinet. Speaker Reed is heartily thanked for his course in the House and the work of the majority is indorsed as strongly as the actions of the minority are condemned; the McKinley bill, the Lodge Election bill, and the Disability Pension bill are mentioned as b ing especially worthy of praise. A plank is devoted to calling on the Senate to pass the Lodge bill. The party is earnestly pledged to support the principles of civil-service reform, and calls on the President to extend the principles of the Civil-Service law wherever practicable and instructs the Representatives of the State in Congress to support the Civil-Service Commission by such appropriations as may be required for its greatest efficiency.

MERWIN RENOMINATED.

Connecticut's Governor Again at the Head of the Republican Ticket.

Governor..........S. E. MERWIN
Lieutenant-Governor..GEORGE A. BOWEN
Secretary of State.......GEORGE P. McLEAN
Treasurer..........STEVENS HENRY
Controller..........LYMAN S. CATLIN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 17.—The Republican State Convention reconvened in the Hyperion Theater at 10 o'clock this morning, with Temporary Chairman ex-Lieut.-Gov. Cook presiding, and with 1,500 people present. United States Senator Platt was made Permanent Chairman. Following the organization Senator Platt addressed the delegates in a ringing speech. At one portion he referred in turn to Blaine, Reed, and Harrison. The applause which followed each name showed just the position in which each stands with Connecticut Republicans. Mr. Blaine's name created a perfect furor; Reed's name came in second, and Harrison's third.

Nominations were next in order. The name of Samuel E. Merwin of New Haven was presented for Governor, and Gen. Dwight of Hartford moved the renomination by acclamation of the ticket of two years ago, but the motion fell flat. An informal ballot was proceeded with.

The informal ballot resulted: Merwin, 398; Bulkeley, 51. The ballot was made formal and Mr. Merwin was declared the nominee amid great applause.

George Augustus Bowen of Woodstock was nominated for Lieutenant-Governor, George P. McLean of Hartford for Secretary of State, Stevens Henry of Rockville for Treasurer, and Lyman S. Catlin of Bridgeport for Controller—all by acclamation.

The platform adopted cordially indorses the Administration of President Harrison; declares in favor of the principles of protection, and congratulates the country upon the passage of the Tariff bill by the Senate with the amendment which establishes as one of the features of the Republican party the extension of our trade with other nation; advocates the passage of a National Election law, and congratulates the Republicans of the House upon their vindication of the right of the majority to rule.

NEW HAMPSHIRE REPUBLICANS.

They Nominate Hiram A. Tuttle for Governor on the First Ballot.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 17.—The State Republican Convention met today. Joshua G. Ballows was elected Permanent Chairman.

Hiram A. Tuttle of Pittsfield and Joseph A. Walker were named for Governor, and on the first ballot Tuttle was nominated.

Senator Chandler reported the resolutions, which were adopted, after which the convention adjourned.

The platform reaffirms allegiance to the Republican party, which stands for the protection of American citizens of every class and color; of American capital and labor from the ruinous competition of the Old World; of American homes from the curse of intemperance and illiteracy; of American commerce from the rivalry of subsidized foreign ship-owners; of the American ballot-box from the force and fraud of political desperadoes, and for the protection of the Government and the preservation of the Union. President Harrison's Administration is heartily indorsed as clean, consistent, and capable. The Republicans in Congress are applauded for endeavoring to redeem the party's pledges. Greeting is sent to Speaker Reed for his genius and courage, to which are largely due the rescue of the House from the control of an unscrupulous and reckless minority. The McKinley bill is approved as one which will secure to the producer the home market, which is the best in the world. The Pension bill is also approved and the veterans congratulated that their enemy, Grover Cleveland, is no longer in a position to defeat the just and generous purpose of a grateful Nation. While the fullest protection to American home industry against the products resulting from starvation wages in European and Asiatic countries is favored, the platform also strongly advocates as entirely consistent with such protection the extension of our trade by liberal arrangements for reciprocity with the nations of the Western hemisphere.

The platform demands the speedy enactment into law of the Federal Election bill as a mild, just, and most necessary measure for the protection of the ballot-box from the assaults of those who, by assassination and intimidation, vote-stealing and false counting, have nullified the National Constitution, outraged humanity and justice, and made the elections in many Southern districts mere arrangements for registering the will of a lawless, brutal, and audacious autocracy which controls the Democratic party in that section. The platform welcomes to the Union the intelligent, thriving, and progressive communities that have recently been elevated to Statehood.

COLORADO REPUBLICANS.

They Meet at Denver and the Two Factions Have Lively Times.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—At 10 o'clock this morning the Republican State Convention was called to order by Mayor Londoner of Denver, Chairman of the Central Committee.

Then came the first tussle between the two wings of the party, the gang and the smashers, names which have been tacitly adopted. The gang was triumphant and elected Alexander Gullett of Gunnison County Temporary Chairman, thus securing a majority in the Committee on Credentials, which was appointed by the Chair. The convention then adjourned until 2 o'clock, when it reconvened and again adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Ex-Senator Hill and the Republican newspaper lead the smashers, while the gang is in the Teller-Wolcott combination, controlling nearly all of the rich State and county offices.

The primaries in Denver last Saturday were fearful exhibitions of the great American privilege of getting in as many votes as possible so long as you are not caught. The result was a contest in every ward but one. Chairman Graham of the County Committee seated fifty of the smasher contestants on his own authority, thus giving them a vote on Temporary Chairman. John E. Leet was selected. He got a heavy hammer and a block of wood to drown gang speakers, and appointed a smasher committee which unseated every gang delegate except from one ward on the charge of ballot-box stuffing, etc. Riot is the only word to describe the scene that followed while the gang delegates were withdrawing from the hall. They held another convention, which Chairman Graham also opened, and named delegates. The two sets of delegates are applying for seats in the State convention. That is the conundrum confronting the Credentials Committee. The gang claims Graham's allowing contested delegates to vote for Temporary Chairman was unprecedented. The smashers claim the end justified the means and that all good Republicans were behind them.

SETTLED THE SUFFRAGE QUESTION.

The Mississippi Convention Sure to Adopt the Committee Report.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 17.—The suffrage question may be regarded as settled as far as Mississippi is concerned. The voting today developed the fact that the convention stands almost two to one in favor of the committee report, and its adoption by an emphatic majority is no longer a question of doubt. All of the following four sections of the report were adopted by overwhelming majorities:

Sec. 1. All elections by the people should be by ballot.

Sec. 2. Every male inhabitant of this State, except idiots, and insane persons, and Indians not taxed, who is a citizen of the United States, 21 years old and upwards, who has resided in this State two years and one year in the election district in which he offers to vote, and who is duly registered as provided in Sec. 3 of this article, and who has never been convicted of bribery, burglary, theft, arson, obtaining money or goods under false pretenses, shall be entitled to vote after six months' residence in the election district if otherwise qualified.

Sec. 3. The Legislature shall provide by law for the registration of all persons entitled to vote at any election, and all persons offering to register shall take the following oath: "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I am 21 years old and that I will have resided in this State two years and —— election district of —— county one year next preceding the ensuing the election" (or, if a minister of the Gospel, two years' residence in the State and six months' in said election district), "and am now in good faith a resident in the same, and that I am not disqualified from voting by reason of having been convicted of any crime named in the Constitution of this State as a disqualification to be an elector; that I will truly answer all questions propounded to me concerning my antecedents so far as they relate to my right to vote and also as to my residence before my citizenship in this district; that I will faithfully support the Constitution of the United States and of the State of Mississippi, and will bear true faith and allegiance to the same."

Sec. 4. A uniform poll tax of $2 is hereby imposed on every male inhabitant of the State between the ages of 21 and 60 years; not persons who are deaf and dumb or blind. The payment of the whole poll tax imposed is declared to be a qualification of a voter.

When Sec. 5 was reached the convention struck a snag. Amendment after amendment was made and a long debate followed. The section provides that every qualified elector shall be able to read any section of the Constitution of this State, or he shall be able to understand the same when read to him, or give a reasonable interpretation thereof.

The convention adjourned at 6 p. m. without action on the amendment.

EX-GOV. FOSTER NOMINATED.

He Is Selected for Congress by the Eighth Ohio Republicans.

FINDLAY, O., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Ex-Gov. Charles Foster was today unanimously nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the Eighth Ohio District, and if he accepts, as his friends assert he must, one of the greatest political battles of the year will be fought in the five counties forming the Findlay district. Foster is popular at home, and has carried this district repeatedly, notwithstanding its Democratic plurality. That he can do it again there is little doubt. Especially will he make a great effort this year, as his political future in a measure hangs upon the result. There is much dissatisfaction among the Democrats over their own Congressional nomination.

Changed Its Politics.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—A sensation has been created in political circles throughout this State by the publication of an open letter from Capt. E. L. Parker, member of the State Executive Committee of the Farmers' Alliance. In the letter Capt. Parker denounces the official State organ of the alliance for having, as he alleges, betrayed the State organization into the hands of the Democrats. Without authority from the Executive Committee or the organization, the Farmers' Advocate, owned by the alliance and published at Charlestown, Jefferson County, has placed the full Democratic ticket at its masthead and has come out openly in advocacy of free trade.

Butterworth Declines a Renomination.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Benjamin Butterworth, Congressman from the First Ohio District, has positively declined to allow the use of his name as a candidate for renomination. He was petitioned by over 100 of the leading members of the Republican party to accept a renomination, but in a formal letter, dated at Chicago the 15th inst., declines the honor. The convention assembles in this city tomorrow, and will in all probability nominate the Hon. Bellamy Stever in Butterworth's stead. John A. Caldwell will be renominated as Congressman on the Republican ticket in the Second District.

South Carolina Republican Convention.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 17.—After a hard fight in the State Executive Committee the Republican State Convention was called to order at 9:25 o'clock tonight, with Chairman Brayton of the Executive Committee in the chair. Then a struggle for the Temporary Chairmanship began. After much wrangling and confusion ex-Congressman Robert Smalls was elected by about 20 majority. The color line was then brought to bear on the election of Smalls, and the colored men seem to have carried the points so far. A big fight will be on the permanent organization tomorrow. There are only about fifteen whites as delegates out of about 200 in attendance.

Demands of Illinois Miners.

DECATUR, Ill., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Coal-Miners' Union of the State has a schedule of questions which it is submitting to all nominees for Senator and Representative of every party. Those signing the pledges agree to work for the Australian ballot system, safety of life and health of miners, semi-monthly pay-days by all organizations, the abolishment of the truck system, legal examination of mine bosses and engineers, just weighing, for a law that will prevent corporations from hiring armed men to kill dissatisfied employés, and against party caucus control of votes.

Michigan Farmers' Alliance.

LANSING, Mich., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Although there are thousands of members of the Farmers' Alliance in Michigan the order has never had a formal State organization. Today 175 delegates met here and organized the State Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union. A. E. Cole of Fowlerville was elected President and J. M. Potter of Lansing Secretary.

Legislative Nominations at Alton.

ALTON, Ill., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Republican County Convention (Forty-first Senatorial District) met here today. The legislative nominations were W. F. S. Haddy of Edwardsville, present incumbent, for State Senator; Charles Eckert of Collinsville and William McKittrick of Olive Township, Staunton Post-Office, for Representatives.

A Blow at Lotteries.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 17.—In the Constitutional Convention today the report of the Committee on Rules was finally adopted and the President announced his committees.

Gov. Buckner introduced a resolution in seven sections, which he asked should be referred to the General Committee of Legislation. The first clause relates to lotteries and provides against the issuing of a license to lotteries in any form after the adoption of this Constitution and for the death of all the former under which they now have existence.

NEW YORK UNDER WATER

HEAVIEST RAINFALL YESTERDAY EVER KNOWN IN THE CITY.

Building Operations Paralyzed—Sewers Destroyed, Cellars Filled, Boathouses and Docks Wrecked, and Water from Six Inches to a Foot Deep in the Streets—New York's Health Officers Alarmed—Demands for a Recount of the City—Other Matters of General Interest.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—[Special.]—New York was thoroughly soaked again today, and the people were depressed and disgusted. It was the eleventh day of the storm and the seventh of continuous rain. The oldest inhabitant has no recollection of such a long drawn out period of wetness as this. The fall of rain is unprecedented in twenty years in this city. Sergt. Dunn of the Signal Service has stopped predicting and taken to measuring. He said that during an interval of twelve minutes this morning .40 of an inch—nearly half an inch—of water fell. Since Sunday morning last 4.47 inches of rain have fallen, and from appearances the end is not yet.

New York is the center of the storm area, which is very small. It is wet in Philadelphia and as far north as Albany, but 100 miles west there is no rain, and south of Philadelphia everything is as dry as punk. Boston has had no rain in ten days. Sergt. Dunn explains that New York is between two areas of high pressure and moisture of both is being squeezed out upon this city. One storm is pushing eastward and one at sea is propped against it. When the pressure is broken the storm will go whirling off to sea.

The storm paralyzed building operations, destroyed sewers, flooded the river fronts, filled cellars, wrecked boathouses, smashed docks, stopped all outdoor work, and made everyone uncomfortable. The army of working people who leave their homes before 7 o'clock in the morning were caught in a terrific fall of rain, and splashed through the same kind of weather to their homes in the evening. The water came straight down in torrents, as though the bottom had dropped out of every cloud above the city. Streets became streams from six inches to a foot deep and umbrellas, rubber coats, and overshoes afforded no protection, so frightful was the deluge. Extra trains were run on all the elevated railways and the only conveyances that were not overcrowded were the open cars of the surface lines. Every station of the elevated railways was choked with people, who struggled, and pushed, and tore each other's clothes in endeavoring to get on the trains.

This evening 500 or 600 people were jammed on the stairs and platforms of the city-hall station of the Third avenue elevated. The passengers on incoming trains had to fight desperately to get through the pack, and it was a battle no woman could go through. The biggest and most densely packed crowd of the day was from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock in the morning on this side of the Brooklyn bridge. Policemen, bridge-helpers, and train employés tried to break the blockade. The crowd was like a wall and the women were laughed at for their pains. Every now and then a woman fainted. In front of the bridge entrance the street was covered by a mill-race of water three or four inches deep. Realizing that it was their only means of escape, the crowd began fording the street. Occasionally a woman sat down and a dozen men plunged gallantly to her assistance.

From Canal to the Battery west the street was a sea and passengers coming from New Jersey had many mishaps in crossing the dirty pond. An expressman at the foot of West street carried people across in a wagon for five cents each. He hauled ten at a time. The frequent blockades of trucks and wagons on West street were taken advantage of by people coming and going to the ferries. It was a novel and exhilarating sight to see men, boys, women, and girls clambering over the wagons like cats. Water forced off sewer-caps at many places and deluged bystanders. At Murray and West streets a sewer broke and the water rushed out like a cataract, flooding a saloon. Two feet of water poured into the barroom. Stock in cellars in West street was totally destroyed. Sound steamers were delayed four hours by the rain and fog and Hudson River boats were all behind time. Harlem River was higher than for years and hundreds of boat-houses were submerged. Except at morning and evening the streets were deserted.

On the south shore of Staten Island property was much damaged. Four feet of water surrounded the S. S. White company factory at Princess Bay and sixty-five employés were rowed one and a half miles to and from their work. Scores of sail and rowboats were lost. Reports from New Jersey and Pennsylvania say that owing to the continued rain the fall fruit crops are totally destroyed by rot and mildew. The apple crop of Western New York has suffered in the same way.

NEW YORK'S DEATH RATE.

The Decided Increase Alarms the Health Department.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Mayor Grant today received a communication from President Wilson of the Board of Health in reference to the death rate of the city as well as to the recent census. The report sets forth that between the months of March and December, 1888, the Health Department took a census of the population of this city living in tenement houses occupied by three or more families with the following result: 2,390 tenement houses contained 237,972 families; population, 1,093,701, or an average of 33.76 to each house. Between January and July of this year a careful inspection of the tenement houses was made. According to the estimate of 1888 there should have been July 1, 1890, in tenement houses 1,259.788 people. The estimate of the lodging-house population is 12,000, and this with the number of people under the control of the Commissioners of Charities and Correction—23,556—would make a total of 1,295,344, leaving only 218,157 persons living in hotels, dwellings, and first-class apartments. The Bureau of Vital Statistics estimated the population of the city July 1 to be 1,622,018, or 108,514 more than the census enumerators did. If the census figures are correct the death rate of the city for 1889 has been increased from 25.19 to 26.76, and this, of course, would make it necessary for the department to readjust the death rate of each year since 1880.

Sept. 15 and 16 President Wilson and the sanitary policemen of the Second Ward made a careful enumeration of the streets, numbers of houses, and names of persons therein, and found a total census of 1,196 persons, or 274 more than the United States census enumerators found. This is an increase of 29.71 per cent. In view of these facts and of the compiled figures submitted by the Board of Health, President Wilson asks the Mayor to call for a recount as asked for by the board at its meeting of yesterday.

Mayor Grant also received a communication from Superintendent Porter at Washington in response to one sent him last week asking for more complete information. Mr. Porter says that just now it is impossible to give a classification of the city's population by age and sex. The report, Mr. Porter says, will be ready in about a week.

The Mayor says that in view of these circumstances he will take no action on President Wilson's communication until he hears again from Superintendent Porter.

Attempted Murder and Suicide.

Henry Possell attempted to shoot his son Albert while he was being married to Miss Mary Tierney in St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, Bramhall and Ocean avenues, Jersey City. One shot was fired. The bullet grazed the head of the groom and was buried deep in the altar. Men rushed forward and disarmed the excited father, but allowed him to leave the church unmolested and still carrying his revolver. Then the ceremony was resumed and completed. Possell, after leaving the church, went to his home and attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself through the head, but was prevented by a hired man. The bride and her parents are Catholics and the groom and his parents are German Lutherans. The father of the groom was opposed to the marriage because of the difference of creed.

The Hotel Vendome Mystery.

The mystery which envelopes the disappearance of a tin box containing $17,000 from the safe of the Hotel Vendome has not been cleared up. The alleged sufferers, Messrs. G. H. Carlin and B. Saunders of Chicago, have begun suit against Mr. Plant, proprietor of the hotel, for the alleged value of the contents of the box. Chief-Clerk Whiteman, to whom Saunders claims he gave the box Monday, now makes the startling statement that he does not remember that the box was given to him, and that, in fact, he now believes it was not returned. Proprietor Plant told a reporter the box had been found by one of the cleaning women. It was found on the back-stairs, on the landing of the third floor. He said the finding of the box had given them a clew, upon which the detectives were working, but refused to state the nature of the clew.

Another European Capitalist Scheme.

Stories have been told among commercial men for several days that have come principally from the cotton-growing States that the committee of the National Alliance, with headquarters in Montgomery, Ala., had agreed with a syndicate of European capitalists to advance $32 a bale on 2,000,000 bales of cotton at a yearly interest of 4 per cent to farmers. It was said the farmers would be allowed to store their cotton and on the warehouse receipts the advance arranged for will be made, while the farmer will have the privilege of selling the cotton at any time within twelve months. Members and officers of the Cotton Exchange say it would be almost impossible to withdraw 2,000,000 bales from the market, and that it would prove to be more difficult than any syndicate ever dreamed of to prevent the Southern planter from selling his crop for a year.

Fire in a Theater.

There was a somewhat exciting finale to the last act of the "Lilliputians" at Niblo's Garden tonight. The upper proscenium box caught fire from a wire connected with the calcium light that was being thrown upon the stage. The blaze started in the curtain of the box in full view of the audience. People jumped from their seats and for a time there was more or less of a rush for the exits, but the ushers managed to restore order and the audience got out without a panic. An usher threw a fire grenade and put out the fire.

An Honest Man from Chicago.

John Feeney of Chicago, while landing from La Normandie a day or so ago, attempted with his wife to smuggle about $1,000 worth of dress trimmings past the inspectors. His intentions were discovered and the Deputy Collector remarked that he had intended to smuggle the goods. He explained that he and his wife kept a millinery store in Chicago and on leaving Paris, after shipping a large quantity of goods home, saw the trimmings offered at a bargain, and spent all the money they had on them. As they had no money to pay duties they resolved to smuggle them. When this confession in all its frankness was heard by Mr. Phelps he remarked: "Well, Mr. Feeney, you are the first honest smuggler I have met this year." The goods will be confiscated.

Two Ocean Racers Start Out.

Another ocean race between the speedy transatlantic liners—the City of New York of the Inman Line and the Teutonic of the White Star Line—was started today, and the two big vessels left this city for the other side of the Atlantic within sight of each other. The City of New York left her pier on the North River at 7:06 o'clock, and at 8:36 crossed the bar and began her race across the ocean. At 7:35 the hawser which held the Teutonic to the pier was cast off and the big steamer backed slowly into the river. She was off quarantine station at 8:20, Sandy Hook twenty-five minutes later, and at 8 o'clock, twenty-one minutes after her rival, she crossed the bar.

Has Purchased the Colorado Midland.

The announcement was made today that the Atchison company had bought the control of the Colorado Midland and would probably assume the management of the property at the annual meeting, which is to be held at Colorado Springs Oct. 6. It is said that the price paid for the Colorado Midland stock was $30 per share, of which $10 per share has already been paid in cash. The Colorado Midland operates 274 miles of road, the main line running from Colorado Springs, Colo., to Newcastle, Colo., 234 miles, and has branches to Aspen, Spring Gulch, and Arkansas Junction.

New York Notes.

The New York and New Haven railroad intends to start an ocean steamship line with its American terminus at New Haven, where it has purchased extensive wharfage property.

According to the estimate of the Police Commissioners of New York the cost to the city of the coming election under the new law will be $464,743, or $150,000 in excess of the expenses of the election of 1889.

The Mercantile Mutual Insurance company's claims upon the United States for losses paid by the insurance company and insurance upon vessels destroyed by Confederate cruisers and known as the Alabama claims were sold at auction today. The claims amounted to $135,734 and were sold for $55.

NOW READY TO ADVANCE PRICES.

The Window-Glass Manufacturers Perfect Their Combination—A Chicago Office.

The organization of the new Window-Glass Trust was practically completed yesterday at a meeting of the representatives of the various factories of the country held at the Auditorium Hotel. It was the second day's session, and the finishing touches were attended to.

Tuesday night J. A. Chambers of Jeannette, Pa., one of the largest manufacturers, was dispatched to Washington to labor with the conference committee on the McKinley bill with a view of getting the one-eighth of a cent per pound reduction on window glass restored. It is claimed that the reduction will work a great hardship on the manufacturers and will open the market to importers.

The trust, which is to be known as the American Glass company, adjourned yesterday until Oct. 15. Prior to adjourning, however, it fixed the price at 80 and 10 until Oct. 15 and passed a resolution directing that no prices be made after that date. It was given out that the organization was not completed. This in a sense is probably true, and the date of the next meeting was fixed for Oct. 15 in order that it might be definitely known whether Mr. Chambers is successful or not. If the one-eighth of a cent is restored it may have the effect of changing some of the details relating to perfecting the organization.

The principal office will be at Pittsburg, but Chicago is to have a selling office. The trust takes in all the factories in the United States except those of New Jersey. Among those present at the meeting were U. S. Baker of Findlay, O.; Thomas Wrightman of Pittsburg, Mr. Ihmsen of the Ihmsen Glass company of Pittsburg, William Loeffer of Pittsburg, J. A. Chambers of Jeannette, Pa.; Mr. Phillips of the Enterprise company of North Baltimore, and Mr. Catlin of the United Glass company, which has plants in Illinois, Pennsylvania, and New York.

Notwithstanding the fact that the price of fuel has been decreasing the price of window glass has been steadily advancing for two years past. The price for August and September has been 80 and 10, which is regarded by the jobbers as pretty stiff. All summer there has been more or less cutting and window glass has been sold as low as 90 per cent off on list price, but even at this figure it is claimed there is a good profit for the manufacturer. Some of the jobbers have a great deal of doubt about the combination sticking. As late as yesterday afternoon, after the meeting, notwithstanding the price was fixed at 80 and 10, some of the manufacturers who helped make the price offered glass at 80, 10, and 5. Some of the manufacturers have a large stock on hand and want to run it off before the combine takes effect. This seems to indicate that there is a good profit in the present prices. The customers of the jobbers placed as many orders as possible yesterday, every one seeming to apprehend that there will be an advance at once.

In the meeting it is said the firms with large stocks on hand held out for the 80 and 10 price. It is believed they did this in order to give themselves a chance to cut and then make a fair profit. It is understood that under the new arrangement the manufacturers have figured out a profit of 7½ per cent for the jobbers.

If the combine goes into effect and the duty on window-glass is restored to the old figure the manufacturer will no doubt do a handsome business.

While the combination will control the prices completely as well as the output, it has not yet assumed the formal organization of a trust. The property of the different firms does not pass into the possession of the combination, but is controlled by it nevertheless. The property has not been bought, but the signatures of all the firms were secured, binding them to abide by the decisions of the combine. Each factory, large or small, will pay $5,000 in cash or in goods into the common treasury and will send one delegate. The delegates elect a Board of Directors, who will practically run the entire window-glass business of the country. They will do all the selling to the agents or jobbers, no factory being permitted to sell individually through any other agency. If an order comes in the Board of Directors or a manager will send it to the firm having on hand the supply that is wanted, or distribute it and have it filled up to a certain date. For this purpose the manager will keep at his office a list of all the factories, their product and stock on hand, correcting it daily from reports to be sent for that purpose by the factories. As all goods are sold through the general office so all collections will be made by it and the individual manufacturers will receive their pay through that channel instead of getting it from their customers. A settlement between the general office and the members of the combination will be made every thirty days and a balance struck every six months. If desirable the Board of Directors will have power to reduce the product or close down the factories.

ARMY OF WEST VIRGINIA REUNION.

Ex-President Hayes Addresses the Veterans—Thousands Present.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 17.—The Society of the Army of West Virginia opened its fourteenth annual reunion here today, the formal opening having been postponed from yesterday. The exercises opened with a parade, in which the veterans of the G. A. R. and other organizations took part. Ex-President Hayes, First Vice-President of the society, and acting President since the death of Gen. Crook, was warmly greeted along the route. Gov. Fleming, Gen. William Gibson, Gen. F. H. Deorl of Kansas City, Gen. B. F. Kelly, Gen. W. B. Curtis, and other distinguished men also rode in the line. A vast audience had assembled when Gen. Hayes called the meeting to order and introduced Mayor Gibbons, who delivered an address of welcome. Gov. Fleming performed the same office on behalf of the State, to which Gen. Hayes responded.

In the afternoon Gen. W. H. Powell, Illinois, Gen. Gibson, Gen. Devol, Gen. Walker, Maj. McKee of Washington, and Gen. Walker, Commander of the G. A. R. Department of West Virginia, spoke. Tonight a monster campfire was held.

MAYOR CREGIER RETURNS

"ALD. BROOKMAN HAS STOLEN MY THUNDER," HIS HONOR SAYS.

The Executive Also Pays His Respects to C. G. Dixon on the Latter's Resignation—Harmonious Meeting of the Drainage Commissioners—An Interesting Report from Engineer Cooley—Gen. Smith's Views on the Improvement of the Kankakee Region.

Mayor Cregier returned to the city yesterday, feeling better for his vacation, he said. He favored all that had been done in the gas cases and intimated that Ald. Brookman's resolutions were but evidence of a feeble attempt to steal his thunder. He avoided all reference to the Corrigan injunction case and said he had not read C. G. Dixon's letter of resignation. He did not hesitate to say, however, that Dixon's resignation would be accepted.

"He has had his say," remarked Mr. Cregier, "and I think in view of the way he has conducted himself through the press since I have been gone he has made at least one mistake."

Mr. Cregier's remarks were interpreted to mean that he would write a public letter of acceptance to Dixon, in which the latter would be handled without gloves. When the remarks were reported to Dixon the latter said: "All right; I suppose I am in for it, but I am prepared. I have some ammunition ready. Let them blaze away. I'll have my turn."

Being asked whether it was true, as stated by Dr. Wickersham, that "Bill" Coughlin had been reinstated only to afford him an opportunity for investigation, Dixon said: "Coughlin was suspended more than once before. I restored him, but learned to regret it. After I dismissed him the last time I was a week in the office, during which he could have had an investigation. He did not demand one. But Charley Crain [the Mayor's son-in-law and the City Oil Inspector] and Joe Schofield [the Gas Inspector] came to me and told me I would have to put Coughlin back. 'If he is not put back,' they said, 'we can't carry the Twenty-third Ward next spring.' I told them that I would not put Coughlin back. When I returned to my work after four weeks' illness I found that Coughlin had been reinstated on the pay-roll. Then I determined to resign."

As to the other facts in his possession Dixon was reticent. He maintained incidentally that Coughlin denied to him that he was a saloon-keeper. "But I have a card in my possession signed by Coughlin inviting persons to one of his saloon openings," he said.

Meeting of Drainage Commissioners.

Judge Prendergast, in the absence of Nelson, presided at the meeting of the Drainage Commissioners yesterday, which was, by the way, the most harmonious gathering of that body held since its organization.

Engineer Cooley submitted the following report of the work done under his jurisdiction up to date:

"All the field surveys and investigations contemplated between the South Branch and its forks and Summit will probably be concluded during October. Some property lines may require adjustment after that date. Operations in some branches of the work are already beyond Summit. They will be pushed as far toward Joliet this season as weather permits. It is intended to continue the borings in the Desplaines Valley during the winter. It is designed to cover the entire route from the South Branch of the Chicago River and its forks to Lake Joliet as early as is consistent with good work. A reconnaissance of the Illinois Valley is in rapid progress. It is designed to cover this field this season. The scope of this work is in harmony with the suggestion of the State Board of Health. It is expected to give some attention to the tributaries, but without involving a considerable outlay. All this work is regarded as of first importance, and expedient to do at this time in view of its probable value in legislative issues.

"A comprehensive investigation of the flood conditions in the watersheds of the Desplaines and Chicago Rivers has been undertaken. Gauging stations have been prepared and will be occupied from time to time as occasion demands. Flood marks are being looked up and properly referred. Hydraulic investigations in regard to the proposed channel are under way, and measurements to determine the capacity of the present canal and its hydraulic elements are projected.

"A systematic investigation of the sewerage product of the South Fork has been projected. Some preliminary consideration has been given this in conjunction with other sections of the harbor. It has not been thought practicable to undertake the systematic investigation of the entire sewerage product of this city at this time. The purpose is to place the problem of dilution on a basis of demonstration as requested by the State Board of Health. It has been thought, however, that the South Fork should be undertaken at once, as so good an opportunity may not occur again for a long time.

"It is expected that the department will be fully installed in the new quarters before the end of the month. This will greatly facilitate practical work. It is extremely desirable to increase the force to the largest useful limit, as all work postponed until next season will not be availed of until 1892 for practical operations of construction.

"I anticipate that the expenditures for September will approach $10,000, and for the remaining months they may range in the vicinity of $15,000 per month. Feb. 8 I estimated that the requirements of this department would be $125,000 to $150,000 up to May next, anticipating that we would probably take the field in June or July. I have no reason to change this estimate.

"The force has been carefully selected with a view to working the men indoors during the winter. The large mass of city and Government data that will then be in the office, together with the notes of the season's work, will employ a large number of men. In all the work contemplated use is being made, as far as possible, of all material hitherto collected by various agencies. The assembling of this mass of information of uncertain value demands much time, care, and serious labor. Much of it is of great value as a record of past conditions."

Discussion as to Expenditures.

An animated discussion arose as to Cooley's recommendations in reference to the South Fork. Hotz and Altpeter were disposed to object to the expenditure recommended. The other Commissioners seemed to favor it. Cooley at this point submitted a supplementary report, in which he said:

"This work should be done at once, as the conditions are unusually favorable; otherwise, another so favorable opportunity may not occur for several seasons, certainly not until late next year. The cost will be approximately $5,000 to $6,000. The investigation is a part of that suggested by the State Board of Health as especially desirable. The amount of filth produced by this city and what becomes of it has a profound bearing upon the question of the amount of water required, and its proper ascertainment will enable the problems of dilution to be placed on a sound basis of scientific demonstration. The information will bear upon the question of routes and feeders."

Altpeter notwithstanding wanted the matter referred to the Judiciary Committee. He doubted whether the Trustees had the authority to make the expenditure and rather thought it was the duty of the Board of Health to make it.

Judge Prendergast replied, saying: "I am entirely satisfied on the ground of the Trustees being legally authorized to make this expenditure. I think now is the time to have this work done, as, according to my understanding, now is a time when the filth and accumulation are the worst, and while it would not hurt to let the matter lie over for a few days, or a week, if it was carried over to the next meeting the public would probably get the idea that we were opposed to the investigation."

Cooley was then authorized to proceed with the work.

Improvement of the Kankakee.

A copy of a letter addressed by the attorney of the board, Gen. Smith, to the Attorney-General in reference to the proposed improvement of the Kankakee for the purpose of draining the swamp lands of Indiana was then read. It goes fully into the history of the matter, says the State of Indiana has no power to acquire title to a foot of ground in Illinois without the latter's consent, and that any conveyance to it, or for its use, of land in this State is a nullity, and concludes as follows:

"The Trustees will be glad to coöperate with you to the extent of their power should you determine upon steps to prevent the proposed work."

The Engineer's Credit Enlarged.

It was voted to change the credit of the engineer for emergency from $400 to $1,000. Requisitions aggregating about $200 were approved. Requisitions for about $1,000 worth of furniture for the new quarters were referred to a committee consisting of Russell, King, and Altpeter to get bids on the same. In the absence of the Chairman of the Finance Committee, Willing, all bills for payment were carried over to the next meeting.

Gen. Smith's letter referred to above was not sent to the Attorney-General until Tuesday. The Attorney-General, who was in Chicago that day, said concerning the subject matter of the letter:

"There is nothing new in this matter. It has never been directly presented to me, except during the last week I received a set of resolutions purporting to come from the Common Council of Kankakee. I understand this commission claims to have derived its powers to proceed with the work by conveyance from the owners of abutting property. Beyond this I am not advised."

It is understood that the principal reason why Cooley wants further time before reporting a route for the proposed channel between the South Branch and Summit is that he wants to avoid as much of rock cutting as possible, and he wants to have the borings completed as far as the Sag uplift. He thinks that with a wide channel carrying fourteen feet of water, and with a velocity of two and a half miles an hour, the rock cutting will not be of much consequence until Lemont is reached. If Cooley's opinion on this point is borne out by the fact the cost of the cutting will be $5,000,000 below the estimates.

RAID ON THE GAMBLERS.

THE POLICE SWOOP DOWN UPON A NUMBER OF SPORTS LAST NIGHT.

Four Establishments Broken Up—A Wagon-Load of Players Taken from a Resort in the Hotel Belvedere at No. 157 Clark Street—One Man Attempts to Go Up the Fire Escape—"A Texas Steer" in Chicago—Local News.

Three gambling-houses were raided last night and something like forty patrons of poker and other short card games were locked up at the armory.

The first establishment raided was in a room at the Hotel Belvedere, No. 157 Clark street. It is said to have been an offshoot from Hankins' "dinner-pail" resort, and conducted by Harry Romaine and Billy Knight, Hankins' nephew, though John Paine was booked as keeper.

Lieut. Dan Duffy, assisted by Patrolmen Stephen Rowan and Ed McGraw, surprised the sports. A detective in citizens' clothes was sent into the room to see if things were in good shape and the officers followed. Every table in the room was surrounded by players, and there was talk of starting another game when the darky doorkeeper with chattering teeth announced that "de cops" had come.

A general stampede followed, chairs and tables being overturned. Frank Rowan struck the door a heavy blow with his club and the dismayed darky threw back the bolt and let the officers in. The consternation of the gamblers increased at the sight of the police, and some in their wild fright tried to crawl beneath an old sofa which stood at one end of the room. There was not room for one man to hide beneath this useful article of furniture, and when six husky gamblers sought a hiding-place underneath it the result was disastrous. They raised the sofa bodily from the floor and it rolled from their backs.

Patrolman Rowan guarded the door while Lieut. Duffy and McGraw went in to take possession. One fellow, more bold than the rest, raised a window and started for the roof by way of the fire-escape. In the meantime several thousand people had collected in front of the hotel to watch the fun. When the gambler started up the fire-escape the crowd began to shout. The fellow had ascended the fire-escape less than ten feet when Patrolman McGraw, an old sailor who weighs full 250 pounds, started up in pursuit. At this the crowd in the street fairly went wild with excitement.

The old fire-escape rattled and shook as though it must fall, but the ex-sailor man won. Just as the gambler reached the roof McGraw grabbed him by the foot and forced him to come down.

This ended the fun. The twenty-four inmates and the keepers were taken to the armory in the patrol wagon, and an hour or so later were bailed out.

Sergt. P. D. O'Brien, with Detectives Arado and Duffy, raided the basement at No. 160 East Van Buren street and captured a baker's dozen of poker-players. George Young was booked as keeper.

Detectives Mahoney and McGinnis raided a poker-room at No. 24 Pacific avenue, where five sports were taken.

The police "discovered" and raided a gambling-room over the "Owl" saloon. No. 392 State street, Sol Van Praag, Democratic legislative candidate, proprietor, last night, and arrested five poker-players.

AS THEY DO IT IN THE PLAY.

A Westerner Imitates the Characters in "A Texas Steer" and Arrests Follow.

"A Texas Steer" was the cause of a great scare and a lively stampede on Madison street in front of THE TRIBUNE Building at 6 o'clock last evening. It was not one of the real, live, long-horned animals that occasionally go on a rampage at the Stock-Yards, but only the farce now creating merriment at a local theater.

Thomas H. N. Lindsay is a young San Francisco politician and real-estate dealer, and is a friend of "Boss" Buckley. With another young San Franciscan, Herbert H. Bygrave, he came to Chicago a few days ago after a European tour, and became a guest of the Palmer House. The twain formed many acquaintances, and made headquarters at a sample-room on Madison street. Of course they took in the races, the ball games, and all the other sights.

Tuesday night they enjoyed "A Texas Steer" from a box, and were delighted over the antics of the Western characters portrayed by Mr. Hoyt. They were particularly fascinated with the three Western gentlemen, who in the play cap the climax of enjoyment by firing off their revolvers after a hearty drinking session.

Lindsay and Bygrave left the Palmer House last evening to take a train for the slope. They stopped at their favorite saloon, and there took into their carriage Mr. Lithgow and O. Silverman. Other friends gathered to say good-by. Lindsay, emulating the men in the farce, pulled a revolver and fired a parting salute. Then Hans Peterson, the coachman, whipped up the horses and drove swiftly toward the Union depot. When the weapon went off there was great excitement. Women screamed and men ran up the alleys and into stores.

Officer Healy started after the carriage and overhauled it at La Salle street. He escorted the party to the Central Station, where Lindsay assumed all blame in the matter, and was driven to the armory and booked for carrying concealed weapons, firing a pistol within the city limits, etc. His companions were not held and soon secured their companion's freedom. The trip to San Francisco was delayed, and Lindsay blames it all to Mr. Hoyt.

SAYS THE CRIB IS NOT SAFE.

Acting City Engineer Wants Mr. Onderdonk to Strengthen the Structure.

Acting City Engineer Cheney has written a letter to Contractor Onderdonk regarding the condition of the intermediate crib, erected on the line of the new water tunnel, two and a half miles out in the lake. From Mr. Cheney's point of view this structure is not strong enough to withstand the storms of winter or even an extraordinary storm. If the crib were wrecked many lives would be lost, as a force of men is at present employed there.

Mr. Cheney was exceedingly anxious that nothing should be said about this matter, because unnecessary alarm might be created, but the fact remains just the same that the intermediate crib is unsafe. The contractor has been chary about spending any money on this building in making it safe, because he regards the structure as only for temporary use, but it will have to be used for at least two years.

The city proposes to use this crib for an inlet for a time as soon as the two six-foot tunnels meet, when the new pumping works at Indiana avenue and Fourteenth street will be put in operation. Upon this hypothesis the contractor wants the city to spend from $10,000 to $15,000 in putting a breakwater arounk the structure in order to add to its safety. Mr. Cheney holds that it is not the city's business to do that, but that the contractor is under bonds and obligations to keep this structure or any other of his temporary buildings in good shape and in absolutely safe condition.

Some of the timbers at the crib, it is said, are out of position. The shaft is lopsided and unless the structure is strengthened Mr. Cheney says the city will hold Mr. Underdonk responsible for any accident liable to occur through his neglect.

RECENT DEALS IN REAL ESTATE.

Acres Near Hammond Sold—Property in Chambers' Subdivision Purchased.

Two sales of Hammond acres are reported. W. H. Goslin sold twenty acres on the Calumet River, east of Homan street, for $30,000. R. C. Forsyth sold seventy-eight acres east of Hammond for $39,000. This tract lies south of the Calumet River and is just outside the corporate limits.

E. G. Short & Co. have sold twenty-five acres at the corner of Ninety-first street and Western avenue for $50,000. This tract lies between Western avenue and the Chicago Central railroad. The Ninety-first street station of this road will be located on this piece of property. They have also sold twenty-six acres in Chambers' subdivision east of Western avenue and north of Ninety-fifth street for $58,500.

It is reported that the southwest corner of Greenwood avenue and Forty-seventh street has been sold for $40,000.

Ryan & Chambers sold 233 feet at the southeast corner of Cottage Grove avenue and Seventy-sixth street to A. H. Revell for $13,980. This property was bought in June, 1889, for less than one-half that amount.

Thomas D. Snyder & Co. sold the southeast corner of Seventy-first street and Stewart avenue, 87x100 feet, to the estate of Thomas J. Potter for $10,000. This property is at the Eggleston Station on the Rock Island railroad, and was sold for Eggleston, Mallette & Brownell. This corner will be improved with a brick store and flat building.

Eggleston, Mallette & Brownell closed a contract yesterday for the construction of seventy-five houses in their Auburn Park subdivision. Work will begin on these buildings at once.

THEY FEAR HE HAS BEEN MURDERED.

C. W. Haverson Has Been Mysteriously Missing Since Tuesday Noon.

The whereabouts of C. W. Haverson, a saloonkeeper at No. 646 West Madison street, has been a mystery since Tuesday noon. At 9 o'clock of that day he left the place, telling his bartender that he was going to No. 125 Clark street to see a broker on business and that he would return at 11 o'clock. Mr. Haverson is a man who is noted for his punctuality, and his continued absence excited some alarm as the day wore on. At 7 o'clock Thursday night the matter was reported to the police. They were given the following description of the missing man: Age 32 years, stoutly built, weight 240 pounds, light hair and mustache. He wore a black Derby hat and a dark suit. To his watch chain was attached a Masonic charm and on his vest he wore an Odd-Fellows' and a Knights of Pythias badge.

Mrs. Haverson has no solution of the mystery except a theory that her husband has been murdered. A motive for the crime was found in the fact that Mr. Haverson is an important witness against a young man now under indictment at Boston for larceny. The accused had been employed by Haverson's sister as clerk in a store and had been caught stealing from his employer. Mrs. Haverson says he had uttered the threat that he would kill Haverson before the latter ever had an opportunity to appear against him at the trial. She fears that this man has followed her husband to this city and managed to entice him to some place where he got him out of the way. She says that her husband did not drink at all and in this she is corroborated by the bartender. His only business down-town was to see the broker at No. 125 Clark street. In broad daylight it would not be an easy matter to waylay and murder a man anywhere within a square of Clark and Madison streets without the fact becoming known. Mrs. Haverson therefore thinks he was enticed away and murdered. It is not known that the Boston man, against whom Haverson was to have testified, has been in the city. The only suspicious circumstance in the mind of the bartender is that a stranger called at the place Sunday morning and made particular inquiry for Haverson, and, learning that he was out, promised to call again. He never returned.

Mr. Haverson formerly resided in South Boston. He came to Chicago two months ago, and had been in business on West Madison street only three weeks. He was negotiating for a sale of the place, intending to return to Boston to live.

THEY MADE SPURIOUS COIN.

Arrest of a Gang of Counterfeiters at Kankakee.

Several months ago the railroads at Kankakee were annoyed by numerous petty depredations. Scraps of iron, brass, and other metals were the chief plunder of the marauders. While the officers who were trying to run down the offenders were searching the premises of Josiah D. Nottingham they came across several poor imitations of silver dollars concealed in a well and scraps of metal from which they had been made. A ladle for smelting was found in the house. Nottingham himself is an old cripple. He combines the trade of broom-making with the profession of preacher, although he is not regularly licensed in his evangelical work. His wife was arrested at that time and bound over by Commissioner Hoyne to await the action of the next United States grand jury. Nottingham was kept under surveillance.

Capt. Porter of the Secret Service says he had employed Andrew Morrical to circulate his illicit coin and when the discovery of the illegal plant was made Morrical showed signs of weakening and turning State's evidence. Nottingham offered him $50 to leave Kankakee. Being unable to pay Morrical more down, Nottingham gave him $10, which the latter took and went to Indiana. As soon as the money was exhausted, however, and no more was forthcoming, he returned and was promptly arrested by the authorities, who expected his return. This was last week. Morrical was bound over in the sum of $800. Morrical's arrest completed the evidence against the Nottinghams and accordingly the old man was secured yesterday and brought before Commissioner Hoyne, who put him under $400 bonds.

The counterfeit is detected at sight and Capt. Porter expressed surprise that the gang was able to pass any at all. It has no finish, weight, color, or ring, and gives every evidence of having been made by novices. A better imitation, Mr. Porter stated, however, not made by the parties arrested, is now being circulated at the county fairs in Southern and Central Illinois.

STUDENTS ARRIVING AT EVANSTON.

Opening of the First Term at the Northwestern University.

Sept. 17 is designated in the general calendar of Northwestern University as the beginning of the first term in the college of liberal arts at Evanston. The college buildings were crowded yesterday with students registering and matriculating. Nearly twice as many freshmen as there were last year have already entered, rooms in the Woman's College and cottage were all reserved before the close of the last school year, and the other departments will find it difficult to provide for all the newcomers. Numerous changes have been made in the college faculty. Dr. Marcy continues to be acting President, as Dr. Rogers, the President-elect, will not be able to assume his duties until Jan. 1. Dr. Henry Hatfield takes the chair of German, Prof. J. R. Taylor will assist in Greek, Prof. E. H. Moore is instructor in mathematics, and Harriet Kimball instructor of French.

Dr. H. R. Fisk temporarily fills the chair of Modern Philosophy, left vacant by the death of President Cummings. In the preparatory department Prof. George W. Schmidt is instructor of French and German, Prof. C. H. Gordon and Prof. Charles Horswell are the new assistant instructors of Greek and Latin, and Prof. Henry Benner instructor of Mathematics.

By the revaluation of the university property its income has been increased to $200,000 per annum. A substantial $8,000 brick addition has been made to the college cottage.

It is reported that the plans for the combination of the Chicago departments in one large structure, to be built on Wabash avenue, have been completed. Fifty thousand dollars of the funds necessary has been secured, and the structure will probably be ready for occupation in the fall of 1891.

VETERINARY SURGEONS ADJOURN.

End of Their Annual Session—Banquet at the Palmer House.

The United States Veterinary Medical Association concluded its twenty-seventh annual meeting yesterday afternoon. There were 109 members present at the session. The report of the Committee on Diseases was discussed. Dr. Packman of St. Louis referring to the subject of Texas fever advanced the theory, based on his investigations and experiments conducted in the Southwest, that the disease could be controlled by inoculation. Dr. Salmon, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, opposed this theory, and was of the opinion that the disease was closely allied to malaria in the human family.

The Committee on Army Legislation submitted the draft of a bill for the establishment of a corps of veterinary surgeons in the United States army, the bill having received the indorsement of Gen. Schofield. Papers were read by Dr. D. E. Salmon, Prof. A. Liantard, Dr. Olaf Schwartzkopff, J. C. Meyers Sr. of Cincinnati, and by Dr. Burns of Brooklyn.

The discussion on the use of meat of diseased animals as an article of food took a wide scope, a question arising whether the veterinarian's province did not terminate with the slaughter of the animal. A special committee of three was ordered appointed to present the subject of contagious diseases at the next convention.

Washington, Baltimore, and New York aspire to the honor of entertaining the veterinarians in 1891.

The delegates sat down to a banquet at the Palmer House in the evening, those at the tables numbering nearly 100.

The delegates who did not leave yesterday will visit the Stock-Yards and packing establishments today.

BOTH WIFE AND MONEY MISSING.

Dr. A. G. Larson Fears His Helpmeet Has Met with Foul Play.

Dr. A. G. Larson has told the police that his wife, who had in her possession $18,000, the result of a real-estate sale, is lost somewhere between here and Pueblo, Colo. Dr. Larson is a magnetic healer at No. 96 North Clark street, and his tale is to the effect that his wife sold a lot in San Francisco for the sum named above and, taking the money, was to have joined him in Salt Lake City. Instead of that she went to Pueblo, passing the doctor and Salt Lake by for some unexplained reason, and telgraphing him to go to Chicago, which he dutifully did. Here he received various telegrams and letters to various effects, the last one being that Mrs. Larson and the $18,000 would be in Chicago at the Briggs House Sept. 9. The doctor went there but found neither money nor wife. Since then other visits to the Randolph street hotel have been alike futile, and the doctor being convinced that his wife has been murdered has turned the case over to the police.

A reporter called at Dr. Larson's office yesterday and found him dipping sugar with a spoon into a pot of medicine, while a baby dipped the same with his fist into his mouth. A spirit lamp burned on the window-sill and the fumes of herbs came from a simmering pot. Although a magnetic healer, the doctor apparently uses medicine. He told the above story of his wife's disappearance in a matter-of-fact way and did not evince a trace of emotion.

The police reported yesterday that as yet no trace of Mrs. Larson had been found.

PROBABLE RESULT OF THE FIGHT.

Some of the Labor Leaders May Be Retired—Spies Denies All Charges.

The quarrels of the Pioneer Aid and Support Association and the Central Labor Union, arising out of the effort to withdraw support from Mrs. Parsons and Mrs. Spies for the benefit of the really needy families of some of the Anarchists, will probably lead to the retirement of certain leaders or to more serious dissensions. Furniture Workers' Union, No. 1, at its last meeting decided to demand of the Central Labor Union that Louis Zeller, the delegate who led the fight, be withdrawn by the Cigarmakers' Union, which he represents. The Central Labor Union, however, has no power to refuse admission to a delegate who is duly elected by his union, and so it depends upon the action of the Cigarmakers' Union whether Zeller shall be retired or not.

Adolph Spies says that he did not attack Louis Zeller in Greif's saloon. He says he met Zeller outside, where the difficulty occurred. He also denies that the assault was committed because of Zeller's action in regard to Mrs. Spies' pension. Spies says Zeller had spoken disparagingly of him to his brother, Henry Spies, and Adolph wanted Zeller to prove his charges. Zeller wouldn't do anything in the matter and hit Spies with a cane. Then Spies thrashed him. With regard to the Spring Valley list, Spies says he never had such a list and never collected a dollar for Spring Valley. He is not a "reformer" and cares nothing about the Anarchists.

SEVENTEENTH ILLINOIS CAVALRY.

The Ninth Annual Reunion in This City—Election of Officers.

The ninth annual reunion of the Seventeenth Illinois Cavalry was held yesterday morning at the Sherman House. The meeting was called to order by the President, W. J. Laird. The election of officers for next year resulted as follows: Gen. J. L. Beveridge, President; Capt. Cyrus Hutchinson, Vice-President; I. M. Mallory, Secretary and Treasurer.

It was then resolved that the next reunion take place at the Sherman House, the time to be set by the Secretary. Gen. Beveridge suggested it should take place during the reunion of the Army of the Tennessee. A collection was taken up to defray expenses. Mrs. Baird of Naperville was present at the meeting and invited the Seventeenth to visit that town as her guest.

The following list of deaths for last year was read by the Secretary: Capt. N. Nose, Company I; Capt. L. D. Kelly, Company G; Lieut. J. B. Read, Company G; George L. Snyder, Company M; John Getz, Company E; J. H. Edson, Company L; Edwin Witherley, Company I; A. S. Simons, Company L.

Appropriate resolutions were adopted to be sent to the remaining relatives, and Messrs. Beveridge, Collier, and Gunn were appointed as a committee for this purpose. The association adjourned to dinner.

CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Routine Business Disposed Of—New Teachers Elected and Salaries Fixed.

When the roll was called at last night's meeting of the City Board of Education all the members were present excepting Mr. Brenan, Mr. Hereley, Miss Mitchell, and Mr. Rose. A communication was received from residents of the Elston road school district asking for additional school accommodations.

The following teachers were elected: Miss M. Tenny Hayden, head assistant in Oakland School No. 2; Miss Vina Hutchins, head assistant in the Oakley School. Three months' leave of absence was granted to W. W. Speer, Principal of the Oakland School No. 1, commencing Sept. 29.

The Committee on Buildings and Grounds reported that additional school accommodations have been procured for the children in the Walsh, Humboldt, Von Humboldt, and Anderson School districts. The Chief Engineer was instructed to have two smoke-preventing devices placed under the boilers in the Graham School building. The proposition of William Hale Thompson to sell to the city for use as a school site twelve lots on Forty-third street, between Harrison street and Colorado avenue, at the rate of $700 a lot, was accepted. The lots each have twenty-five feet frontage and a depth of 125 feet. Charles Cobelli was elected an additional teacher of physical culture for the primary grades of the public schools within the old city limits, and his salary was fixed at $750 a year.

It was decided to open the evening schools the first Monday in October, and the Committee on School Management was instructed to make the necessary preparations. Mr. Prentiss gave notice that at the next meeting he would move to have the members draw their seats for the current year. A report from the Committee on School Management was unanimously adopted.

The following were placed in the second group of the grammar schools: Lake View No. 2, Grant (Lake), Lewis, Harvard, Kershaw, Graham, Pullman (Pullman).

The following were placed in the second section of the second group, with salaries ranging $1,600, $1,700, and $1,800 for first, second, and third year respectively: Lake View No. 6, Lake View No. 7, Lake View No. 4, Hendricks (Lake), Pullman (Lake), D. S. Wentworth, Sherwood, O'Toole. The following were placed in the third group: Lake View No. 3, Colman, Doran, Fallon, Farren, Oakland No. 2, Hancock (Lake), Fifty-fourth Street, Lake View No. 1, Pacific, Forestville.

The following were placed in the fourth group, salaries ranging $1,200, $1,300, $1,400 for the first, second, third, and subsequent years respectively: Phil Sheridan, Hartigan, Springer, Kensington, Sulzer Street, Kelvyn Grove, Emerson, Brownell, Greenwood Avenue, Shurtleff, Woodlawn, Cummings, Callistel, Madison Avenue, Cornell.

The following were placed in the fifth group, salaries ranging $1,050, $1,100, and $1,200 for the first, second, third, and subsequent years respectively: Avondale, Taylor, Webster (South Chicago), Roseland, and Scanlan.

The following schools were placed in the fourth group of primary schools: Kenwood, Wolcott Street, and Hodges.

The Principals of the following schools receive a salary of $1,050 per annum: Oak Ridge, Park Manor, Andersonville, Rosehill, Duncan Avenue, Bowmanville, Lake View No. 5, Parkside, Burnside, Buckley, Garfield (Lake), J. L. Marsh, Riverdale, J. H. Thorp.

The committee further recommended that the Hoerner branch of the Grant School (Lake) be made an independent school, with Miss Mary McNarney as Principal, and that her salary be fixed at $1,050 per annum.

PARK SIDE CONTRACTOR MISSING.

A Number of Creditors Anxiously Looking for Peter Christenson.

Peter Christenson of Park Side has fled for parts unknown, leaving a number of creditors, it is said, to mourn his departure.

Christenson is a melancholy Dane, 26 years of age, and a contractor and builder by occupation. He grew up in Park Side and was highly esteemed by his neighbors. He had worked up a good patronage in his business, was an active Democrat, and President of the Park Side Improvement Club. About a year ago he married and presented his bride with the finest house in town. The place is valued at $4,500. Everything went on swimmingly. But prosperity it seems was more than he could stand. He was not satisfied with legitimate returns, it is alleged, and so set about to get suddenly rich.

He readily secured contracts by underbidding everybody else. In this way several poor men were duped into letting him build their houses. He built their houses and took their money, but failed to pay the stonemason, the painter, and the firm that furnished the lumber, it is said. The result is that three hardworking citizens who have paid for their new homes must now discharge a lien of an equal amount before they can get a title to them.

No one knows just how much Christenson owes, but several persons are involved to an amount aggregating nearly $9,000, it is thought. He has skipped, it is said, with $3,000 which he raised by mortgaging his home. He owes Charles Bruce $2,200 for lumber; Thomas & Peck, stonemasons, $800; C. H. Smith, painter, $200; J. Peterson, grocer, $50; and he took with him also $1,000 paid him by Gus Schmit, $800 paid by Harry Miller, and $800 paid by Alix F. Landstrom for their homes.

He has deserted his wife and it is reported that he left in company with one J. B. Gooch, a plaster contractor, who, it is claimed, had also defrauded several persons in his dealings with them.

The only assets which the creditors have unearthed are a team of horses and wagon, worth about $300.

THIS TIME IT'S WRAPPING-PAPER.

Manufacturers of Bundle-Covering Preparing to Combine and Advance Prices.

Before Jan. 1, 1891, it is probable that the price of wrapping-paper will be advanced. Representatives of the majority of the mills between the Alleghanies and the Rockies have been in negotiation for some time and Tuesday held a secret meeting at the Sherman House. It was not by any means harmonious, but the proceedings showed that all interests represented were anxious for a trust, or at least a combination. Several said that manufacturers were making no money at present prices. Options previously given on the mills of those present have expired and they were extended to Jan. 1 by unanimous consent. John B. Sherwood of Lafayette, Ind., is understood to be the man to whom they have all been given. The difference of opinion was over minor details of consolidation, which will presumably be harmonized before Jan. 1.

The combination is understood to include the following:

F. J. Diene, of Cincinnati; W. D. Brandt, Jackson, Mich.; E. P. Hooker and C. P. Hooley, Defiance, O.; F. C. Trebeins, Trebeins, O.; J. Little, Xenia, O.; J. G. Little, Yellow Springs, O.; A. P. Brown, Fort Madison, Ia.; L. C. Wood, Plain City, O.; G. W. Hastings and F. J. Weeb, Springfield, O.; J. C. Richardson, Glendale, O., and J. B. Sherwood, Lafayette, Ind.

GLEANINGS IN LOCAL FIELDS.

Books for School Children to Read.

Public school principals are allowed to draw about as many books from the Public Library as they may see fit for the purpose of aiding their scholars in their studies. The volumes may be retained thirty days, and the children use them for reference in the school building or take them home to read as the teacher deems best. A committee of the Public Library Board called on Superintendent Howland yesterday and told him the vast majority of the books drawn by the teachers was juvenile books and works of fiction, and not such reading matter as would be of aid to a public bent on research. Mr. Howland said he would call the attention of the school principals to the matter and suggest that fiction to a great extent be weeded out of the books given to the pupils.

Speaking of the subject in the afternoon the Superintendent said that many juvenile works were books of the best class, and all novels were not harmful, while numbers of them could be used for legitimate reference purposes.

The Acting Librarian said yesterday that not more than a dozen of the school principals availed themselves of the privilege of thus supplying the pupils with books.

Instantly Killed by the Cable.

The second death by the West Side cable was recorded yesterday. Gottlieb Bender, a 12-year-old boy, was instantly killed while attempting to jump onto a Milwaukee avenue grip at Milwaukee avenue and Lincoln streets. He ran for the train while it was going and jumped for the rear of the grip. He missed his footing and fell between the grip and the next car and was thrown under the wheels, which cut him almost completely in halves. The boy lived at No. 132 Park street. His father, Gottlieb Bender Sr., is a traveling man and is out on the road. The boy alone was said to be responsible and the police made no arrests. An inquest will be held today.

Herbert Miller, a boy tramp 14 years old, who was stealing a ride on an Illinois Central train last night, accidentally fell under the wheels when the train reached Kensington. One of his arms was cut off, and he was taken to St. Luke's Hospital for treatment. The boy lived in Hoboken, N. J. He was on his way West to kill Indians, and was dressed in true dime-novel style in a red shirt and cavalry boots and wore a white sombrero.

Ignatz Madora, a boy 3 years old, whose parents live at No. 251 North Center avenue, was run over by an outgoing freight-train on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His left leg was cut off below the knee and he received serious internal injuries. He probably will die.

Rather Rough on the Children.

The children living in the vicinity of No. 190 North Peoria street did not have a particularly happy time yesterday for the reason that their parents locked them within doors. The cause of this watchful care was resorted to as the mothers in that part of the city were afraid the youngsters would be kidnaped. Louise and Marcella Schroeder, aged 10 and 7, disappeared from their home Tuesday and their mother notified the police that they had been stolen. Yesterday the police were looking for a woman whom the mother accused of carrying her little ones away. It was learned, however, that Mrs. Seeley, a representative of the Bethel Children's Home, at No. 1029 West Monroe street, had taken the children to the home. She had found them half clad and neglected in front of the place where they lived, and she says the mother was willing the children should be taken to the institution. The little ones were returned to their mother.

The police, however, are not satisfied with Mrs. Seeley's statement and will investigate.

May Open Up New Trade.

A Washington dispatch says that Secretary Rusk has issued minute regulations to govern the inspection by the Department of Agriculture inspectors of salted pork and bacon for export. Packers and exporters are required to make written application for the inspection and the packages must be plainly marked with the name of the packer, weight of meat, etc. "This comes under the Edmunds Meat Inspection bill," said an Armour official yesterday, "which provides a sort of a guarantee to foreign countries that the meat they receive is good and healthy. France and Germany have heretofore refused to accept salted pork and bacon merely on sanitary grounds, and if these packages are guaranteed by our Government a trade in that kind of goods may be opened up. We shall do as the law requires and try to come in for our share of the trade."

Part of Calumet Wants to Be Annexed.

Petitions for annexation are being circulated in Calumet Township and have been signed extensively. One is for the annexation of the Village of Washington Heights. This will be presented some time next week. Another is for the annexation of Fernwood, just west of Pullman and south of West Roseland, from which a petition was presented Monday. Some parties are urging that the whole Town of Calumet be brought in. The new law applies only to cities, villages, and incorporated towns. Calumet is not incorporated. The law would not apply. It does in the case of Fernwood, Roseland, and Washington Heights. These contain about half of the Town of Calumet lying outside the present city limits and about four-fifths of the inhabitants—7,000 people or thereabouts. They will be annexed beyond all doubt, as two-thirds of the voters have signed.

The Grand Council Elects Officers.

The Grand Council of the American Legion of Honor convened yesterday at No. 82 West Madison street. A new constitution was adopted and Chicago was selected as the place of meeting in 1892. The following officers were elected: Past Grand Commander, John L. Phillips, Springfield, Ill.; Grand Commander, Thomas G. Newman, Chicago; Grand Vice-Commander, A. Cummings, Cairo, Ill.; Grand Orator, H. J. Brubaker, Freeport, Ill.; Grand Secretary, A. D. Cadwallader, Lincoln, Ill.; Grand Treasurer, Robert Huston, Joliet, Ill.; Grand Chaplain, J. F. Robertson, Chicago; Grand Guide, A. R. Newman, Chicago; Grand Warden, S. H. Myers, Chicago; Grand Sentry, W. W. Mooney, Springfield; Supreme Representative (to fill vacancy), Dr. E. L. Clifford, Chicago.

Says He Was Fired At.

Ernest Levy, a wealthy Jew, who keeps a livery stable on West Erie street, has been shot at quite numerously of late. A jealous woman named Mrs. Burkhart several weeks ago fired several ineffective shots at him. Mr. Levy claims that he got into a dispute with Fred Elder, son of Levy's landlord, and Mr. Elder promptly drew his revolver and fired several shots. Mr. Levy escaped unharmed. Mr. Levy had a quarrel with Mr. Elder senior about the rent, and the latter claims Levy grabbed Elder's crutch and beat him with it. Elder lives at No. 203 Evergreen avenue, and was the first settler on Milwaukee avenue. Levy was arrested for assault and Justice La Buy continued the case of both Levy and young Elder for ten days.

That Copper-Wire Stealing Case.

Supt. Sutherland of Mooney & Boland's agency said yesterday in the copper-wire stealing cases against the six city fire alarm employés that all had been held to the Criminal Court except John Crowley, who is at Hot Springs. Several junk dealers who purchased the stolen wire will be prosecuted, but it is so difficult to make a case of receiving stolen property stick that there is some doubt whether they will be convicted. Prof. Barrett said the men implicated in the steal were not the city's regular linemen—they were only extra men put on during the busy season. Albert and Louis Rousseau are sons of an official of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

After the Truant Schoolboy.

The small boy must go to school. The proper authorities say the Compulsory Education law must be obeyed. Sixteen officers, nine of them men and seven women, are out looking for truant boys. The officers are under the supervision of Superintendent Frankland. The duties of this "truant corps" are to visit the schools at least once a week and secure from the Principal cases of non-attendance. If cases of absence too often occur they are to be investigated by writing the parents of the pupils.

Boys and girls under the age of 14 found on the streets during school hours are also made to explain why they are not in the school-room.

Doyle—Edwards.

William Andrew Doyle, a young lawyer of this city, and Miss Mary Gertrude Edwards, youngest daughter of William J. Edwards, were married last evening at St. Jarlath's Church, Hermitage avenue and Jackson boulevard. The Rev. Father Cox officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Doyle will spend their honeymoon in the East. They will be at home to friends at No. 758 Warren avenue after Oct. 15.

Mr. E. J. Hollister of Rockford, Ill., and Miss Bessie Carver Hall were married last evening at Ravenswood, the Rev. N. A. Lloyd officiating. The newly-married couple immediately departed for Niagara Falls.

The Irish American Club.

The Irish American Club gave its opening reception last night. A bright musical and literary program was followed by dancing to music supplied by Prof. Fitzgerald's orchestra. Miss Hattie Beynom, Miss Mary Barrett, Mr. A. C. Cain, and Mr. G. Hollbom rendered selections from the popular operas. Mr. W. J. Hynes, who has just returned from an extended European and Asiatic tour, narrated some of his foreign experiences and observations. The club proposes to give monthly musical and dancing receptions during the season.

Another of "the Finest."

Officer M. Walsh arrested Tuesday night a young man named Charles Seimars at the corner of Taylor and Clark streets. The first charge the officer preferred before Justice Prindiville was that the young man had refused to "move on" and had threatened to take the officer's number. Then he added that Seimars was talking with women in a disreputable house. But the evidence showed that the prisoner was a hardworking young man who had never before been arrested. The Justice discharged him.

Charges False Imprisonment.

Mrs. Robert Gardner of No. 388 Wabash avenue yesterday swore out a warrant for the arrest of Julia McCarthy, charging her with false imprisonment. Mrs. McCarthy bought some household goods of Mrs. Gardner last Thursday. Subsequently the latter went back to the house and took away some pictures, etc., which were not included in the sale. Mrs. McCarthy had her arrested on the charge of larceny, and she was locked up. Before Justice Kersten it was shown that the goods rightfully belonged to her, and she was discharged.

The Hamilton Club Elects Officers.

The Hamilton Club held an election of officers Tuesday night at its new club-rooms, No. 21 Groveland Park. The officers elected were: M. Lester Coffeen, First Vice-President; H. C. Metcalf, Secretary; John E. Goold, Frank Compton, John C. Everett, Frank D. Helmer, and Frank H. Barry, Directors. The other officers are chosen at the annual elections in March. The club will formally open its new quarters by a reception next month, preparations for which are now being made.

Mrs. Tyler Thrown from Her Buggy.

Friday morning when Mrs. F. C. Tyler of No. 4045 Grand boulevard was driving on Prairie avenue, near Nineteenth street, her horse became frightened. The animal turned suddenly when running at a rapid rate, and Mrs. Tyler was thrown out. She was rendered unconscious by the fall. She was taken to her home as soon as she recovered. Mr. and Mrs. Tyler desire to thank the unknown persons who so kindly helped Mrs. Tyler after the accident.

Hard to Find as Tascott.

Absconder Loomis manages to keep out of the way. Nothing is known of him since he left Chicago, and although detectives are after him they have accomplished nothing. It was said he had been seen in Washington, but there is not much faith put in this report as he is hardly likely to go there yet. It seems there are now two women in the case, according to the detectives.

They Want to Be Admitted.

The Women's Alliance will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Palmer House. The gathering is for the special purpose of considering Inspector Ebersold's action in refusing the alliance committee admittance to the Armory Station.

Not Ready to Make a Statement.

Smith & Co. are not yet ready to make a statement regarding their assets and liabilities. Mr. Smith is going among his customers and finding out just what he can do. Everybody connected with the affair is reticent and inquiry at the office elicits nothing further than that the books have not been fully examined yet. A statement of some kind will probably be ready tomorrow.

Officer Tyrrell Discharged.

Chief of Police Marsh yesterday discharged Officer Tyrrell of the Desplaines Street Station for his disgraceful conduct in Grace's saloon on Halsted street. Mr. Marsh was inclined to be lenient with Tyrrell, as he had been a good officer and was badly wounded at the haymarket riot. But when Inspector Hathaway yesterday morning said that Tyrrell was continuing his debauch the chief discharged him at once in disgrace. Mr. Marsh also suspended Officer Slattery pending a trial Monday evening.

Big California Peaches.

C. P. Jackson, Secretary of the California Pioneers' Association, yesterday took to the Exposition for exhibition a basket of peaches—the "Strawberry Cling"—weighing about twelve ounces each. They were sent him by the Placerville Mountain Democrat and were grown within sight of the Marshall monument at Coloma, which marks the spot where gold was first discovered.

Fire Company at the Stock-Yards.

The Fire Department has established a fire company at the Stock-Yards. It will be known as No. 29, and will be under command of Capt. P. J. Jennings. This company took possession yesterday. They take the place of Liberty Engine company, which has been maintained so many years by the Stock-Yards company.

The Englewood Woman's Club.

The Englewood Woman's Club met in the reading-room of the First Universalist Church of Englewood yesterday afternoon for the first time this season and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. E. W. True, President; Mrs. I. J. Rice, Vice President; and Mrs. J. D. Jones, Secretary and Treasurer.

Stock Perish in a Fire.

Yesterday morning the barn in the rear of No. 546 Forty-third street caught fire and two mules and a horse were burned before assistance arrived. The damage to the building is placed at $200. The stock was valued at $500. The barn was owned by Frank Neff, who also owned the horse. The mules were the property of Peter Corcoran. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Wrecked Several Milk Cars.

The Freeport Express on the Northwestern road, outward bound, collided with a freight train at Oak Park yesterday afternoon. A switch had been left open, and the train ran on to the side-track, wrecking several milk cars. The loss will be $2,000.

Al Beaumont Arrested Again.

An indictment was returned against Al Beaumont yesterday, and last evening he was placed under arrest and locked up in the County Jail by one of Matt Pinkerton's detectives. He is accused of selling lithograph tickets belonging to the Chicago Opera-House.

Fainted in the Street.

Emily F. Rose, a teacher at the Emerson school, fainted in the street on the way to her School yesterday. She was unable to return to her home and was cared for at No. 132 Walnut street. She will be able to attend to her duties in a few days.

Items.

This afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Auditorium Hotel P. Alexander Johnstone, the mind-reader, will attempt the feat of opening the vault. A committee of prominent men will watch the proceedings.

At a meeting of the Chicago Society of Artists held last Saturday a committee consisting of Alfred Payne, George W. Platt, and Peter Baumgras presented resolutions on the death of the late Henry F. Spread.

The comedians Hallen and Hart, who have just concluded their successful engagement in New York, will present their musical farce, "Later On," for one week at the Haymarket, beginning with a matinée next Sunday.

The temperature yesterday, as observed by Manasse (optician), TRIBUNE Building, was as follows: 8 a. m., 57° above zero; 9 a. m., 60°; 10 a. m., 60°; 11 a. m., 62°; 12 m., 63°; 1 p. m., 63°; 3 p. m., 65°, 6 p. m., 67°. Barometer, 8 a. m., 29.68; 6 p. m., 29.60.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT FOR 1893.

Chicago Veterans Say It Should Be Held in This City.

The following letter has been received by THE TRIBUNE:

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Sept. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Will you have the kindness to advocate through the columns of your paper the propriety of having the G. A. R. National Encampment held in Chicago during the year of the World's Fair. It would have its significance in more ways than one, especially that of being viewed by foreigners, who would have a chance to see and imagine what kind of material we were made of thirty years ago or more—the men who saved our Nation's honor and protected our flag—'61 to '65. And, again, our Nation's guests could have a chance on the same occasion to see thousands of our Sons of Veterans in line of march, whose duty it will be to maintain the rights their fathers established—"The perpetuation of our Union, one and inseparable." The W. R. C., the loyal women of America, would come in for their share of admiration. The encampment at that time would answer two purposes. First, affording thousands of the old vets an opportunity to meet once more around the camp-fire. Second, take in the world's exhibits at the same time.

Respectfully. R. W. SURBY,
Late member Seventh Regiment Cavalry, Illinois Volunteers.

Col. Sexton was seen and asked what the feeling was among Grand Army men as to their coming to Chicago during the World's Fair. The Colonel said:

"There has not been a year during the last ten years that the Grand Army would not have come here had they been invited by their Chicago comrades, and it is now a generally understood thing that the encampment will be held in Chicago during the session of the World's Fair in 1893. We ought to have had them here long ago, but other places have always fought hard to get them, and so they never came. I think our apathy might be explained in this way. The number of G. A. R. men in Chicago is large and they generally look upon the encampment as their annual holiday and are glad to get out of the city; and, feeling that way, we have made no particular efforts to get them to Chicago. The trip to Boston was the only vacation I have had this year myself. There will not be any trouble in getting them here in 1893. The people of Chicago I have no doubt will respond nobly when asked to contribute to their entertainment. All the other cities have done so and Chicago will not be behind. It will give foreigners who will be here in large numbers an idea of the makeup of the army which took a part in one of the biggest wars on record, and if they make as good a showing in their parade as they did this summer in Boston these people will leave the United States fully convinced that there is lots of vitality in the boys yet. By all means, then, advocate the encampment of the Grand Army in Chicago in 1893."

Other G. A. R. men seen agreed with Col. Sexton, and said the encampment certainly should be held here in 1893.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1890.

The latest London quotation for standard silver was 53¼ pence per ounce, being the same as Tuesday, and equal to 90.3 cents for the value of the pure metal in the United States dollar.

It is announced in a dispatch from Paris that a book is to be published simultaneously in Milan, Berlin, Paris, London, and New York, in four languages, containing sensational details as to the private life of the prima donna and her marital relations. From the manner in which the book has been announced it is evident that the writer is a blackmailer who hopes to extort a handsome sum from Mme. Patti in consideration of the suppression of the manuscript. The fellow who could be guilty of such conduct, whether he be "the son of a well-known impresario" or not, should first be horsewhipped and then ducked in a horse-pond. Even if everything he sets forth were true the authorities should not allow the publication of such a book.

The New York stock market was strong on a generally improved condition of the money market, helped on by the purchase of over $16,000,000 bonds by the Treasury Department. The local market was dull and recorded few changes in quotations. New York exchange got up to 60 cents discount. Sterling was firmer.—Chicago produce markets were active and unsettled, though an advance over the previous day was finally scored. The buoyancy in wheat was caused by the reports of a decrease of 30 per cent in the late estimates of the Russian crop and the Government bond purchases. Corn was strong under the reports of damage by Friday's frost, which is now acknowledged to have done much greater injury than was expected. The strength in the grain markets was reflected into provisions. As compared with Tuesday wheat was ⅜ cent higher, corn ⅛ cent higher, oats ⅛ cent higher, rye ⅛ cent higher, barley firm, flax 5 cents higher, pork 7½ cents higher, and lard and ribs 5 cents higher.

Mr. Blaine has been a high protectionist all his life. He has voted and spoken for protection. He was the first to come to its defense when Cleveland attacked it. Therefore he cannot be looked on as a "wolf in sheep's clothing" when he comes out in favor of reciprocity with Latin-America. When he says "the enactment of reciprocity is the safeguard of protection" he means just what he says. He is equally sincere when he says "the defeat of reciprocity is the opportunity of free trade." That that is true is shown by the fact that every free-trader in the Senate voted against reciprocity and every free-trade paper is attacking it. If the Blaine policy helped free trade the former would vote for and the latter defend it. Seeing in it a fatal obstacle to carrying out their plans they oppose it. The trouble with some Republicans is that they do not keep up with the times. To them protection is just the same that it was in the days of Clay and Greeley, when the fight was about securing the home market for Americans. They do not see that that having been substantially won for nearly all products, the fight is now to get foreign markets for surpluses the home one will not consume.

The cowardice and demagogism displayed by the whisky Governor of New York during the recent strike on the New York Central railroad have brought down upon him general condemnation. He failed to protect the road when appealed to by the power of the State, and he failed to protect the strikers against the usurpations of the Pinkertonians, and now both sides are jumping on him. At a meeting of laboring-men in New York held last Saturday night a resolution was adopted holding "the governing power of the State responsible for the employment of the Pinkerton force during the strike," and on the same occasion General Master Workman Powderly advised his defeated and disgruntled Knights of Labor never to vote for Gov. Hill again. The whisky Governor was trying to sit on two stools at once and has come down between them. The Stuffed Prophet must have laughed until his fat sides shook at the spectacle of the whisky Governor, afraid of offending the corporation on the one hand and the laboring-men on the other, and at last succeeding in offending both. There is no need for Mr. Cleveland to go to Massachusetts. He can safely stay where he is.

Controller Onahan as Acting Mayor proposes that the city shall build the Stock-Yards tunnel and own and control it. He thinks the packers should advance the money for its construction, which will be paid back by the city. The question at once suggests itself: Can the city increase its indebtedness in that way contrary to the constitutional limitation? Then these other questions will arise: If the city undertakes the work how soon will it be finished? When will the people of Lake have relief? Will it not cost double what it would cost if the Stock-Yards company undertook the work? Mr. Onahan is in full possession of the facts concerning the increased expense and snail's progress of the new city tunnels. As the chief financial officer of the city he must necessarily know that it is costing enormously—perhaps double the price that the work could be done for by private parties. Bummers, leeches, ward hustlers, groggery-keepers, trianglers figure on the city pay-rolls in connection with it. Does Mr. Onahan mean to give opportunity for the payment of salaries to another horde of worthless tax-devourers in connection with this Stock-Yards job and to withhold relief from the Town of Lake people for another five years? The best thing to do in relation to this tunnel is to permit the Stock-Yards company to construct it under certain proper restrictions and to make provision so that the city may become absolute owner of it at a properly appraised valuation within a certain period. Mr. Onahan's plan is of doubtful legality. It would promote jobbery, the plunder of the taxpayers, an increase of the worthless tax-devouring element, and postpone relief indefinitely.

When Mr. Blaine's reciprocity plan was made public it was asserted that he said nothing of Cuba and Porto Rico, the great cane-sugar-growing countries, and that the inference to be drawn was he did not believe Spain would reciprocate. Mr. Blaine's letter, printed yesterday, ought to leave no doubt what he thinks about the two Spanish islands. He calls attention to the fact that Cuban duties on American flour have been raised again, so that that Western product will be excluded from the island. Then he makes the pertinent inquiry whether Congress will throw open American ports to Spanish sugars when that Power closes the ports of its dependencies to American exports and thus deprives this country of a market for many hundred thousand barrels of flour and other agricultural products. Is it possible that the conference committees will recommend and the Senate and House approve such a policy so dishonoring to the country and so hurtful to the interests of the West? Spain puts higher prohibitory duties on American flour. Thereupon the United States, by the Aldrich amendment, takes its duties off Cuban sugar and says if Spain does not reciprocate it will put back 50 per cent of the duty. Spain can stand that sort of retaliation till the world comes to an end. Common sense and common decency alike demand that the sugar duties be not taken off but that Spain be notified that if it will open its ports they will be. Then it would come to terms.

MR. BLAINE'S LAST APPEAL FOR HONEST RECIPROCITY.

Mr. Blaine's response to the invitation to attend the yearly banquet of the Eastern Shoe and Leather Club, printed yesterday, is not so much addressed to that organization as it is to the New England manufacturers and the House and Senate conference committees on the Tariff bill.

He tells the Shoe and Leather Club that the new tariff, while giving the amplest protection to all New England industries, does little or nothing for the Great West, and he asks them if their interests are so independent of and distinct from those of the farmers of that vast section that they can afford to let such an injustice be committed.

He tells the conference committees which have before them the mutilated Aldrich reciprocity amendment that if they admit sugar free, without conditions, they abandon their present vantage ground, throw away the advantage for a trade they still have, and put the Nation in the attitude of a beggar or a bully instead of a great Power treating with others on equal terms—offering to make valuable concessions if equal ones are made in return.

It has been the good fortune of the mill bosses, not merely of New England but of New Jersey, Philadelphia, and Pittsburg, to be represented ably and zealously in Congress. Rhode Island has enjoyed the services of the shrewd and persistent Aldrich. Knowing what his mill bosses wanted he has labored incessantly to get it for them, and has succeeded. Beside men like him the Western representatives appear like a lot of chumps, not knowing what their constituents wanted and needed, or, if they did, ignorant of the way to go to work to get it for them. Such men are always overreached by the mill-boss members in tariff battles, just as they would be beaten by them in any business where intelligence and self-interest are pitted against ignorance and indifference.

While the Western members have been chasing after the phantom of "free sugar" the Eastern men have gotten "the amplest [extra] protection for every manufacturing industry" and left the West nothing tangible. No increased market for a bushel of wheat or barrel of pork has been made.

Mr. Blaine says "it will be both inexpedient and injurious for the representatives of New England to disregard a measure [reciprocity] which will promote Western interests." The Eastern mill bosses would see this were they not so greedy. They know that the West is their best market and that they cannot always afford to deal by it as Spain does by Cuba and Porto Rico. They ought to see that whatever benefits the agricultural West enriches them; that whatever opens new markets to the great products of that section will improve the value of all its crops, put money in its purse, and make it better able to pay the higher prices which the manufacturers will ask for their goods when the new, higher tariff bill is in force. If the Eastern mill bosses were broad-gauge men they would be the first to move in Congress to procure new markets for Western surpluses, even if their own goods never entered those markets.

There is one thing which Mr. Blaine does not say, but which may suggest itself to many—that it is not honorable conduct on the part of the New-Englanders to take for themselves all the cream there is in the McKinley Tariff bill and leave the skim milk to the Western section, whose votes prevented the passage of the Mills bill, the reëlection of Cleveland, and the stripping of these Eastern men of the last shred of protection. This is mean business. It is "playing it low down" on the grangers to make them do all the work and not get a cent of pay.

Are the Western members such chumps that they cannot see this? Are they such simpletons that tariff doctor Aldrich can make them swallow a spoonful of nasty physic by simply powdering a little "free sugar" on the outside of the mixture? Cannot they see the higher-priced woolen blankets, cutlery, and glassware, and hardware, and tinware, and earthenware, and fifty other articles under that thin covering of "free sugar"? Are fifty or sixty Western members coming home within two weeks to begin stumping for reëlection on the record they have made thus far? Do they think their constituents will patiently listen to their humbug talk about "free sugar," when Mr. Blaine, an elder and better protectionist than they, has told the farmers that the so-called free sugar of the Aldrich amendment is a hollow fraud which, as manipulated, flings away the chance of gaining free markets for their surplus foodstuff in the Latin-American countries.

If the Western members wish to redeem themselves their path is plain. They must see that the reciprocity which is put in the Tariff bill is of the sort pointed out by Mr. Blaine. They must see that the sugar duties are retained till the sugar nations open their ports by treaty to our foodstuffs. If the cunningly devised Aldrich amendment is adopted the duties will be taken off first. Then this Government must beg other nations to reciprocate. If they do not, it can only threaten to reimpose half the former duties! Nations have not a lively sense of gratitude. When they see the United States has given away everything it had to trade on they will not feel called on to make concessions to such a fool.

Thus far the Western members have been shamefully outgeneraled and outwitted by the mill-boss members. They have been led around by the nose by them. They have been given a sugar-rag to suck at while the latter were taking everything there was in sight. But there is still a chance for them. If they will follow Mr. Blaine's advice, substitute a substantial, statesmanlike for a sham reciprocity plan and get for their constituents their due measure of protection in the form of wider markets they will redeem themselves and can have lively hope of salvation next November. If they fail now, a good many of them might as well spend the remainder of the fall with the Eastern mill bosses, as their constituents will have no further use for them as Congressmen.

CITY BUILDING FOR 1889.

The New York Sun prints a comparative statement of building activity last year in several cities of the United States. It accords the first place to New York, the second to Philadelphia, and the third to Chicago—the latter being credited with the erection of only 4,931 "houses" at a total cost of $25,065,500, whereas she built 7,500 at a cost exceeding $35,000,000. This includes the annexed wards. Brooklyn comes fourth, and then follows Boston with only 4,431 "houses," but at a cost of $32,400,000. Philadelphia leads Chicago in the number of houses and New York more than twice as much in cost, the city on Manhattan Island being credited with a building account of $75,912,816. Minneapolis foots up $8,737,281 and St. Paul $7,939,498, with no hint that the figures are padded, as were the census returns.

Chicago has no wish to find fault with the compliment of being neck and neck for second place. But justice demands the statement that the statistics in her case appear to be only for building within the old city limits. An allowance of another 2,500 buildings, or nearly 50 per cent in number, would not be too much for the area within the municipal boundaries since June, 1889. There were, therefore, about 7,500 houses erected in Chicago last year. There was last year an unusual rush to build homes in the annexed district, and the operation was favored by a partial lull in the erection of the big buildings for which our city is already noted and are going up numerously now that Chicago is settled on as the site for the World's Columbian Exhibition. The statistics of the first six months of the present year, covering the whole area, include 5,839 permits, with a total frontage of over twenty-five miles and a registered cost of $21,445,250, the same being a larger number and only a sixth less in value than the stated total for the whole of 1889, while the cost itself might be claimed to be entitled to an increase of 25 per cent, that being the average excess of actual cost of construction over the estimates made beforehand.

This is an extract from the article in question:

The figures from the records of the departments of building in twenty-seven of the chief cities of the United States for the year 1889 have been compiled in a table which presents some surprising contrasts.

Philadelphia, for instance, built more new houses last year than any other American city. The number is 11,965, against 6,722 in New York; but while the cost of Philadelphia's 11,965 houses is $26,000,000, the investment in New York's 6,722 new buildings is $75,912,816, or nearly three times as much. In other words, while the new structures in New York cost on an average $11,293 each, those in Philadelphia cost only $2,172.

After New York and Philadelphia comes a group of six cities which each erected in 1889 between 4,000 and 5,000 new buildings. These are Chicago [which really built 7,500 houses], Brooklyn, Boston, Minneapolis, Washington, and Cleveland; and the subjoined table shows just how they respectively build:

	No. houses.	Cost.	Average.
Brooklyn	4,500	25,679,405	5,706
Boston	4,431	32,400,000	7,312
Minneapolis	4,355	8,737,281	2,006
Washington	4,048	6,165,715	1,523
Cleveland	4,007	4,401,854	1,098

Brooklyn spent more money on fewer houses than Chicago. [Chicago really spent over 35 millions, including the annexed wards.] Boston built only about 150 more houses than Minneapolis, but she expended $32,400,000 to Minneapolis' $8,737,281. A mushroom growth in Cleveland is indicated by the amazing disproportion between the number of structures and the total cost.

Following the comparison a little further, we find likewise six cities where the year's total of new houses ranges from two to four thousand:

	No. houses.	Cost.	Average.
St. Paul	3,756	$ 7,939,493	$2,113
St. Louis	3,544	9,765,700	2,755
Pittsburg	3,241	8,000,000	2,468
Denver	2,741	10,807,377	3,942
Omaha	2,498	4,663,735	1,803
Cincinnati	2,104	4,143,214	1,969

Among the towns where less than 2,000 new houses were built are three that come within or almost within the metropolitan circle; and they show a remarkable closeness in their averages:

	No. houses.	Cost.	Average.
Newark	1,541	$5,000,000	$3,244
Jersey City	930	2,930,857	3,151
New Haven	628	2,066,700	3,290

MUNICIPAL GAS-WORKS.

The proposition that the City of Chicago shall furnish gas for both public and private consumption within the corporate limits is an attractive one. The surface possibilities of saving by the new arrangement are large, but it may be of interest to ask if it is probable they would be realized, to say nothing of certainty. There is no question that the Gas Trust has realized immense profits out of the people and would do so even on the reduced basis of a dollar per 1,000 feet which two or three years ago was talked of by the owners of gas stock as a minimum near the limits of bankruptcy. Processes have been cheapened so greatly within the last decade that the material for gas-making now costs little; but the expenses of distribution and management still remain and would offer a rich plum to the bummer politicians if placed in the public crib.

Glasgow in Scotland has been lighted with municipally made gas for about twenty-one years, and things are managed there carefully and honestly. It is now supplied to consumers at 66 cents per 1,000 feet. The higher wages paid here for labor and clerking service and the greater cost of gas pipes might furnish an easy excuse for running the cost up to $1 in this city if the business were honestly conducted. Unfortunately the experience of municipal governments in this and other cities of the United States is against all ideas of economy. Now and then an honest administration will get into power, like that of Mayor Roche, but the chances are against its continuance in office. The gamblers and other pot-house politicians are not favored by it, for which reason they move Heaven and earth in the effort to secure a change, and the apathy or folly of the decent classes permits them to triumph. Then the wire-pullers and their friends have to be paid, and some of the modes of doing it are to be found in the history of the construction of our new lake tunnel and the more than a quarter of a century of Tammany misrule in New York. The conspirators are recompensed by copious levies on the pockets of the taxpayers. The electric lighting of our streets, so far as it has been carried out, seems to be a success in point of economy as well as efficiency, but the public has no guarantee against that department being turned over to a Tammany ring at almost any moment, and no security against a public gas service being manipulated entirely in the interest of the professional tax-eating toughs.

It is a grave question if it be desirable for the city to undertake the manufacture of gas unless under arrangements which would take the business out of the hands of the toughs and keep it out, permitting it to be run on the same economical and prudent principles as govern the conduct of a factory or a store by private capital. A double force of men ostensibly working among the retorts, each of them supervised by three or four inspectors; an army of superfluous clerks in the office and an equally unnecessary gang of street inspectors of mains and service pipes, all of them employed for the sake of their voting influence, and supplies purchased by reference to the same motive, would soon make the taxpayers sick of their bargain.

Municipal gas-making is something to be well considered before it is embarked upon. Just how the money is to be provided has not yet been clearly stated.

PASSAGE OF THE ANTI-LOTTERY BILL.

It is a matter for public congratulation that the Senate has made good its promise to pass the Anti-Lottery bill, and that it went through that body under the able management of Senator Sawyer of Wisconsin without opposition, as it did through the House. Its passage is a signal illustration of the force of public sentiment. It was asked for by respectable people in every State and Territory and by the bulk of the press of the country, and though the lottery gamblers of Louisiana were represented by a powerful and unscrupulous lobby in Washington, prepared with barrels of money extorted from the poor and working classes of the country, to delay if it could not defeat the bill, no voice was raised against it in Congress, nor was there any disposition to question the passage of a bill which was demanded by the immense majority of the people.

The text of the bill shows it to be a practical and well considered measure. If it is enforced with the promptness and thoroughness the Postmaster-General and Solicitor of that department have promised it will shut out the lottery gamblers from the mail and, if it does not suppress the institution, will at least impose such obstacles in the way of the Louisiana gamblers that it will make their nefarious business difficult to transact and so far reduce their illicit profits that it will be a serious question whether they can afford to take the new risks they must encounter. If the bill is reinforced, as it should be, by prohibitive legislation on the part of the various States and Territories and by the stringent enforcement of existing statutes, the Louisiana lottery system will soon have reached the beginning of the end. The bill forbids the carriage in the mails of lottery matter of any description—letters, postal cards, circulars, lists of prizes, tickets, checks, drafts, money orders, or newspapers containing lottery notices or advertisements. It authorizes the Postmaster-General to instruct Postmasters to stamp all registered letters addressed to the lottery concern as "fraudulent" and return them to the senders, and makes it prima-facie evidence of the existence of a lottery agency whenever the announcement is made by the parent concern that remittances may be sent to any other person, bank, or corporation. It forbids the payment of postal money orders by any Postmaster drawn to the order of a lottery company or its agents, provides heavy penalties for the violation of any of these provisions, and authorizes prosecution either in the district where the mail matter is sent or received.

It will be seen from this general sketch of its provisions that the bill is a comprehensive one and there can be no doubt that the Postmaster-General, having both the disposition and the machinery at his command, will enforce it to the very letter. It will rejoice the hearts of the members of the Anti-Lottery League and the Farmers' Alliance in Louisiana and of the good citizens of North Dakota, where the gamblers have been looking for a chance to reinstate themselves in case of defeat at home. It will delight business-men and law-abiding people. It should delight the poor and the working classes, as it rescues them from the colossal swindles practiced upon them by the lottery sharks. It has retrieved the good name of the National Government, for it can no longer be charged with the accusation of being a silent partner in this nefarious business. Last, but not least, it rejoices The Chicago Tribune, which has fought this monstrous evil from the very beginning and exposed its swindling transactions to public scrutiny. It is a grand triumph for the right and for the Republican party.

THE EXODUS OF CLEVELAND.

The Democrats of New York, and more particularly the mugwumps, are exercised over the report that Grover Cleveland has decided to evacuate that city and set up his Lares and Penates among his admirers in Massachusetts. The Stuffed Prophet, as the Democratic Sun irreverently styles him, has been in the habit of spending his summers in the vicinity of Buzzard's Bay, and his particular friends give it out that it is the charm of Massachusetts scenery and the delectability of the Massachusetts climate that have induced him to make his residence permanent and seek to become a favorite son of the Old Bay State. Pat Collins is very hopeful he will come, the Boston Globe declares that practically he is already a citizen of Massachusetts, and that as such he will have its delegation solid in 1892, and the Democratic party of the State is preparing to welcome him with distinguished honors.

There is another side to this removal, however. It is given out that vowing he would ne'er consent at last he has consented and that for the third time he will be a candidate for the Presidency before the Democratic National Convention. But no man, not even a great moral reformer like Grover Cleveland, can afford to go before a National convention without a solid delegation from his own State behind him. Hence it would be the height of folly to put in an appearance from New York and confront a solid New York delegation sounding its trumpets and flying its banners for the whisky Governor, Hill. Even a moral reformer must have a machine and represent a sovereign State. As Hill has captured the New York machine and represents that State by virtue of the sovereignty of whisky and Tammany, Cleveland's friends now claim he must go to Massachusetts, acclimate himself on east wind, codfish, and baked beans, and there secure his solid delegation, leaving the mugwumps on the other shore to lament like Lord Ullin.

So far as securing a solid delegation is concerned this is sage advice, and it would be a unique spectacle that of Grover Cleveland entering the convention, followed by Pat Collins and his crowd of the ruling race, and President Eliot and the mugwumps of Harvard. But his friends are short-sighted. What bigger boom could the whisky Governor of New York desire than to have Grover Cleveland turn tail and beat an inglorious retreat by way of Fall River to the classic shades of Boston, seeking "his own State"? What will he gain by it? The New York delegation still will be solid for Hill and will dictate the nomination, in spite of Majah Jones and all the mugwump birds. He is not built on the model of a favorite son of Massachusetts. He has too much girth and corporosity for a child of the east wind. He may think he will obtain a respite from Dana, but he is is only running into Charybdis while avoiding Scylla, for he must deal with Ben Butler, who is worse than Dana, and who will dispute his claim even as an adopted son. Massachusetts offers no special advantage for the exercise of his peculiar gifts. If advice is needed on great moral questions he can give it in New York just as well as in Massachusetts. There are more dinners in New York, consequently more opportunities for platitudes. As a complete letter-writer he can indite his airy and graceful epistles just as freely in New York as in Boston, and the fishing is just as good at Rockaway or Seabright as it is round Misery Island or Nantasket. But worse than all, it is retreat in sight of the enemy and confession of cowardice. Far better would it be for him to stay at home and fight it out with Hill, and to go down with colors flying and the band playing, than to run away to Buzzard's Bay, Berkshire, or Boston, and then try to sneak into the convention as a favorite son of that stanch old Republican State.

EIGHTEEN REASONS.

It was stated by one of the papers yesterday that the hostility to the dual site has not died away and that it is possible this hostility may prove successful and the Lake-Front be rejected. Time will tell as to that, but it is certain that if the question is reopened the eighteen reasons submitted to the Board of United States Engineers why there should be an Exposition on the Lake-Front will not save that part of the dual site. For where the reasons do not consist of solemn platitudes they are such as are engendered in shopkeeping minds and addressed to shopkeeping intellects. The statement that "great exhibitions are located at great cities not by chance" is about as impressive as a statement that a man who always carries an umbrella with him is less likely to get wet than one who never does. As for "the unrivaled view of Lake Michigan, the most magnificent body of fresh water in the world," and the "magnificent panorama" of the shipping of Chicago, they will furnish subjects for humorous paragraphs in Eastern papers. Underlying all these reasons for a Lake-Front show is the assumption that the Fair is to be for the city alone or chiefly, and that the attendance of its citizens will be its main support. Neither is correct.

There was one reason assigned by one hard-headed old fellow—Mr. Sam Allerton—for a Lake-Front site which, though not included in the eighteen, was worth them all, because it went right to the root of the site contention. It is that that part of the dual site was chosen in the interests of harmony between the three divisions of the city. There was a fierce fight between warring "sides" and sites, and the North and West Sides would not vote for Jackson Park unless a neutral site was tacked onto it. For locality plays its wretched part in the choice of sites for world's fairs just as it does in the selection of candidates for the Legislature or the making up a county ticket.

The conference of librarians, which has just closed its annual session at the Fabyan House in the White Mountains, was one of more than ordinary importance in its bearings upon what Prof. Harris, the National Commissioner of Education, so aptly calls "the college of the people." Over 250 librarians were present, and with them for the first time several library trustees, among the latter Norman Williams, one of the trustees of our John Crerar library. One important result of the presence of the trustees was the movement originating among them for the raising of an endowment fund, the income to be applied to the printing and distribution of the papers and proceedings of the association. Still another was a clearer understanding of the line between the legislative functions of the trustees and the executive functions of the librarians. An interesting feature of the session was the discussion of library architecture, and in this direction great interest was manifested in the compartment plans of our own Newberry library as explained by Dr. Poole. Valuable papers also were read by Prof. Harris on the relation of the library to popular education and by Prof. Adams of Baltimore on university extension or the combination of lecture courses intended for definite instruction with the well directed use of library books. It was a gathering of practical, energetic, expert librarians, and it is gratifying to note that Chicago held a leading place among them.

The tail appears to have wagged the dog quite vigorously in the Randall district of Pennsylvania. It will be remembered that Mr. Richard Vaux, a ruffle-shirted, moss-backed, and fossilized specimen of the old Jackson Bourbon Democracy, was elected to fill Mr. Randall's unexpired term with the understanding that he should have the nomination also for the next Congress from that district. It appears now, however, that he has been used only as an ornamental figure-head, since he has been defeated for the renomination. The Pennsylvania Bourbons of the Vaux sort are charging freely that this result is due to the Philadelphia mugwumps, who hate Vaux because he hates them, and who are determined on humiliating him. The Democratic candidate for Governor is one of the most afflicted over the result and says: "I will not see so good a man as Richard Vaux humiliated to the dust without cause. He would have swept the district like a whirlwind, but the hated mugwump influence makes cowards of the timid and faltering." It is not exactly clear, however, what the fossils propose to do. Another man has received the nomination, and without the mugwump support Vaux would be helpless even if he should be run. The hated mugwump seems to be on top in that district.

John Morley, so says a London cablegram, has gone to Ireland to consult with Mr. John Dillon in reference to the latter's proposed visit to this country to solicit Irish-American aid for the home-rule movement. This announcement should have the effect of settling the dispute between the "triangle" and the "anti-triangle" branches of the Clan-na-Gael organization. Mr. Dillon as the political ally of Mr. Gladstone's principal lieutenant cannot possibly have anything whatsoever to do with either branch of an organization whose cardinal principle is the total separation of Ireland from England by armed revolution. Mr. Dillon will find, too, on his arrival in this country that the great mass of the sensible, thoughtful, cool-headed, and progressive Irish-Americans believe with him that Ireland will be best governed in connection with Great Britain, but with a Parliament of its own for the legislative management of purely Irish affairs. In short, they repudiate revolution and are satisfied that Mr. Gladstone's plan of home rule is all right.

Kennedy's Expurgated Speech.

"Fighting Bob" Kennedy's speech in the House the 3d inst. denouncing the Senate and "Matt" Quay in such unmeasured terms for failure to pass the force bill is published in the Congressional Record after being held two weeks for revision, but not as it was delivered. The speech has been broken up by nearly fifty subheads, though it makes little over four pages of the Record, and each sentence is set out as a separate paragraph, after the crazy-quilt style inaugurated by the Okolona (Miss.) States in the Presidential campaign of twelve years ago.

Among the "gems" deliberately omitted from the spech as now revised and published are the following: "The cloak of 'Senatorial courtesy' has become a stench in the nostrils and a byword in the mouths of all the honest citizens of the land. It makes a cloak behind which ignorant and arrogant wealth can purchase its way to power and then hide its cowardly head behind the shameless protection of 'Senatorial silence.' It means a cloak which shall cover up from the public gaze of an outraged people the infamies which demand investigation and which merit the punishment of broken laws and violated statutes. It means a cloak behind which petty party bickerings may barter away a party's principles and play the demagogue in the face of the people. It means a cloak behind which pretended fairness hides its dishonest head, while in secret it is trading and trafficking in the rights and liberties of the people. It means a cloak under which not only the timid but the cowardly politician can cover up his tracks and be either foul or fair, as the necessity demands. The hour for Senatorial courtesy has passed. The ox-team of Senatorial progress must give way to the motor of a more enlightened and progressive and determined age. Let the old and threadbare cloak of Senatorial courtesy be hung up with the sickle and the flail of a bygone day."

Not a line of any of this appears in the expurgated edition. There is a vague and general reference to "Judas," and to the history of two thousand years ago repeating itself, but "Judas" is not specifically identified with the junior Senator from Pennsylvania, as when the speech was delivered.

Boutelle's Noisy Attack on Blaine.

The noisy attack which Congressman Boutelle, the howling dervish of Maine politics, has made upon Mr. Blaine through the columns of the Bangor Whig is merely public announcement that Boutelle looks upon the Maine election as marking the end of Mr. Blaine's power in politics. Boutelle, the creature of Blaine, has come to the conclusion that Blaine is a "back number," and that Reed is the man for him to follow hereafter. In speaking of this change of leadership the New York Times says that "Mr. Blaine has ceased to be the Man from Maine, Mr. Reed now occupying that position, and has become only a man from Maine." We should say rather that the two should be spoken of as the Man from Maine and the Second Man from Maine. The type remains unchanged, as do the political methods and morals of the leadership. Boutelle and his kind turn to Reed because they hope to get, through his power, what they formerly got through Blaine's—that is, offices for themselves and a share in the distribution of the spoils. Boutelle, in fact, serves notice upon the President that the Maine election gives him no excuse for further refusal to hand over the control of the Maine patronage to the Second Man from Maine. It will be interesting to see what answer the President will make.

Population of the Largest Cities.

The Census Bureau has received a request to furnish the population of twenty of the largest cities in the country, based upon the census of 1890. The official count for that number of cities, with a population of over 100,000, has not been prepared yet. Sixteen cities, out of the thirty-odd which have the largest populations, were furnished as follows:

New York, 1,513,501; Chicago, 1,098,576; Philadelphia, 1,044,894; Brooklyn, 804,374; St. Louis, 460,357; Boston, 446,507; Baltimore, 433,577; Milwaukee, 204,099; Washington, 229,796; Jersey City, 163,987; Louisville, 161,005; Pittsburg, 238,473, Allegheny City, 104,976 (together, 343,449); Omaha, 139,526; Buffalo, 255,343; Minneapolis, 164,790; St. Paul, 133,311.

In the census of 1880 there were only twenty-one cities with populations of more than 100,000, but the present census will show an increase of about eleven, making in all thirty-two having a population of 100,000 or more.

Actor Sullivan—formerly Slugger Sullivan—is making more money on the theatrical stage than he did in the prize-ring. He says he has abandoned the punching profession for good. Any common duffer can claim the championship now. Actor Sullivan is like many other great men. Having achieved the summit of his ambition he kicks down the ladder on which he climbed up.

If we understand the matter correctly the real ground of Democratic complaint and indignation against the Shoreham Hotel, Washington, is the high price demanded for Democratic beverages by the proprietors.

Yesterday Boston celebrated its 260th anniversary with quiet rejoicings in its own sedate Bostonian way. The cows along whose meandering paths its streets were built are all dead, but the grand old New England Capital lives on. And long may it live!

Several policemen have been discharged for general worthlessness, lounging about saloons, and sleeping while on duty, and general consternation prevails in the "foorce."

Some reprobate, filled with the idea that it was a good practical joke, personated Mr. R. M. Easley of the Hutchinson (Kas.) News and filled a hotel reporter with statements reflecting on the condition of the State of Kansas. As Mr. Easley was not stopping at the hotel mentioned and for the further reason that he was not in Chicago at the time the reporter thought he was interviewing him, it is evident that some one with a decidedly curtailed intellect has put up a measly sort of job on the Kansas editor. Mr. Easley will be justified in giving the person who perpetrated the dirty trick a sound thrashing when he finds him.

Potatoes are high. There is no blinking this fact. It requires a great deal of nerve to be a rigid vegetarian these days.

Joe Howard of the New York Press longs for the day when a double stage or some other ingenious aid or abetment can be brought into action, "so that cigarette fiends will be compelled perforce either to keep away from the theater altogether or conduct themselves like men while there." "Every man has a physical right," he says, "to do as he pleases, so far as he himself is concerned, but no man living has a physical right to make offensive and unbearable the atmosphere of a public gathering-place." Occasionally Joe digs out a nugget of solid truth.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

A revival of "Pinafore" is announced for this evening and the remainder of the week at the Auditorium. Last spring's performance of this opera at the Auditorium will long be remembered. It will be given the same setting which characterized its revival at that time, and the improved cast will doubtless show the musical beauties of the work to better advantage. "Trial by Jury," a little one act musical comedy which is familiar to Chicago theater-goers, will precede the performance of "Pinafore."

Mr. Augustus Thomas, author of "A Man of the World," has written a war comedy for Mr. A. M. Palmer, who engaged him to do the work, which is to pass under his own control again if Mr. Palmer does not produce it. It deals with what Mr. Thomas conceives to be the possible humorous features of the civil war as they appeared to the officers of the Northern army. The scenes are laid chiefly in Richmond.

Mr. Maurice Barrymore closes his engagement with the Palmer company in two weeks, and goes to New York to rehearse another new play by Mr. Thomas, which is to be presented at the Standard under the management of J. M. Hill.

The sale of seats opened at the Chicago Opera-House yesterday for the first performance in the West of Rice's New Surprise Party in "The World's Fair."

There is a report that a prominent circus will occupy the Exposition Building and give entertainments during the winter.

IN A MINOR KEY.

How He Paralyzed Her.

"Rambo," said Baldwin, as the two sat down at a table in a restaurant, "watch me paralyze that waiter girl."

He beckoned to the girl, and she obeyed the summons.

"My dear," he said, "you may bring me some rare-done chicken soup."

She went away and returned presently, bringing a bowl of lukewarm water with a chicken-bone floating about in it.

"This isn't on the bill of fare," she observed, putting down a check for 25 cents, "and it costs extra. Anything else?"

The Boston Highwayman in Action.

"Pause!" sternly commanded the footpad, pointing a loaded revolver at the head of the belated pedestrian. "Suspend progress immediately, or with the index member of the digital extremities of my dexter manipulatory organ I communicate motion to the small metallic lever on the nether side of this weapon and release the mechanism it holds in check, thereby permitting the resultant concussion to explode the detonating fulminate contained in the rearward portion of the cartridge, vaporize the combined product of nitrate of potash, sulphur, and pulverized carbon with which it is in immediate contact, and impart a sudden propelling impulse to the elongated leaden projectile to secure the propulsion of which with adequate velocity this mechanical device originally was brought into the sphere of action."

"What do you want?" gasped the astonished victim.

"The immediate transfer and surrender of whatever auriferous or argentiferous disks coined for purposes of exchange or printed notes exchangeable for such disks of which you may by any fortuitous concatenation of circumstances be the possessor, together with such other articles of intrinsic value or capable of being hypothecated for the necessary means of subsistence as may have found a temporary lodgment in your garments. Nothing of a nutritious or alimentary nature has passed my lips for twenty-four hours," he added, with a smothered sob. "The exigencies of my financial situation leave me no other resource than to take these imperative measures. Extrude the impedimenta or the crepitation will eventuate at once."

"Is it something to eat you want?"

"That is the summum bonum of my ambition—the ne plus ultra of my hopes."

From a basket on his arm the belated traveler took out a cylindrical package. He gave it to the footpad, who held it up where the flickering rays of a dim street-lamp fell upon it, gave one glance at the printed label, shrieked deliriously, and fainted for joy.

It was a can of baked beans.

PERSONALS.

Bayless W. Hanna of Indiana, ex-Minister to the Argentine Republic, has had three light attacks of paralysis recently, and his condition is considered serious.

Ex-Gov. Hubbard of Texas is one of the weightiest politicians of the Democracy. He weighs 380 pounds and has a voice like a speaking trumpet.

Sam Jones says he is pleased to find that "every one who tries to preach as I do makes an ass of himself." This is not a new thing, Samuel. It was always so.

Annie Brown, colored, lives in Houston County, Georgia. She is 47 years old, weighs 500 pounds, is 5 feet 8 inches in height, 7 feet 2 inches in circumference around the bust, 6 feet 4 inches around the waist, and 30 inches around the arm near the shoulder.

Mrs. Henry E. Perrine, the handsome mother of the handsome Mrs. Grover Cleveland, is said to be a splendid housekeeper. In Buffalo, where she lives, she can be seen with her husband every Saturday morning going to Washington market, each with baskets.

Christopher Stanley, an old inventor of Elizabeth, N. J., committed suicide because he was unable to discover perpetual motion. He had experimented for years and spent hundreds of dollars. He was 74 years old, a veteran of the Franco-German war, and was a fine mechanic, but an eccentric character.

Prof. W. R. Harper of Yale, who has lately returned from the West, was asked by a Boston reporter if he intended to accept the Presidency of the new Baptist University in Chicago. He said: "They are making certain presentations to me, but I am very happy here in New Haven, and I am not thinking of going out there. I hope to stay here for some time to come."

A. T. Goshorn said the other day to a Cincinnati reporter about the Director-Generalship of the World's Fair: "Why, it has not been offered me. The directors called on me one day and asked me many questions as to the details of management. Further than that they have not talked to me. I told them I would expect $30,000 a year, and have not seen anything of them since."

Gen. Alger thus sets at rest the rumor that he is about to engage in the newspaper business: "In the first place I wouldn't buy a newspaper to forward my political chances, because I would know that it would have the contrary effect, and it is like saying I am a fool to start such a report. In the second place, if I were going to engage in any business it would be something that I was acquainted with, and I don't know anything about the newspaper business. In the last place, I have more business now than I can give proper attention."

PRESIDENTIAL GOSSIP.

The Trenton (Del.) Gazette names Congressman McKinley as its choice for President in 1892.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat has this queer paragraph: "Indiana Republicans do not seem just now to have any favorite son to enter for the race for the Presidential nomination in 1892. Hoosier Republicans are not often situated thus, yet their activity in the State canvass this year is not likely to be hampered on this account."

David B. Hill as a Presidential quantity is virtually unknown outside of his own State, while nearly every Democratic State convention is warm in praise of Mr. Cleveland. Connecticut is the latest State to give him hearty indorsement. Still David B. is a factor which Mr. Cleveland's friends cannot afford to ignore in their Presidential calculations.

The Galveston News, which can scarcely be considered good authority on matters of Republican party management, thinks that "Mr. Reed's increased majority at home puts him well up in the list of men who may aspire to the Presidential nomination of the Republican party. He has audacity, and audacity has been given a vote of approval."

Says the Rockford (Ill.) Gazette: "Now that it is becoming more evident than ever that James G. Blaine is sure to loom up as the possible nominee of the Republican party for President in 1892, the Democratic organs have stopped their fulsome praise of him and renewed their usual abuse of the Maine statesman. They are equally afraid of Speaker Reed, however, and are kept pretty busy piling adjectives on the so-called 'Czar' as well as the 'reciprocity humbug.'"

Gen. J. T. Torrence of Chicago said the other day to a New York reporter: "We want a man who would give prestige to the Presidential chair and be original and progressive, and Mr. Depew is just the man. He is not unknown to fame, as many candidates are, and his nomination would be equivalent to an election. He could carry the Northwest with a hurrah, and if any Republican could carry a Southern State I believe he could. He is a man of the people, and every hamlet and town in the country would rally to his support."

Judge C. W. Fairbanks of Indianapolis was one of the foremost and ablest advocates of the nomination of Judge Gresham in 1888, and it is said that he is still desirous of seeing his favorite lead the Republican hosts. Judge Fairbanks was in New York a few days ago, and when asked if he intended to support Judge Gresham for the Presidency in 1892, his face assumed a serious look and he said: "Sufficient unto the day is the good thereof. Wait until 1892. The Judge is a brilliant man, has a large following, and would make a great President."

The New York Sun may be considered somewhat prejudiced when Republican men or measures are concerned, but its views are always entertaining. It says: "Perhaps Blaine and Reed and McKinley are too positive, robust, and manly personalities to be the candidates of reconciliation and union. Feebler men with less eminent and salient distinctive traits may be better fitted to bring out a full partisan support. But around such men the enthusiasm of a party crystallizes, and among their attached personal followers the hope of the party finds its best justification. These leaders may not reap the fruits of victory, but they choose the field on which the contest is to be decided. Cheaper men may be the candidates of the party, but even among cheap men there is a choice; and Benjamin Harrison is out of it."

The Washington correspondent of the Kansas City Times (intensely Democratic) has been looking over the Republican Presidential field, and these are his conclusions. "The question now arises as to what effect Mr. Reed's reëlection will exercise over the Republican Presidential situation in 1892. On the one hand it is asserted that Gen. Harrison will be a candidate for renomination, come what may, while on the other it is stated with considerable positiveness that if the Republicans are beaten badly at the ensuing election he will retire from the field and arrange to go back to the law practice at Indianapolis at the expiration of his term. The chances are that the President will be a candidate for renomination first, last, and all the time. . . . If anybody supposes that Mr. Blaine is lying awake nights worrying how he can help Gen. Harrison secure renomination in 1892, that idea is a vain conclusion. Mr. Blaine is in the swim and no mistake, but it is evident that he will need something more than his reciprocity proposition to pull through with. . . . A prominent Republican member from a Westen State, who was one of Mr. Reed's stanch supporters for the Speakership, discussing the Presidential situation for 1892, said to a coterie of politicians that he did not believe Mr. Reed cherished Presidential ambitions, at least at the present juncture. 'Mr. Reed is aware,' said the member, 'that he could hardly hope to carry the State of Maine as against Mr. Blaine, and as long as Blaine is in the Presidential race—a proposition hardly debatable—Reed would have a fight on his hands that would cripple him effectually. Then again, with the preponderance that the West will have in the nominating convention it would seem that the West would be able to control the nomination for a Western man.' . . . Mr. McKinley has decidedly wider Presidential ambitions just now than Reed, but he could not carry Ohio as against John Sherman in the event the latter enters the field. It looks to me that Sherman would keep in the race as long as Blaine does, since they both have been in each other's way for many years, so far as the Presidential nomination is concerned. Sherman is much the older man, but is in better health than Blaine."

CREATED A SENSATION.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT CONCERNING A ROYAL MARRIAGE.

Princess Maud, the Daughter of England's Future King, Will, It Is Reported, Wed Ferdinand of the Rothschild Family—"Grandma's" Consent Necessary, However—Labor Troubles Abroad—Miscellaneous News from Across the Ocean.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE TRIBUNE.]

DUBLIN, Sept. 17.—The Irish Times, the most conservative paper in Dublin, creates a sensation today by publishing the following from its London correspondent:

Another royal marriage is on the tapis, but grandma has first to be soothed down, and, I expect, will require all the persuasive eloquence of our future King to get off certain prejudices. H. R. H. appears to greatly favor an alliance with the wealthy house of Rothschild, and Ferdinand of that illustrious family has had the glamor thrown over him by Princess Maud, the youngest daughter of Albert Edward, Prince of Wales. The Princess was born in 1869, so by this time ought to know her own mind. Naturally there are all sorts of stories about the project. Should a special dispensation be granted by her Majesty the joining together of these two persons in holy matrimony will be an event of the coming year.

MANGLED BY WILD ANIMALS.

Many People Killed by Beasts Turned Loose from a Menagerie.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Mail advices from Kimberly, South Africa, tell of an awful occurrence there. Some person bearing ill feeling toward the proprietor of Fillis Menagerie opened the doors of the cages confining the wild animals and set them all free. Four attendants sleeping on the premises were mangled beyond recognition, being actually torn limb from limb, bitten and gashed in the most sickening manner. Four enormous male lions sprang from cages and made for the stables, where one of them leaped upon the back of the great jumping stallion. The attendants, a Scotchman named Patterson and three Kaffir boys, who, armed with stable forks, rushed to the relief of the stallion.

From the dying words of one Kaffir, who was the only one able to speak when aid came, it was learned that they rushed to unspeakable torture and met a fearful death. A little child of James Grindley, happening to be in a rear room opening on a garden, was pounced upon by a cheetah and dragged into the open air, where its agonized mother saw it torn to pieces. Other and equally harrowing incidents are reported, among which is the killing of five women, who were fearfully mangled. When the mails left the police were organizing into hunting parties, and the town was in a condition of a panic and siege.

GENERAL NEWS FROM ABROAD.

Emperors William and Joseph Meet and Heartily Greet Each Other.

ROHNSTOCK, Sept. 17.—Emperor William received Emperor Francis Joseph at the depot here this evening. The two Emperors repeatedly embraced and kissed each other. Count Kalnoky was cordially greeted by Chancellor von Caprivi. The Emperors, escorted by a guard of honor, drove to the castle, Count Kalnoky and Chancellor von Caprivi following. Deputations from veteran and other associations lined the route and great enthusiasm prevailed.

Labor Troubles Abroad.

MELBOURNE, Sept. 17.—The stevedores and dock-laborers here have struck. The loading of mail and other steamers is suspended. The city President of the Wool Shearers' Union states that the shearers have not been ordered to break their agreements. They have only been instructed not to accept fresh work. The Western colliers will obey the order to stop work, but they do not approve of it. One hundred steamers have been fully manned. The employers assert that they can dispense with the labor of unionists.

SOUTHAMPTON, Sept. 17.—Work on all the docks has been resumed.

An arrangement has been made by which troops will be placed at the disposal of the city on two hours' notice in the event of further trouble without the authorities obtaining the formal consent of the War Office. The docks today were crowded with men seeking work. A rumor is current that the Royal Mail Steamship company intends to import German labor if there is any renewal of the strike. A few mail steamers are still delayed, but they will probably clear tomorrow. A sensation has been caused by the arrest of Mr. Shears, the Treasurer of the local Seamen's Union, on the charge of intimidation.

CORK, Sept. 17.—The striking bakers have become violent. Their pickets have been hooting at and molesting persons who have made purchases at the stores, and in some cases have stolen bread from them. Several arrests have been made.

Will Change the Tactics of War.

VIENNA, Sept. 17.—The further use of smokeless powder on the field of battle, which has been made one of the chief features of the military maneuvers in Hungary, has resulted in confirming the view which has already been arrived at by authorities on army matters that the adoption of the new explosive would compel the institution of extensive changes in the tactics of war. There were seventy-seven battalions of infantry, thirty-six squadrons of cavalry, and 128 pieces of artillery engaged in heavy firing for four hours during the maneuvers. The commanding officers were unable to judge of the position and strength of the opposing forces by the density of the smoke, as they can when the old powder is used, and it took a very long time to fix the positions of the firing batteries. While the infantry was under cover it could scarcely be discovered at all and no estimate could be made of its force or movements. The new powder emits an unpleasant odor. Altogether it is very unpopular with the army.

Americans Returning from Abroad.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Sept. 17.—All the homeward bound steamers are carrying many notable Americans. The Umbria has Augustin Daly and wife, the Rev. Morgan Dix and wife, Kate Forsyth, Ada Rehan, F. W. Rhinelander and wife, Mrs. A. G. Sutter, the Rev. John Hall and wife, and Frank Haseltine. The Elbe carries Julian T. Davis, A. J. Pecker, M. L. Pecker, and William Walter Phelps. The Britannic's list includes the Rev. C. H. Parkhurst. The City of Berlin has aboard Consul-General New. The Normandie carries George W. Munro. The Trave, Fräulein Lausder. Gen. Horace Porter sailed suddenly by the City of Chester, called home by the serious illness of his eldest son. The Majestic will carry to New York Dr. James McLane and Harriet Hubbard Ayer.

Anent the Boulanger Rumpus.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—Owing to the statements made by Gen. Boulanger M. Naquet has decided to retain his seat in the Chamber of Deputies in order to refute the calumnies uttered by the General. The Figaro today in its series of articles revealing the inside history of the Boulangist movement describes the confusion that occurred among the leaders of the party owing to Gen. Boulanger's unexpected departure for Brussels to avoid arrest.

M. Mermeix, the author of the damaging charge against Gen. Boulanger, had a narrow escape from death in his last duel, which came off at Geneva yesterday, with M. Dumonteil, member of the Chamber of Deputies for Aisne. M. Dumonteil's weapon penetrated the breast of Mermeix within an inch of the heart. The shock to the latter was severe, but no serious result is now feared, although the wound is painful and not without great risk to his life.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—It is announced that Gen. Boulanger will publish a full explanation of the exact relations that have existed between himself and the Royalist party, as well as his connection with his own adherents.

Portugal Will Have a New Cabinet.

LISBON, Sept. 17.—The King has accepted the resignation of the whole Cabinet. He will confer tomorrow with the Presidents of the Chambers and leading statesmen. It is expected Senhor Serpa-Pimental will remain Premier and will assume the Foreign portfolio.

The Rush of Goods to New York.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE TRIBUNE.]

MANCHESTER, Sept. 17.—The rush to get goods over to New York as early as possible in order to avoid the payment of the McKinley tariff is so great that it is extremely difficult to secure tonnage, all the available space on the liners being engaged. The City of Chester is full up and Saturday's Cunarder cannot carry all the freight her owners have been asked to take. Consignments intended for New York are being sent via Boston at a cost of over 20 per cent more than the direct rates. Such activity is unprecedented, for the fast boats especially.

Selling Slaves in Zanzibar.

ZANZIBAR, Sept. 17.—The slavery proclamation was signed by the German commanders of the respective stations. Brokers' houses are now full of slaves, having been established under German license. Permits to recover runaways will lead to much kidnaping of free natives. The news of the proclamation has spread over the whole coast, and traffic has revived to an extent unknown in thirty years.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—Official circles and the Government newspapers take the tone of the Post in regard to the slavery question in Africa. The Liberal press on the other hand loudly condemns the actions of the German authorities at Bagomoyo.

Was the Work of Incendiaries.

MADRID, Sept. 17.—It has been decided to send a delegate to Granada to report as to the cost of restoring the Alhambra Palace.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—A dispatch has been received in this city from Granada which gives currency to the report that the fire in the Alhambra Palace was of incendiary origin, and that it was the work of thieves who set fire to the historic building in order to screen the theft of some of the many works of art contained in the palace. The damage by the fire was $50,000.

Cholera Spreading in Spain.

MADRID, Sept. 17.—The hot weather has increased the number of cholera victims in Toledo and Valcenia and has caused the appearance of the disease in many villages. In Albacte, Alicante, Castellon de la Plana, Targona, and Toledo the epidemic is attacking the upper classes. Most of the victims are women and children.

SUAKIM, Sept. 17.—Advices have been received confirming the report of the prevalence of cholera at Massowah. In consequence of this and notwithstanding the protests of the Indian traders, the traffic between Massowah and Suakim has been absolutely closed.

The Revolution in Switzerland.

BERNE, Sept. 17.—Reports from Bellinzona state that quietness prevails there. Firing has been heard in the direction of Balerna, but the Federal troops have been forbidden to go beyond the outskirts of Ballinzona. M. Respini, a Conservative member of the Ticino Cantonal Council, had an interview with President Buchonnet in this city yesterday. He demanded the impeachment of the rebel officials and the reinstatement of the former government.

Four Million People Homeless.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 17.—The steamship City of Rio Janeiro arrived this morning from Hong Kong and Yokohama via Victoria, B. C. She brings Chinese advices to Aug. 21 and Japanese advices to Aug. 29. The Yellow River flood and other floods continue to absorb attention in China. In the Province of Chihli there are 4,000,000 people homeless, and the misery in Chantung is almost as great. Cholera is prevalent in Shanghai and northern districts, and several Europeans have succumbed to it.

Affairs in the Argentine Republic.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 17.—Señor Roca, Minister of the Interior, is accused of intriguing to secure the Presidency. He maintains, however, that he is resolved not to be a candidate. The Minister of Finance has officially declared that no issue of notes further than the one recently sanctioned will be countenanced. The Ministers of the Province of Buenos Ayres have resigned. They will be replaced by men who are in harmony with the national Government.

May Come to America.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The Duke and Duchess of Portland, than whom few young married couples have begun life under more brilliant auspices, are contemplating a tour of America, which they will visit for the first time. It is expected they will sail toward the end of October.

Briefs from Abroad.

Another priest was shot and severely wounded in the Armenian Cathedral at Koumkapon Saturday, the assailant exclaiming: "This is what happens to informers!"

At a Socialist meeting in Berlin Herr Vogtherr, one of the municipal officers, demanded that the Socialists secede from the national church. The meeting was forcibly dispersed by the police.

There is no truth in the story in American papers as to Sir Edwin Arnold's alleged intention to marry a Japanese lady. Mr. Arthur Arnold writes to the London Star as follows: "With reference to the statements concerning my brother, Sir Edwin Arnold, and the quotation from an American journal I shall be obliged if you will state that within the last fortnight a telegram has been received from him describing these matters appearing in American journals as malicious lies and stating that he is returning soon to London."

ILLINOIS COAL-MINERS TO STRIKE.

Over 40,000 Men to Demand an Increase in Pay.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Patrick McBryde, member of the Executive Board of the United Mine Workers, was in Pittsburg tonight on his way to Springfield, Ill., where he will order a strike of the 40,000 miners employed in the Indiana and Illinois fields. The strike will be for an advance in wages and will begin Nov. 1. In the northern districts an advance of 7½ cents is asked. In the southern districts the advance asked is 10 cents.

The strike has been brewing for a long time. The Illinois and Indiana operators, it is charged, have been showing themselves particularly hostile toward the men. The demands were made last spring. The miners then announced they would work throughout the summer. The operators have steadily refused the advance, except those in the Northern districts, who will concede it if the Southern operators will also make the concession. As the latter refuse to do so, however, a strike is certain. The miners have been preparing for the strike and plenty of funds have been secured to put backbone into it. The Executive Board of the United Mine Workers has sanctioned the strike and Mr. McBryde goes West as its representative.

Mr. McBryde said tonight: "There will certainly be a strike of the Indiana and Illinois miners. We are well prepared for it and will ask the Pennsylvania and Ohio operators to shut down temporarily in order that we may close every avenue of escape for the Western operators."

MAY CAUSE A SPLIT IN THE RANKS.

Possible Result of the Fight Against Generalissimo Underwood.

TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Tomorrow the I. O. O. F. Judiciary Committee will submit its report upon the suspension of Grand-Master Barnum and Capt.-Gen. Ellis. Barnum and Ellis have united their forces and will make a hard fight upon Grand Sire Underwood. No intimation has yet been given by the committee as to the nature of its report. It will make little difference what that report is as the matter will be settled in the lodge, and the result will depend entirely upon the personal following of the interested parties.

Odd-Fellows in this city who claim to be familiar with the facts deny the rumor that the trouble between Generalissimo John C. Underwood of the Patriarchs Militant and Capt.-Gen. Ellis will result in a split in the Patriarchal organization. Considerable dissatisfaction was expressed, it will be remembered, over Gen. Underwood's management of the recent cantonment in Chicago. Besides being Generalissimo of the Patriarchs Militant Gen. Underwood was also Grand Sire of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd-Fellows. In accordance with an enactment of the Sovereign Grand Lodge at Baltimore in 1887 Captain-General Ellis was to become the successor to Gen. Underwood Sept. 5, 1890. Captain-General Ellis issued an order to all the cantons in the United States, assuming command of the Patriarchal army. Gen. Underwood nullified this order by issuing an order Sept. 11 charging Capt.-Gen. Ellis with insubordination, and the latter was peremptorily suspended. Gen. Underwood's action has caused a commotion in the ranks of the Patriarchs, a majority of whom seem to take the side of Captain-General Ellis.

Made a Thirty-third Degree Mason.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Frank M. Luce was made a thirty-third degree Mason by the Supreme Council convened here today.

MUST HAVE RECIPROCITY.

BLAINE'S LETTER EMPHASIZES THE POPULAR DEMAND.

None of the Opponents of the Plan Strong Enough to Get the Amendment Out of the Tariff Bill, as Western Members Demand That It Shall Remain to Offset the Benefits Conferred upon Eastern Manufacturers—General Doings at Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Secretary Blaine's latest letter on reciprocity has had a timely effect on the National Capitol. None of the opponents of reciprocity, from Speaker Reed down, have felt strong enough to advocate the scheme for getting the amendment out of the Tariff bill, yet a good many plans have been discussed for making it even less effective than it now stands. The fact that the New England and Eastern manufacturers are the chief beneficiaries by the McKinley bill is apt to be emphasized when the conference committee gets through its work, because some of the provisions put in by Western influence will be smothered in conference.

Western members today were not slow in seizing the point. They appreciate as much as anybody can the necessity of having some provisions in the bill which will help reconcile their constituencies to it. Reciprocity in any shape is agreeable to them. While Secretary Blaine's letter will aid the general movement, there is not much hope that the sugar duties alone can furnish a basis for negotiations. The sugar movement had gone so far that few members were courageous enough to advocate leaving the duties alone for the present. Yet if it is so desired the conference committee could practically carry out the Blaine idea without giving up its free sugar contention.

As the bill now stands the sugar schedule goes into effect March 1, 1891. The Louisiana planters have made out what seems to be a good cause against the date, and have asked that the sugar duties take effect Oct. 1, with the rest of the bill, or that the date be fixed at July 1, 1891. This is the time fixed in the Aldrich amendment for the President to reimpose the duty as against countries which have failed to give the United States a reciprocal market. Instead of leaving this discretionary power in the hands of the President it would be just as easy to enact that July 1, 1891, the sugar duties should be remitted only on importations from countries which had entered into reciprocal trade unions with the United States. This would be a powerful incentive for the Latin-American countries to open negotiations. But the Senators in charge of the bill think they must have free sugar, if only for a month, and in the event of making the article free after July 1, 1891, the reciprocity period would probably be extended to Jan. 1, 1897.

RIVER AND HARBOR BILL SIGNED.

Good Effect of the Unavoidable Delay—Refunding the War Levy.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The South has large interests in the River and Harbor bill besides the sum that goes to the Mississippi River, and Southern Congressmen consequently felt a good deal of concern about the delay on the part of Speaker Reed in announcing his signature had been appended to the bill. They suspected that he had some dark purpose in keeping it from the President so long after it had passed both Houses, but the delay was, in fact, caused by certain unusual technical difficulties that had to be overcome. The delay has had incidentally the good effect of preventing a number of members, mostly Democrats, deserting their post of duty here. The way having been cleaned and a quorum being present today Speaker Reed announced that he had signed the bill. In a few days it will reach the President, and it is confidently expected that the Executive approval will not be withheld, although there was some apprehension not long ago of a veto on account of the large amount carried by the bill.

To Refund the War Levies.

An effort is being made to persuade the Committee on Rules to resurrect the bill passed by the Senate some time ago providing for refunding to the several States and Territories the amounts paid by them respectively on account of the direct tax levy during the war. A resolution introduced by Mr. Lacey of Iowa today sets apart next Thursday for consideration of the bill, and provides that a final vote on the bill shall be taken at 4 o'clock that day. The pressure of other business is so great it is doubtful whether the Committee on Rules will report back the resolution, and that will be equivalent to shelving the measure until next winter, unless by some lucky chance it should get before the House under suspension of the rules during the last six days of the session. Illinois and all of the Western States have large pecuniary interest in the passage of the bill.

Mrs. Fremont's Aid Delayed.

Congress has not done anything yet for the relief of Mrs. Fremont. A bill granting her a pension of $2,000 has gotten through the Senate, but has not been reached in the House. It may be called up at the Friday night session, as she has many friends in both parties, but some crank may object and block its passage. Mrs. Fremont's Washington friends have been shocked at the report of her destitution, and they can hardly believe it. Still it is known that Mr. Fremont did not live long enough to get any benefit from his pay as Major-General on the retired list. Mrs. Fremont has a son in the army and another in the navy. Either of these could probably afford their mother a home, but they have no means beyond their pay.

Mr. W. J. Campbell is here looking after a few things in which the Chicago packers are interested. The instructions for putting the Meat-Inspection bill into effect have been prepared by Secretary Rusk, but it is understood that the act will not be enforced for some time. In the Senate the Finance Committee amendment refusing the drawback on salt used in meat for exportation to the packers was stricken out, but there is a suspicion that Senator Hiscock will seek to have it put back in conference.

Charles Thompson, an attorney for the Louisiana Lottery company here, was today arrested upon a charge of selling lottery tickets, preferred by Post-Office Inspector T. D. King. It is stated that in response to a decoy letter containing $1 sent to Thompson tickets were promptly furnished through the mails.

DISCUSSING THE TARIFF BILL.

The Conference Over the Measure Likely to Be Completed Soon.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Democratic members of the conference committee have found that the differences over the Tariff bill are going to be settled by the majority. As they have all along denounced the bill as a Republican measure and as they expect to make party capital out of it they could hardly expect to fix it up to suit themselves in conference. But they hardly like the decision of the Republican conferrees to agree in private and then go into the conference merely to ratify that agreement. But this is the way all party legislation is settled. It may be just as well, for if the sugar schedule were left to the Democrats there would be absolutely no hope of beating the trust.

By reasoning together among themselves this afternoon and evening the Republican conferrees have found that they may adjust their differences by Saturday and get the report in the first of next week. This morning in conference some disputed points in the chemical schedule were passed over merely because the majority had not made up their minds what was to be done. They have already agreed in a general way that sugar shall be put off till last thing. They have also about come to the conclusion that the farmer is mistaken in supposing binding twine will be cheapened by making it free, and they will advise that he be content with the 50 per cent reduction made in the House bill.

The Senate conferrees don't seem to be overanxious to preserve the Plumb amendment for a Tariff Commission, and they may yield that in order to gain something else. Nor do they appear to be bound up in Senator Spooner's tin-plate amendment, which gives the consumer a chance if the protected manufacturer has not made good his claims within five years, Maj. McKinley has already convinced several of his colleagues that this should not be resisted. But Senator Aldrich and his colleagues are making more of a stand for the Senate reductions on steel rails and other items in the metal schedule than was looked for. The Keystone manufacturers are not so sure as they were that the House rate of $13.40 will be restored, and this evening they fear that they may have to compromise on $12.40.

The House conferrees have informally made known their views that the free-art provision should stand. They are also showing some resistance to the Senate amendment striking out all the changes proposed in the Internal Revenue laws. Maj. McKinley claims that the House proposition ought to be adopted. It amends the Internal Revenue laws so as to abolish taxes on dealers in leaf tobacco, on dealers in manufactured tobacco, on manufacturers of tobacco and cigars, on peddlers of tobacco, and to reduce the tax on smoking and manufactured tobacco from eight to four cents per pound.

No hearings are allowed interested parties by the conferrees, but the Capital swarms with them just the same, and no means can be found to prevent them waylaying individual members. The Sugar Trust representatives are, as always, the most numerous and the cheekiest. They are so strongly fortified in the Senate that some color is given to their bosts that the refiner's "compromise" will be adopted. The gist of this is to make the grades between No. 3 and No. 16 dutiable at two mills instead of three mills, and to give them increased protection above No. 16. But if the Western members who have been howling free sugar up to No. 16 yield it will be absolutely their own fault. They can't afford to go home and explain that the Senate "coerced" them into it.

WANT THE RATES PUT UP.

Glass Dealers Fighting to Keep the Tariff at Least Where It Is.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Chicago glass dealers, who want a show as against the Glass Trust, have just an even chance in the Tariff bill. By making the facts plain to their Representatives and Senators there may be a way to lend some moral influence to the Senate conferrees in their fight against the House glass schedule. The glass people began their campaign months ago. They sent Mr. Campbell of the Glass-Workers' Union the various other persons to represent them. But Senate Finance Committee, after hearing the fullest evidence, came to the conclusion that the window-glass duties could be reduced from existing rates. This reduction varied from ⅛ to ¼ of a cent per pound. Ever since then the window-glass lobby has been at work making all sorts of pleas, not simply for the existing rates, but for the increases given in the House. This afternoon it came up in conference. McKinley and Bayne insisted on the part of the House that the House provision should be restored. Senators Aldrich and Allison emphatically dissented, and Senator Aldrich was very free in his expressions of opinion that the window-glass people were asking more than could be conceded them. Neither side shows a disposition to yield, and the question will come up again. The Finance Committee made such a thorough investigation that it can hardly be driven from its stand for lower rates, yet it might sacrifice the glass duties in order to gain something else.

CONFERREES HAVE A HARD TIME.

A Protracted Night Session Leaves Them in a Bad Muddle.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Republican conferrees have been picking their way among snags. After a protracted night session Maj. McKinley is not quite so sure that an agreement can be reached by Saturday or Monday, while Senator Aldrich wearily wonders whether they will be able to get through in a month. This afternoon when they were agreeing to items in the chemical and other schedules that weren't worth disputing everything looked rosy. This evening they struck the knotty points and none of the conferrees pretend to say when these will be solved. At the night session they had the benefit of pretty strong evidence that Western Republicans who want free sugar, free binding-twine, and a few other things weren't going to be put off. The net result so far may be summed up: No important change will be made in the reciprocity amendment, but there will be no chance of getting the sugar duties left as they now are.

The split on glassware is radical, and there are not many points of agreement on earthenware. The Senate amendments on wool, which are important, have been accepted by the House, and that schedule is disposed of for good. The West is backing Allison and New England is backing Aldrich in insisting on the Senate metal rates, and Maj. McKinley and his comrades are all astonished. The Senate conferrees won't go beyond $12 per ton as the limit of concession on rails, and steel billets are to be kept proportionately low. Maj. McKinley has played his bluff on the Spooner tin-plate amendment and gotten the date changed from 1896 to 1898, as the time when the article shall come in free if its manufacture has not proven a success.

The House conferrees have yielded nearly everything in the internal revenue sections, except the wiping out of special licenses, etc., and the Senate conferrees have conceded this point. Art is so far free, and along with it go the increased taxes put by the Senate on highwines. This is because of representations by the State Department that diplomacy would probably succeed in removing the restrictions against American meats. The little discussion had on sugar has shown a wide variance of opinion of disposition to compromise. This is as far as the conferrees have been able to get, after wrestling till midnight with the Senate amendments.

HORRIBLE CRIME IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Fred Hein Shoots Four Persons and Commits Suicide—Family Troubles.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 17.—A terrible tragedy occurred in Portsmouth tonight. Fred H. J. Hein, aged 45 years, a hard-working cooper in the employ of the Eldredge Brewing company, had a family of three daughters; the eldest, Carrie, aged 15, kept house for him, his wife having left him several months ago. Hein's trouble with his wife is said to have extended back for several years and preyed upon his mind until he resolved to end them, and to not only remove the partial cause of his misfortune, but also remove from temptation the three female members of his household. Two of them and the murderer himself lie dead in his home, while at the cottage hospital the third daughter lies dying with a bullet in her neck, and at his home on State street Charles W. Taylor, a well-known hardware merchant, whose name has been connected with that of Mrs. Hein, is in the hands of the surgeons with two bullet holes in his back.

Taylor, who is a stove-dealer on Market street, while entering his residence, corner of State and Union streets, at 7:30 tonight, was rushed upon by Hein, who fired two shots in rapid succession at Taylor, both of which took effect. After shooting him Hein hurried to his own house and a little before 8 o'clock people living in the vicinity were alarmed by hearing five pistol shots fired in rapid succession. Immediately afterward Maud, the 13-year-old daughter of Hein, ran out of the house and started down the street. She had gone but a short distance when she fell on the pavement. Neighbors rushed to her assistance, and on asking her what was the matter she replied: "Father has shot me."

Her dress was then discovered to be on fire, but it was quickly extinguished. A physician soon arrived on the scene and ordered the girl taken to the hospital, where she now lies in a critical condition. An examination shows that the first shot fired entered the right side of her face, at short range. As she started to run out of the house her father fired two shots at her, one taking effect under the shoulder, passing through her stomach, the other passing through her hip.

Just outside the back door of the house lay two bodies. Carrie, the oldest girl, lay with her face covered with blood, a bullet having entered the brain. Across her prostrate form lay Bertha, the youngest daughter. When found she was alive, but she expired in fifteen minutes. In the front chamber was the dead body of Hein stretched on the floor, with a bullet through his temple.

Talked on the New Athletics.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lyman C. Josephs of New York entertained the Town and Country Club, of which Mrs. Julia Ward Howe is President. The paper of the afternoon was by John H. White, LL. D., headmaster of the Berkeley School of New York, upon "The New Athletics." Dr. White said that it was his purpose to show that America is at the threshold of a new physical development, and that upon such physical development will speedily come an intelligent age, likely to transcend that the world has yet seen. He advocated gymnasiums in every school-house in the land.

CANDIDATES JOIN HANDS.

PRIVATE MEETING HELD AT THE GRAND PACIFIC YESTERDAY.

Getting Ready for the Organization of the Republican Campaign Committee—John M. Smyth or George S. Willits Will Probably Be Chairman—To Watch the Naturalization Proceedings—Democratic Officeseekers on the Increase—Political Notes.

There was a private meeting of the Republican candidates at the Grand Pacific Hotel yesterday for the purpose of discussing matters preliminary to the organization of the Campaign Committee. Those present were James H. Gilbert, Louis Hutt, John McKenna, P. A. Sundelius, Col. F. Q. Ball, Edward Maher, Henry Wulff, Judge Kohlsaat, L. P. Harvey, candidate for President of the County Board, and Eli Smith.

The candidates suggested about forty names for the Campaign Committee, all good, useful men, but no agreement was reached. Finally, on motion of Eli Smith, it was resolved that a committee of five, Messrs. Gilbert, Hutt, Wulff, Maher, and one other, be appointed to select a Campaign Committee, to name Chairman, Secretary, and Treasurer, to be submitted at a meeting to be held at the same place tomorrow afternoon. This was agreed to after some discussion, in the course of which it was urged that the County Commissioner candidates ought to be recognized in the make-up of the subcommittee. Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Wulff said their interests will be taken care of in the Campaign Committee. This was deemed satisfactory. The Campaign Committee will consist of fifteen or twenty-one members. Several names were discussed for Chairman. John M. Smyth and George S. Willits seemed to be most in favor. The fear was expressed that Mr. Smyth on account of the imperative demands of his business could not accept. Only one candidate present objected to him. The probability is that Mr. Willits will be called upon to act.

It was agreed unanimously that organization should be perfected at once to look after the naturalization and registration, and in this connection reference was made to the proceedings in Judge Altgeld's court Monday night as told in THE TRIBUNE of yesterday.

It is likely that permanent headquarters will be established at the Grand Pacific Hotel in order to act in concert with the Republican State Committee.

McGann and Darrow for Congress.

Lawrence E. McGann, Superintendent of Streets, is a full-fledged candidate for Congress, on the Democratic side of course, in the Second District. His fellow-employé, C. S. Darrow of the Law Department, is his principal competitor. Two unofficial citizens named McShane and O'Connell, both said to be lawyers, are candidates also. The contest is between McGann and Darrow, with the chances in favor of the latter. The City-Hall is evenly divided between the two. An effort has been made to sidetrack McGann by promising him the Commissionership of Public Works in the event of Cregier's reëlection. That is too remote a possibility in the opinion of Mr. McGann. He is likely to capture the Congressional prize. The primaries occur tomorrow, and McGann will have the most friends among the delegates or all signs fail.

On the Republican side, it is suggested that if McGann is nominated Ald. Schwerin or John Kralovec be nominated against him. If Darrow is nominated the Republican candidate will be Senator Monahan or Miles Kehoe. The suggestion of Senator Monahan finds favor among the friends of William Lorrimer, who would get the Senatorial nomination if Monahan was nominated for Congress. A Deputy Coroner named Monaghan, who was a silent and useless member of the last House, wants to be a candidate for the House again in this district. The nomination will be given to a German.

Candidates on the Increase.

Still the number of candidates on the Democratic side for the Probate Clerkship continues to increase. D. J. McMahon of the Nineteenth Ward, a scholarly young man, who was formerly a professor of languages in St. Ignatius College, is the latest candidate. With Lawler out of the way Mr. McMahon could win. As it is the contest is likely to be between him and McCarthy of Lemont.

Frank Lawler is persuaded that he is an orator, and is making speeches at the rate of three a night to get the Shrievalty nomination. The toiling masses appear to be with Lawler, but the tax devourers are against him. The City-Hall is to a man opposed to his nomination because he once supported John A. Roche for Mayor. The two branches of the political Clan-na-Gael, the "Wine-and-Whiskies," and the other one are against him. But Frank's own speeches did more injury than everything else combined. They are nauseating in their egotism and intolerable in their demagogy. If Lawler had staid in Washington his chances would have been much better.

Sam Chase has returned to the city and is working hard to bring in a solid North Side delegation. He is working in concert with Charley Kern, who is against Lawler. Chase is the opponent whom Mr. Hopkins has to dread in the convention. He is the only candidate who can break into his combination. Hopkins continues to lead. All the candidates seem to make their headquarters at the City-Hall.

The Democrats are much puzzled at the attitude of Judge Prendergast. Some of them think it would be judicious to nominate him, but they want his resignation as Drainage Commissioner on hand first. Billy Niehoff, ex-Treasurer of the Wine-and-Whiskies, expresses the average sentiment about the County Judgeship. He said yesterday:

"We would like to nominate Prendergast for his present position, but we want to be sure he will resign as Drainage Commissioner first. We might be able to reëlect the Judge and keep control of the Election Commission. At the same time, if he resigns we may be able to elect a Drainage Commissioner in his place. Dr. Gilmore would then turn in with the Democrats and we would have the Drainage Board. But we must have Prendergast out of that board before we will renominate him for Judge."

Both the Democratic Clan-na-Gaels and the "Wine-and-Whiskies" are opposed to Prendergast, and he will hardly be mentioned in the convention, which will be a second edition of the Democratic Drainage Convention of last December. As matters look now Frank Scales will be the nominee for County Judge, and Pat McHugh, who has been mentioned for that place, will be given the nomination for one of the Superior Judgeships. The other will go to that old standby and oft-defeated candidate, Jeremiah Leaming, though Malcolm Caruthers, John W. Showalter, Assistant Corporation Counsel Robinson, and several others are mentioned.

Groggerykeeper Candidates.

The following is a list of the groggerykeepers who are candidates for County Commissioners in addition to the other fellows now on the County Board: "Jim" Cummings, Second Ward; "Tommy" O'Connor, Twelfth Ward; "Mike" Cronin, Eighth Ward; "Ed" Quinlan, Third Ward; "Harry" Ganey, Twenty-third Ward; with twenty-nine more to hear from.

The statement published in a Democratic paper yesterday that Daniel Keefe on the Republican ticket intends to withdraw is without warrant. Mr. Keefe's name will remain on the Republican ticket. He will be elected, and will serve.

County Agent Foley prefers to be County Commissioner at $1,600 a year to being County Agent at $2,000 a year. He is a candidate for the board as a pretended representative of labor. So is Roger Sullivan of the Thirteenth Ward.

The Evening Post (Ind. Dem.), referring to Mr. Gilbert's statement published in a previous issue on the jail-dieting question, said editorially last evening:

"The pledge which the Republican County Convention failed to exact from its chosen candidate for Sheriff respecting the jail-dieting plunder, Mr. Gilbert has, we are more than pleased to say, given voluntarily to the Evening Post. . . . Nothing could be more explicit or satisfactory. . . . We take it that the jail-dieting steal will die with Mr. Matson's official term—provided, of course, that Mr. Gilbert should be elected."

NO LONGER FIGHTS THE BOODLERS.

Nicholas Michels Withdraws on Account of Unjust Criticism.

Nicholas Michels, who has so far assisted County Attorney Terhune in fighting the boodle claims against the county, refuses to assist further because of the unjust, unwarranted, and uncalled-for criticisms to which he has been subjected by certain members of the County Board. He has written to Mr. Terhune, saying:

"Ever since I have assisted in the defense of these cases I have patiently endured the vituperations and abuse of pothouse politicians. This course of treatment has become pronounced since the present Board of Commissioners has come into power. In fact, this County Board has never audited my bills for services rendered until after I had been most shamefully vilified by certain of its members. I have finally reached the conclusion that I cannot afford to be identified in any manner with an Administration which has thus abused and misrepresented me and the work which I have done for Cook County. As soon as the people will relegate the Kellys, Maloneys, and their ilk to private life, where they belong, and elect in their stead intelligent men who are aggressively honest, the taxpayers may command my services, not before."

The facts seem to be that the Commissioners to whom Michels alludes would be much better pleased, if the boodlers won their cases against the county. They would have more readily paid his bills if the county had been mulcted. Fortunately the voters of Cook County will have an opportunity, about six weeks hence, to get rid of those persons, to relegate them, as Mr. Michels advises, to private life, and to elect intelligent and aggressively honest men in their places. The convention of Saturday presented a good list of such men to the people. The sympathizers with the boodle elements are not to be trusted for another term.

He May Lose His Job.

"Bull" Haggerty will probably lose his job as "bouncer" for gambling houses, and will not soon again grace the front row as a delegate in a Democratic convention. "Bull" Haggerty "bounced" and "trounced" the advertising agent of "Reformer" Van Pelt's weekly print. But that is not the offense for which he is likely to suffer. He has advertised more extensively than "Reformer" Van Pelt's paper could possibly do that gambling is going on in Chicago in broad daylight, within half a block of Mayor Cregier's office and Superintendent Marsh's headquarters. He has proclaimed it from the housetop that the "game" at which hundreds of "suckers" who find easy access to it are daily bled is in fact protected by the "administration," and that the beneficiaries are the particular pets of the Marsh-Cregier cronies. A hypocritical Mayor and a feeble, easily-bamboozled Chief of Police cannot stand such indiscreet exhibitors of the "bouncing" art as "Bull" Haggerty. He will have to go. "Bouncers" in search of a job may apply to George Hankins—or at the City Water Office.

Race Prejudice.

A lying story has been started by slanderous tongues that Mr. Louis Hutt said in some Republican convention many years ago that "he had no use for Jews," or something to that effect. His attention having been called to the story he pronounces it utterly false, and addresses the following card to the public:

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Independent of my candidacy for the office of Treasurer of Cook County, I owe it to my own reputation and character to distinctly deny the rumor that I harbor any prejudice toward any class of people or any religious denomination as such whatever. It has been my good fortune to cultivate close personal relations with representative men of all nationalities who constitute American citizenship, both in peace and in war. Thank God, I am built on a broader basis than narrow-minded prejudice, and I subscribe with heart and soul to the words of the Scotch poet, "A man's a man for a' that." The Stars and Stripes which I dearly love is the proud emblem of liberty and equality to all men who loyally give it their allegiance, no matter where they were born or at which altar they serve their Maker.

LOUIS HUTT.

Theodore Noel Nominated.

Theodore Noel was nominated for Representative from the Fourth Senatorial District last night in a convention called by the Coon-Skin Club at Templar-Hall, Oakley avenue and Polk street. The nomination had previously been tendered to Eli Montgomery, a respected citizen, but he had been unwilling on account of his age to endure the fatigue of a campaign and had declined the nomination.

About 150 delegates were present, and Prof. Noel was selected by a committee of three, consisting of H. C. Yedder, Dr. S. W. Ingraham, and George L. Seavey. The convention unanimously and enthusiastically approved of the choice.

Keep Neebe's Pardon Out of Politics.

Chicago News: Without stopping to discuss whether or not Oscar Neebe's punishment is just or unjust, the Daily News regards the renewal of the endeavor to secure his release at this time as, to say the least, inopportune. Even if all that is claimed in Neebe's behalf be true it is nevertheless untimely and imprudent to entangle the proposition for his pardon with the issues of the pending political campaign.

The reappearance of this demand for Neebe's pardon at this particular juncture of political affairs is not surprising. It made its first aggressive movement in the fall of 1888. It was then treated as an element of the campaign. The pardon of Neebe, it was understood, was to be a condition precedent of the labor vote being cast for Fifer.

In the spring of 1889, at the Mayoralty election, the demand was renewed, and it was reiterated in the fall of that year. It showed up again last spring, and now, at the opening of this fall's campaign, it is with us again. There must be a reason for this synchronism.

The men who are pushing this effort for Neebe's pardon are actuated by a more or less shrewd idea that Gov. Fifer will grant it under an impression that it will conserve the interests of his party next November. But the Governor is not likely to be deceived. The pardoning of Neebe at this time would assuredly arouse an adverse criticism that would make Gov. Fifer put his fingers in his ears. It could not fail to react disastrously on the Republican party.

Let the friends of Oscar Neebe—acting upon the presumption that the pardon is justified by the facts in the case—present the matter at some other time than just before an election if they would not be suspected of a sharp practice which argues distrust of the real merits of the case.

RETURNING HOME WITH HIS BRIDE.

George Campbell the Hero of a Romantic Marriage Expected Today.

George W. Campbell, whose recent exhibition of daring riding near Liverpool won him the heart of an English Knight's daughter, will reach his Chicago home tonight or tomorrow morning, and with him will come his bride, Sir Thomas Dodd's youngest child. The recital of the romantic way in which Mr. Campbell won a wife will bear repetition. It was some three years ago that young Campbell went to England to manage an import sale of cattle for his father, James H. Campbell, the millionaire cattleman of Chicago. Business called him to Liverpool just at a time when Mexican Joe's Wild West show was camping and giving daily exhibitions near the city. Now Campbell was something of a rider himself, for he had roughed it as a cowboy in Texas for five years, having through an adventurous spirit run away from home when but 15 years old. Down in the Southwest he had learned to ride, shoot, and throw the lasso with the best men in that part of the country. His father had traders in his employ who going through Texas often ran across George and as often unsuccessfully tried to induce him to return to civilization. This he finally did when he had built up a reputation and a magnificent physique. Reaching Chicago, he entered his father's employ, and two years later went to England as told above.

From Liverpool Campbell rode out to see an exhibition given by the Wild West show. He found some old acquaintances among the cowboys and for a single afternoon cast his lot among them and entered into their sports.

On that to him eventful afternoon he rode his horse at a dead run and reaching down from his saddle picked a coin from the ground. It was gallantly done and the English crowd applauded, none more heartily than a pretty girl, whose vehemence loosened her hold on her dainty handkerchief, which, caught by the wind, was soon on the ground at a distance.

G. W. CAMPBELL.

Campbell saw the bit of white scurrying along the ground and at it he rode, lifting it neatly in his hand as he flew past, catching not only the lace, but the love of its owner. Campbell rode to the box in which the young lady sat with her father and presented the fugitive handkerchief.

Introduction followed through a common friend, and the result was a marriage in New York last Sunday evening.

It was a case of love at first sight between the young people, but the parents of both demurred to a speedy marriage, and so it was finally decided that George should return to this country and should his love remain unchanged he was to return in a year or so and claim his bride.

Campbell came back to Chicago, stuck to work, though finding time to keep up a correspondence with Helen Dodd.

It was three years ago that he made his ride at the English fair grounds, and this fall he was to go back to claim his bride, but as Miss Dodd knew that her lover would find it hard to get away from business at this season she came to New York under the care of Capt. Denar of the Guion Line to meet her betrothed. Her father being too far advanced in years to accompany her, he sent his blessing instead.

Mr. Campbell went to New York to meet his fiancée, and they were married there in the Twenty-third Street Baptist Church last Sunday evening by the Rev. Dr. Dixon.

MRS. CAMPBELL.

Mrs. Campbell is a beautiful brunet, with hair and eyes that verge on black in color. She is medium in height and has a graceful carriage.

It was intended by Mr. Campbell Sr. that a large reception should be given at his residence, No. 4224 Grand boulevard, when the bride and groom arrived, but circumstances have rendered this impossible, and so instead they will be welcomed by a small party of intimate friends. A larger reception will be given during the winter.

All unknown to Mr. and Mrs. Campbell a home has been prepared for them at No. 4326 Calumet avenue, the last beautifying touches having been added yesterday.

TWO SENTENCED TO HANG

CALVIN HOLDEN AND ALBERT DUNHAM CONDEMNED TO DIE.

Mrs. Ann Eliza Holden Must Spend Twenty-five Years in the Penitentiary and Her Son Fifteen—Justice Meted Out to the Murderers of Harley Russell at Monticello, Ill.—Brilliant Wedding at Springfield—Other Northwestern News.

MONTICELLO, Ill., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Holden-Russell murder case closed at 6 p. m. last night. Judge Samuel R. Reed made the greatest effort of his life in his closing speech for the prosecution. The court-house was packed, many of whom were ladies. Judge E. P. Vail gave the jury their charge, and at 12 o'clock they had agreed upon a verdict, which was brought into court at 8 a. m. today. A large crowd was present to hear the result. Death-like stillness prevailed as the Judge read:

"We the jury find the defendants guilty of murder in the manner and form as charged in the indictment and fix the punishment of Calvin Holden, death penalty; Albert Dunham, death penalty; Ann Eliza Holden, twenty-five years in the penitentiary; Edwin Holden, fifteen years in the penitentiary."

The verdict gives general satisfaction here, as the crime was a cold-blooded one, without any provocation. Young Harley Russell, aged 24 years, and his wife were returning to their home the evening of June 21 last in a buggy. When just outside the city limits of Monticello they overtook two persons, one of whom seized the horse and held it while the other drew a revolver and said "Halt!" Without another word he then shot Harley Russell in his right side. He lived long enough to tell all about the shooting and who did it. He recognized Calvin Holden and Albert Dunham, as did Mrs. Russell. Dunham made a statement that also implicated Mrs. Ann Eliza Holden and her son Edwin, and they were all indicted by the grand jury with above results.

Dunham was given a chance to testify in his own behalf by Judge Vail, but he refused to take the witness stand.

After the reading of the verdict old Mrs. Holden began a tirade against the Judge, jury, and the witnesses for the prosecution. The prisoners were all taken back to jail. This is the first time the death penalty has ever been passed upon any person in Piatt County. The Judge did not pronounce the death penalty or fix the date of the execution. He will do that next Friday, as court has adjourned until that day.

CHANCE FOR HOME FLAX-GROWERS.

Capitalists at Eau Claire, Wis., to Experiment with the Home-Grown Straw.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—There is a prospect that one of the problems in regard to the utilization for the manufacture of linen goods of some of the immense flax crop of the Northwest is to be solved in the near future. One of the two linen mills in the United States is at this city. It is doing a large and constantly increasing business, but all the yarns used are imported. Right at its doors is the great flax crop of the Northwest, absolutely unused as to the straw and raised only for the seed. This flax is known by experiments to be as well adapted for manufacturing purposes as any in the world. Year in and year out the straw is thrown away and material is wasted which if utilized in manufacture would yield an enormous revenue and a large profit to the farmer. Efforts have been made to induce Secretary Rusk to take this matter up and to establish an experimental station in this vicinity, to take the flax from the field and by means of flax-dressing machines, to be brought from Europe, ascertain exactly what might be done on a larger scale in the way of utilizing it in linen production. But these efforts have thus far produced no tangible result.

It is now learned that capitalists of Eau Claire are negotiating with Chicago and Eastern parties with a view of putting in flax-dressing machines of American invention and American manufacture. This move is prompted by the increased tariff established by the pending tariff measure, which increase of the protection already accorded this young industry it is believed will warrant the effort to establish linen manufacture in this country and in this section on a basis wholly independent of foreign flax producers. Thus the time may not be far distant when the whole process of linen manufacture, from the rotting of the straw after it is taken from the field to the last operation which brings out the finished fabric, may be done here, and the flax grown by American farmers be handled and rotted by American hands, put through American dressing machines, and turned into the completed product by American mills in such quantity and quality as to establish a magnificent industry now only in its infancy.

WEDDING BELLS AT SPRINGFIELD.

Marriage Last Evening of Andrew Jackson Lester and Miss Lulu Tracy.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The marriage of Andrew Jackson Lester, special agent of the Treasury Department and ex-member of the State Legislature, and Miss Lulu Tracy, daughter of Frank W. Tracy, the banker, was solemnized at the Congregational church in this city tonight in the presence of some two thousand people. Never before has such a wedding occurred in the city of such brilliancy. The bridemaids were Misses Eugenia D. Farr, Chicago; Rhoda E. Stephens, St. Louis; Myrtle Baird, Kansas City; Abigail Wheeler, Alice Ridgely, and Marie Herman of this city. The attendants were the Hon. John B. Jaynes, St. Louis; Charles A. Funk, Bloomington; Harry L. Pease, Omaha; Col. John W. Black, Harry F. Dorwin, and John H. McCreery. Pages, Masters Ridgely, Hudson, and Nicholas Jones.

The Rev. James W. Lester of Hoopeston, Ill., brother of the groom, performed the Episcopal ceremony. After the ceremony the party departed to the strains of Mendelssohn's march and were driven to Mr. Tracy's residence on Sixth street, where a grand reception was held from 8:30 to 11 o'clock.

Miss Tracy was charmingly attired in a gown of ivory satin, long train, the overdress and entire front being of Brussels round point lace, the waist and sleeves being also trimmed with it; low neck, V-shape back and front. The bridal veil was fastened with a diamond pin and cluster of orange blossoms, clusters of the flower draping gracefully around her. About the neck was a handsome necklace of moonstones and pearls, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Tracy, garnished with a diamond pendant, the gift of the groom, formed in the shape of a passion flower, set in six clusters of diamonds of three each, and a large diamond in the center.

The reception was the social event of the season and served to draw out the richest of Springfield society, besides a vast number of distinguished people from abroad. The mansion was handsomely and artistically decorated.

Among the Chicago people present were noticed Mrs. Harlan, Miss Winne Gardner, Mrs. Feitshans, A. E. McCullough, Miss Minnie Rutherford, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Franz Amberg, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Barrows, the Hon. John M. Clark, and others.

The Rev. James Carroll of Wichita, Kas., May Have to Stand Trial for Murder.

WICHITA, Kas., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Rev. James Carroll, a prominent Baptist preacher, got in a fight with John Caruthers, a coal merchant, today, and while they were engaged Thomas Barnett, a clerk for Caruthers, interfered, when Carroll hit him on the head with a rod of iron, inflicting probably fatal injuries. Carroll will be given a hearing Friday.

Will Establish Orphans' Homes.

TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The National Convention of the Daughters of Rebecca can do no business until the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., has taken some action upon the resolution adopted in the convention Monday requesting that the jurisdiction of the National Convention be made general and permanent. The principal argument in the Sovereign Grand Lodge against granting the request of the daughters of Rebecca is that it will incur a useless expense upon the order. Mrs. M. E. Rea, President of the National Convention, said tonight:

"I prepared a petition to the Grand Lodge today showing our side of this question. The great scheme of the Daughters of Rebecca now is to establish orphan homes throughout the country, and to do this successfully these conventions are absolutely necessary in order to secure concerted action. It is not likely that the Grand Lodge will act upon the petition of the National Convention before Friday."

Thirty-five Rivet Heaters Strike.

BAY CITY, Mich., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Thirty-five rivet heaters marched in a body from Wheeler & Co.'s steel ship plant this afternoon, causing all riveters to stop work. The trouble was caused by the discharge of one of their number. The company has considerable work on hand and recently offered the men a bonus of $1,600 if they would have duplicates of the steamship Mackinaw and the Canadian Pacific freight carrier in readiness to be launched before October 15. This action on the part of the rivet heaters will delay work.

Attempt to Blow Up a Boiler.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Jimmy Jamison, a well-known river man, last night attempted to blow up the boilers of the Little Giant dredgeboat. He was employed on the boat, but got drunk and was discharged. He returned to the boat while all the crew were away except the watchman. The latter he knocked senseless with an iron bar. Jamison then turned the water out of the boilers and placed obstructions in the machinery. The watchman recovered in time to prevent an explosion. Warrants are out for the arrest of Jamison.

Is Said to Be a Defaulter.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 17.—I. Headley, employed as Superintendent of Telegraph jointly by the St. Louis and San Francisco railway company and the Western Union Telegraph company, with headquarters at North Springfield, Mo., is a defaulter, and steps have been taken to present the case before the grand jury. The amount involved will exceed $1,000. Mr. Headley had given an indemnity bond in the Fidelity and Casualty company of New York, and the matter is now in the hands of that company. Mr. Headley is an old employé of the railroad company.

Cured of Paralysis by Prayer.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Thomas F. Farley, who has for nineteen years been a member of the St. Louis police force, and who retired three years ago because he was prostrated by three paralytic strokes, has been cured of his affliction by Miss Maria B. Woodworth, the evangelist. Farley was brought to the Gospel tent on a cot on a furniture car, and after half an hour's praying by about 600 of the congregation he walked from the platform cured. Farley is 46 years old, and has been drawing a pension from the police relief fund on account of his disability.

George W. Harris in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—George W. Harris, the mail clerk who rifled pouches Aug. 4 while on his run from Chicago to St. Louis, taking thirty-four registered packages of an estimated value of $1,500, arrived here this evening in custody of Deputy-Marshal Leonard of Washington. Harris was arrested in Baltimore last Friday. He is very reticent as to his movements since his disappearance, but does not seem to be at all worried over his arrest, saying his lawyer will clear him.

Funeral of Mrs. Ella Langdon.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The funeral of Mrs. Ella Langdon, the victim of the Iowa murder, took place this afternoon and was largely attended. Many floral devices covered the casket, and the singing by the choir and remarks by the pastor were more affecting than usual. The services were interrupted by a painful scene, the mother of the dead woman fainting and being carried from the room. The husband also fainted but revived sufficiently to go to the grave.

Suicide of Prof. Drewry Jones.

FERGUSON, Mo., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The dead body of Prof. Drewry Jones, Principal of the public school here, was found in his room this morning with a bullet hole in his head and the revolver with which the deed was committed still clasped in his hand. He had been a great sufferer from neuralgia, and it is supposed that while in a paroxysm of pain he sought relief in death. Prof. Jones was a Virginian by birth, about 30 years of age, and had many friends here.

Indicted for Census Frauds.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The United States Grand Jury found indictments against Charles W. Knapp, Theodore F. X. Beaudet, Orville S. Plummer, Ben Aarons, and Louis E. Strum, all of Minneapolis, for adding fictitious names to the census returns of this city. These with the four indicted Saturday, will be arraigned tomorrow and the time of their trial set.

Purchased a Depot Site.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Merchants' Bridge Terminal company today purchased a tract of land on North Broadway, near Dickson street, for $175,000, presumably as a site for their depot. Ever since the Merchants' bridge project has been on foot the railways interested have been quietly acquiring large blocks of real estate in the north end, the Burlington being particularly heavy purchasers. The tract secured today has a frontage of 150 feet and a depth of 120 and is particularly fitted for a depot site.

Shot by Some Unknown Person.

RACINE, Wis., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—This evening as Willie Jacobson, aged 11, was returning from school he climbed up on the fence of J. E. Lockwood to pick some apples from a tree, when his side and face were filled with buckshot by some unknown person. The residents in the neighborhood are much excited. It is impossible to find out who did the shooting.

Dropped About a Mile.

ALTON, Ill., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The second annual carnival of the Citizens' Association was attended by thousands of visitors. The great event of the afternoon was the balloon ascension and parachute jump by Nell Brayton, the aeronaut. The drop was made from the height of about a mile, and the daring aeronaut made the descent in safety.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The boiler at the Williamson Belting Works exploded this morning, injuring George Schettle so badly that he died, and probably fatally scalding Casper Beck, the engineer. The west wall of the building was blown out by the force of the explosion, while the east was badly scattered. The loss to building and machinery is $4,000.

Northwest Notes.

Charles Wilson, living near Orient, struck a strong flow of oil while digging a well.

The third reunion of the Muskegon Soldiers' and Sailors' Association is being held at Newaygo, Mich.

Missourians had their day at the Iowa coal palace yesterday. Ex-Gov. Crittenden delivered an address.

R. B. Rockwell of Lorange, Ind., committed suicide yesterday by hanging. He had been a great sufferer from rheumatism.

Gen. John C. Black, who will speak at the Aurora (Ill.) Fair today, was tendered a reception and banquet last evening by G. A. R. Post No. 20.

Capt. I. W. Griffith and wife of Des Moines, Ia., celebrated their golden wedding yesterday with a largely-attended reception. Their fifty years of married life have all been spent in Iowa.

Maurice S. Knapp of Beloit, Wis., was married yesterday to Miss Minnie Larwill, daughter of G. W. Larwill of the Adrian (Mich.) Times. Will E. Parsons of Chicago acted as groomsman.

Figures made in St. Paul, Minn., yesterday show that the Montana cattle run of 1890 reaches 104,000, which is 20,000 more than that of last year. Prices have been fair, and the amount realized was about $4,000,000.

A two-days' reunion of the members of the Twenty-ninth and Forty-sixth Indiana Volunteers commenced in Rochester yesterday. About 300 of the veterans were banqueted by the citizens of that town last evening.

The tenth annual reunion of the old-time telegraphers and the United States Military Corps ended yesterday in Kansas City. The visitors were the guests of the Wyandotte, Nebraska and Northwestern railroad.

There is trouble in the Shelbyville (Ind.) Christian Church. The trustees requested the Rev. Crim to resign and the congregation voted to retain him. The trustees were then asked to resign and they refused to do so.

Frank Stone of South Wabash, Ind., was sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the penitentiary yesterday for assaulting his step-daughter. Stone denied the charge, but the evidence against him was conclusive.

A meteor which fell on the farm of John Goddard in Iowa was dug up by Peter Hugland, who sold it to Prof. Winchell of Minnesota. Goddard has just won a replevin suit to recover the stone. Prof. Winchell will appeal to the Supreme Court.

The Fifty-fifth Illinois Regiment is holding its annual reunion at Rockford. The following officers were elected yesterday: President, L. B. Crocker, Mendota; Secretary, Joseph Hartshook; Assistant Secretary, Francis B. Fishot, Chicago; Treasurer, James C. Garver.

William Whittlesey, ex-Superintendent of the Hancock County (Iowa) Poor Farm, has brought suit for $5,000 damages against F. A. Worden, editor of the Augusta Eagle, and William E. Manifold. Both defendants are members of the Board of Supervisors and reported that Whittlesey was short in his accounts.

The survivors of the battle and siege of Lexington, Mo., were driven to the old battle-field yesterday morning. A survey was made and new maps will be drawn by Capt. J. A. Wilson. The following officers were elected: Gen. John A. McNulta of Bloomington, Ill., President; John A. Wilson of Lexington, Treasurer; and George S. Glover of St. Louis, Secretary.

William Hitt of St. Joseph, Mo., a sufferer from rheumatism, was advised by friends to take a sponge bath in alcohol and dry himself with artificial heat. He took the bath and then stood near an open stove to dry off. The alcohol took fire and in a second Hitt's body was enveloped in flames. He was so seriously burned that he will die.

Diamonds at Saratoga.

A hundred men wear diamonds now to the one who wore them a year ago. Every other man you meet here has one or more diamonds on him, and there are a great many swells who wear diamond rings. I saw a tall, lean, florid-faced man from Texas flirting his hands about as he drank his Hathorn water at the spring this morning, and there were three diamond rings on the hand that held the glass. His necktie of white satin had a scarf pin of a diamond and a dark-blue sapphire, and this was pulled down so as to show an immense solitaire which served as a collar button. I saw a boy of 10 this morning with three diamond studs serving as buttons for his shirt, and I see girls who are in short dresses wearing diamonds. One very pretty diamond ornament is worn by a brunette from the South who has a rich, glossy wealth of jet-black hair. It is a diamond butterfly which she wears on her head, and which sparkles against its black background with a splendor which reminds one of the wonderful magnificence of the peacock throne of the Indian mogul, Shah Jehan. This butterfly rests with outstretched wings flat on the head of the brunette. It measures about two and a half inches from the tip of one wing to that of the other, and these delicate wings are made of many little diamonds, spotted with blue sapphires, red rubies, and green emeralds, so that they look like real wings pulled from the angelic plumage of some heavenly insect. The head is a great ruby, and the long tail and body, which extends between the wings and for two inches downward, is of the finest emeralds. The background of the butterfly, is, of course, of gold, but these precious stones hide it, and it is so well made that, as it sparkles and changes under the rays of the chandeliers, it looks like a thing of life. It cost a fortune, but the girl has, I am told, an income of $25,000 a year, and she can stand it.—Saratoga Letter

The Hankins Horse Reaches the Wire a Half Length Before the Corrigan Colt—Other Events at Louisville—Results on the Gravesend Track and on the West Side—Trotting at Milwaukee and Cleveland—General Sporting News.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The weather today was of the ideal racing kind and the track was in perfect condition. The attendance was unusually large for a fall meeting, about 3,000 people being on hand. Only four races were disposed of, but a dead heat in the first event necessitated a run off.

The real attraction of the day, the St. Leger for 3-year-olds, brought out a fair field, Riley being made a red-hot favorite at 3 to 5. Ed Corrigan was sanguine as to the success of his colt and booked him for about $1,500. Uncle Bob, in temporary charge of his old owner, Sam Bryant, had plenty of friends, and he carried a lot of money at 2½ to 1. As it turned out there was nothing in the race but the pair, as the others were beaten off. The time made was slow, but this was because the first part of the race was little more than a gallop. The result of the contest showed that Riley was not up to a bruising race, as after galloping for three-fourths of the race he quit on the stretch after racing had commenced in earnest. He needed just such a race as today's to make him fit, and if the race was to be run over again a couple of days hence Riley would be the victor. Both Riley and Uncle Bob were so tired that they bumped against each other near the finish so that Col. Clark called both jockeys into the judges' stand to inquire if there was any fouling, but there was not, both animals being simply fagged out. Uncle Bob will soon be shipped East, as he has stake engagements at Westchester. Riley has Eastern engagements also and he will be sent East in a few days. The summaries:

First race, purse $300, one mile and seventy yards—Starters and odds: Pickup, 104 pounds, 15 to 1; Mary, 104, 10 to 1; Camille, 109, 5 to 1; Mary Mac, 99, 20 to 1; Bob L., 80, 15 to 1; Miss Leon, 101, 15 to 1; Tom Hood, 112, 8 to 1; Lucy P., 114, 20 to 1; Eli, 107, 6 to 5; Chantress, 99, 20 to 1. Tom Hood showed first, Eli second, Mary Mac last. They ran on in this order to the stretch, where Eli took command, joined by Miss Leon. A fighting finish to the wire resulted in a dead heat, Chantress third, two lengths away. Time, 1:46.

Second race, selling, one mile and seventy yards—Starters and odds: Bertha, 107 pounds, 8 to 1; Maj. Tom, 100, 8 to 1; Spectator, 113, 6 to 1; Royal Garter, 110, 2 to 1; Rimini, 101, 3 to 1; Newcastle, 110, 10 to 1; Pell Mell, 110, 15 to 1; David, 106, 10 to 1; Robin, 88, 15 to 1; Bob Forsythe, 113, 15 to 1. Maj. Tom was an easy winner by a length, David second, Bertha third. Time, 1:49.

Third race, St. Leger (3-year-old) $1,000 added, $200 to second $100 to third, one and one-quarter miles, worth $4,260 to winner, weight carried 118 pounds—Starters, jockeys, and odds: Riley (Kiley), 118 pounds, 7 to 10; Uncle Bob (Britton), 115, 3 to 1; Outlook (R. Williams), 118, 8 to 1; W. G. Morris (McDonald), 118, 20 to 1; Goodbye (Stephpe), 118, 15 to 1. Uncle Bob came in a winner by half a length, Riley second, W. G. Morris third. Time, 2:12¼.

Fourth race, purse $300, for maiden fillies, 2-year-olds, five furlongs—Starters and odds, each carrying 110 pounds: Lottie, 5 to 1; Maud R., 6 to 1; Miss Courtenay, 6 to 1; Rhody Gale, 6 to 1; Birdella M., 3 to 1; Inad, 7 to 1; Fair Haven, 15 to 1; Godiva 12 to 1; Pet filly, 10 to 1; Longleaf, 8 to 1; Rosedell, 15 to 1; Viola Guild, 30 to 1. Birdella won by a length and a half, Lottie second, Maud B. third. Time, 1:05. The fifth race was declared off and the dead heat between Eli and Miss Leon substituted. Eli won. Time, 1:49.

Cassella the Only Favorite to Win—Entries for Today.

For the first three races at the West Side Park yesterday the short-enders were in clover. There was Ithaca knocked down by Ed Bell, then came Karry Kuhl at 10 to 1 in a field of four, defeating Khafton and Bankrupt, and again Bargain and Jasper, both maidens, came home in front of Longshot. Cassella was the only favorite of the day to win. The track was safe but slow. Attendance 3,000.

The defeat of Riley by Uncle Bob for the St. Leger at Louisville enriched Joe Ullman's pool-room. The race track patrons stuck to Longfellow, 3 years old, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Clark Stakes as against the winner of the American Derby. The summaries:

First race, purse $300, for 2-year-olds, five furlongs—Ed Bell (Soden), 3 to 1, won, Ithaca second, Patrick third. Time, 1:04. Ben Marsh, Shoshone, Ella Mack, James V., Shiloh, Plunger, and Dick Scott ran unplaced.

Second race, purse $400, for 3-year-olds and upwards, one mile—Harry Kuhl (Delong), 10 to 1, won, Khafton second, Bankrupt third. Time, 1:44¾. Amelia ran unplaced.

PREPARING FOR THE RACES.

Wheelmen Are Getting Ready for the Event of the Year—Bicycle Notes.

Berlo, Zimmerman, Murphy, Kluge, and Ives arrived yesterday from Peoria and will commence training at Parkside today for the races of Friday and Saturday.

Windle, Rich, and Smith left for the East, not caring to risk defeat on a quarter-lap track.

Spooner will attempt to break the 100-mile outdoor record, which is 6 hours and 25 minutes, held by F. F. Ives, Thursday morning, starting at 9 o'clock. He will be paced by Barrett, Thorne, Tuttle, and the Eastern contingent. The timekeepers will be Messrs. Garden, Goodman, and Priall.

Rich was badly disappointed, owing to Lumsden declining to ride a tandem with him for the records. He claims they could without doubt do the mile under 2:25.

Windle intends retiring from the racing path.

Tuttle has received an offer to join the New York Athletic Club and will ride under its management and colors next year. He will greatly strengthen the club, and with Rich, Tuttle, Murphy, and Campbell will have a "sure thing" on all team events next year.

Barrett and Thorne will ride a tandem together next year and have ordered a wheel built in England.

R. D. Garden broke a small bone in his right arm a short time ago. The street was torn up, and, though it was broad daylight, he took a bad header into the opening made in the street.

Tonight the Chicago Cycling Club gives the last of its summer parties at Jackson Park pavilion.

The prizes will be distributed at the club-house at Parkside after the last race Saturday, after which the visiting wheelmen will be entertained by a smoker given in honor of the Chicago team at the C. C. C. club-house, Fifty-seventh street and Lake avenue. A good time is promised.

The Authorities After the Olympic Club.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—This morning Gov. Nicholls sent for Attorney-General Rogers, and instructed him to begin proceedings for the forfeiture of the charter of the Olympic Club. The Mayor seconded the move, he declaring that some fifty of his police were interested spectators of the fight last night, while a thousand hoodlums on the outside were demolishing fences and destroying property in their efforts to force an entrance to the building. According to the number of tickets disposed of the receipts of the night should have aggregated $8,000, but so far, it is claimed, less than $3,000 can be found.

Will Not Be Restrained.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The court has refused to grant an injunction to restrain the Pelican Club from having glove fights in their club-house.

An Offer to Dempsey and Fitzsimmons.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 17.—The Metropolitan Club offers a purse of $8,000 for a fight between Dempsey and Fitzsimmons.

EXCITEMENT ON THE WEST SIDE.

Chicago and Cincinnati Battle for Twelve Innings with No Decision.

There was excitement galore in Anson's garden on the West Side yesterday afternoon. The Cincinnati crowd took a most decided brace and gave the Colts a tussle they will not soon forget. Anson had come to look upon Loftus' band of braves as pretty easy, and went at them yesterday with all the confidence in the world. He soon realized, however, that he had a fight on his hands and ordered his men to contest every inch of ground. This they did, and a pretty struggle was the result. At the beginning of the ninth inning, however, the visitors showed a run in front, and it seemed to be all over but the shouting.

The Colts went to work with a will and took the lead by making two runs. The Queen City men were not to be denied, though, and tied the score in their half. The tenth was passed in safety with blanks for each. The eleventh was more eventful. The Colts opened on Duryea and made two runs amidst cheers that could have been heard for blocks. The cheers soon died, however, as the Reds went in and again tied the score. After the Colts had gone out in order in the eleventh Anson took Stein out of the box and put Hutchinson in. It was getting so dark by this time that the ball could not be located, and the visitors were easily retired. The game was then called. It was one of the most exciting contests ever seen in this city. Old Cy Duryea must have had his broken heart fixed in some shape or other, for he pitched better ball than he has shown here this year. Stein also pitched in good form. The score:

Today's League Game.

The last game of the season between the Cincinnatis and Chicagos will be played at National League Park this afternoon. It will be for blood. Rhines and Keenan and Luby and Nagle will be the batteries.

The Brooklyn leaders come tomorrow for a final go at the Colts. On the result of this series depends the championship. If Anson can bag all the games played with the Bridegrooms his chances will be excellent.

PIRATES WIN TWICE WITH EASE.

They Succeed in Taking Two Games from the Tail-Enders.

The Chicagos and Buffalos played two games at the South Side grounds yesterday, and the home club won both games handily. The weather was perfect, but there was only a small crowd present. Buffalo's drawing powers at this stage of the contest are not alarmingly great.

Chicago, 11; Buffalo, 4.

In the first game the Bisons presented Cunningham, their miniature twirler, and he managed to lose the game by his fatal wildness. He was not hit particularly hard, but when the home club started on him it did not quit until the game was well won. In the fourth inning the Pirates batted all around, and making six runs placed the result of the game out of doubt. The home club presented Mark Baldwin in the box, and the visitors took quite a liking to his curves. At odd intervals they hammered the ball around promiscuously and gathered in all fourteen hits. The trouble with them was that it was at odd intervals that they hit the ball. They could not bunch their hits, and as Mark's support was first-class their runs did not pile up very fast. Ed Williamson had two errors and Baldwin himself one. The rest of the team played perfect ball. Jimmy Ryan was late in arriving and Dwyer played the first half of the first inning in his place. Ryan made up for lost time when he got into the game. He made seven great captures and also took a hand in the hitting.

For the visitors Clark carried off the honors. He played second-base in place of Sam Wise, and besides accepting six chances made a deal of trouble at the bat. Out of four chances he secured four hits and seemed to regret that his opportunities were so limited. Cunningham also batted well. The score:

Chicago, 3; Buffalo, 1.

In the second game the visitors started off as though they meant business. In the first inning Hoy bunted the ball and came all the way to the plate on Irwin's sacrifice and Williamson's error. This was a good starter, but it proved to be the only run the poor tail-enders could get across the plate. The Pirates did better. After Charlie Farrell had made a single in the second Williamson atoned for his error by lifting a ball over Hoy's head for a home run. Not long after King repeated the same exhibition. The three runs thus secured were all the home club was credited with, but they were enough. After the first inning King settled down to good work and had the visitors at his mercy for the balance of the game. He was remarkably steady, too, and seemed able to do about what he pleased with the ball. Deacon White started to play first base, but his old bones have been shaken up pretty roughly at times this year, and he was compelled to retire, as two games in one day are too much for him. Twitchell, who had been playing right field, took his place, Cunningham going into Twitchell's farm.

While the score looks close enough, the result was scarcely in doubt after the second inning, the visitors going out generally in one, two, three order. The features of the game were a one-hand stop by Twitchell and a long running catch by Hoy. The score:

Mike Kelly's Bostons Tomorrow.

The Chicago White Stockings will have their lamps trimmed and burning in readiness for the "warming" they hope to give Mike Kelly's famous Bostons tomorrow at Brotherhood Park. Mike Kelly and his celebrities lead in the championship race in the brotherhood, and they look like pennant winners. Both Mark Baldwin and Silver King will have a day's rest today, and will be ready to make things warm tomorrow.

Boston, 4; Philadelphia, 3.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 17.—The Philadelphia and Boston players' clubs closed the local championship season this afternoon and the visitors succeeded in winning by good, clean hitting. Radbourn was rather unsteady, but the Phillies could hit him with but little success. The score:

Amateur Base-Ball Notes.

The Marquette Stars defeated the Kittens of St. Ignatius College by a score of 11 to 9. The feature of the game was the fine playing of Howe and Marshall of the Marquettes. The Marquette Stars claim the 13-year-old championship of the West Side.

The Thomsons defeated the Auditoriums at the Lake-Front yesterday. The feature of the game was the battery work of Anderson Stark of the Thomsons. Spinks of the Auditoriums also pitched a fair game. Score by innings:

Charged with Swindling the Poor.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The trial of Eli Dunn, Thomas J. Sefton, M. J. Phillips, William Harrison, Michael Gannon, Franklin Butler, and J. W. Rowan for conspiracy was begun this afternoon. All the defendants were present except Rowan, who has not yet been arrested. The accused, it is claimed, were agents and sub-agents of the National Capital Savings and Building and Loan Society of Chicago. They are charged with going among poor people and representing that they were empowered to loan money to persons who wished to build on unimproved property. They succeeded, it is said, in collecting $25 from twenty-two persons.

Three Women Seriously Burned.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—Today while cleaning furniture with gasoline at her daughter's residence, in Kennards street, Mrs. Caroline McNaughton stepped on a match. It ignited and the gasoline exploded. Mrs. Maggie Edgar, a domestic, was near the fluid when it exploded and her clothing took fire. She ran screaming from the room and collided with her mistress, Mrs. Allan Goodhue, who fell down and broke her ankle. Mrs. Edgar ran into the yard where Mrs. McNaughton in attempting to assist her was terribly burned on the face and hands. Mrs. Edgar died this evening, and the other two women are in a serious physical and mental condition.

Enjoined a Foreclosure Sale.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 17.—J. A. Evans, a creditor of the Boston Heating company, procured in the Superior Court yesterday an injunction restraining a foreclosure sale of the property of the corporation. Drexel, Morgan & Co. hold the mortgage, which is for $750,000, and which the enjoiner claims they hold by hypothecation. It was also claimed that the company being a quasi-public corporation could not mortgage its property except by act of the Legislature. A bitter legal fight is promised.

Edison's Deafness.

The extent of Edison's deafness is said by a friend of the Wizard to depend somewhat on circumstances. A bore or a man with an ax to grind frequently fails, even with the aid of an ear trumpet, to make himself understood, but the faintest whisper of an approaching poker party or a funny story told under the breath excites the great electrician's ears to a very keen sense of hearing.—New York World.

AGROUND IN THE RIVER.

STEAMERS JUNIATA AND KALIYUGA STUCK FAST IN THE MUD.

One at La Salle Street and the Other at Halsted Street Bridge—More of the Wreckage of the Comrade Seen—It Must Have Been Splintered in the Storm—Wrecks of the Schooner Schuylkill and Steamer Bessemer Removed—The Welland Canal Again Closed to Navigation.

For the first time this year the river yesterday proved treacherous to big steamers. At midnight two of them were fast in the mud, and the pulling of many tugs proved unavailing to release them. At 4 o'clock last evening the propeller Kaliyuga touched bottom at the Halsted street bridge, and it was still there at midnight. About 5 o'clock the steamer Juniata of the Anchor line, bound out for Buffalo with grain, went aground on the La Salle street tunnel, and after three tugs had been pulling at it up to 11 o'clock last night Capt. Ryder about concluded that he would either have to lighter or wait until the water rose. The efforts of the tugs to release the Juniata and the vigorous, perpetual puffing of the tugs drew large crowds during the night to the scene, and when no fire or other disaster was seen the rumor spread among them that it was a contest between the city fire tugs.

So far this season the river has been higher and safer for big carriers than usual, but it seems there was an unexpected fall of the water yesterday. The Juniata is only drawing fifteen feet, it is said, and as the America left here without any trouble a few days ago drawing over sixteen and a half feet, the fall in the river is unusual.

Grain Rates Firm and Steady.

The demand for vessel room yesterday was good, while the offerings were but moderate. Rates were firm on the basis of 2 cents for wheat, 1¾ cents for corn, and 1½ cents for oats to Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Coal freights were quiet and easy. Cargoes for Lake Superior still were scarce.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—Both coal and ore freights were quiet yesterday. Coal is very scarce and but few loads are offered for either Lake Superior or Lake Michigan. Rates are unchanged but easy.

Lock 18 Again Disabled.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Sept. 17.—The steamer Samoa, bound up the canal, today carried away the two head gates of Lock 18 and sprung one of the foot gates. This will cause a delay in the canal of about two days.

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., Sept. 17.—The gate-lifter and tug Neelon are now getting in readiness to proceed up the canal to the break. It can't be ascertained how long it will take to repair it until later on. This is the same lock that the steambarge Stimson went through some weeks ago.

Wrecks That Obstructed Removed.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sept. 17.—The Portage Canal completed the removal of the wrecks of the schooner Schuylkill and the steamer Bessemer, which have obstructed the entrance to the west end of the canal since last autumn. The work was commenced just before the storm of last Saturday, and cost $7,000.

It Was Battered Into Splinters.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Sept. 17.—The steamer Wheeler reports passing through wreckage and two spars off Eagle Harbor. The Captain of the Moravia reports passing a bow of a vessel which he recognized as that of the Comrade on account of its steamboat shape.

Nautical Notes.

The propeller Wallula has gone into drydock in Buffalo to get its wheel keyed.

A dispatch from Escanaba says that the propeller New York and its consorts were on the rocks south of Ford River all of Tuesday last, but were later pulled off by the Bruce.

The schooner Gracie M. Filer lost its jibboom and headgear yesterday at Eighteenth street bridge. The blame is said to lie between the tug which was towing it and the bridgetender.

Capt. D. B. Linstead, General Western Agent of the Vermont Central line, gives notice that after the expiration of ten days, as required by the Inter-State Commerce law, he will increase the through rates on package freights to 25 cents on fifth class and 22½ cents on sixth class freight. This is an advance of 2½ cents. It was expected that other Eastern lake and rail lines would join in the advance, but none of them have so far concluded to do so. It is said the Lehigh Valley line refuses, and its action influences the other lines.

CHEERED BY DEMOCRATS.

MR. CHEADLE SPEAKS ON THE VIRGINIA CONTESTED ELECTION.

He Thinks Venable Was Elected Over Langston Because of a Senseless Split in the Republican Party and Declares He Will Not Vote to Unseat Him—Speaker Reed Signs the River and Harbor Bill—The Raum Investigation Ended.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—The reading of yesterday's journal consumed more than half an hour. Mr. Haugen (Wis.) demanded the regular order—the Langston-Venable contested-election case—but Mr. Payson (Ill.) interposed with the conference report on the Land Grant Forfeiture bill. Mr. Rowell (Ill.) (on behalf of the Committee on Elections) raised the question of consideration against the conference report. The House decided—yeas, 62; nays, 117—not to consider the conference report.

Mr. Haugen then called up the election case, against which Mr. O'Ferrall raised the question of consideration.

During the roll-call nearly all the Democratic members deserted the Chamber, leaving but a bare dozen present to look out for their interests. After a short dispute between Mr. O'Ferrall and Mr. Morey (O.) the result of the vote was announced: Yeas, 136; nays, 15.

Mr. Haugen immediately demanded the previous question on the election case; and the direction "All go out" was given by the Democratic managers. But it was not necessary to put this direction into force, for after an emphatic protest by Mr. Cheadle (Ind.) against the stifling of debate Mr. Haugen withdrew his demand and proceeded with an argument of the case.

Mr. Cheadle (Ind.) opposed the majority resolution and declared that the Republicans of the House could not afford to vote Venable out and Langston in. The Fourth District of Virginia was reliably Republican and it had been carried by the Democrats, not because of the popularity of Mr. Cleveland or the unpopularity of Mr. Harrison, but because of the Republican division.

He proceeded to eulogize ex-Senator Mahone and to praise his ability in building up the Republican party in Virginia, and predicted that if his leadership were followed Virginia in a few years would be as reliably Republican as was Vermont.

Referring to the case under consideration he said that if there was little law and less evidence to sustain the contest, there was less Republicanism. He was confident that there never could be a strong and effective Republican party in the South until there were enough white men in it to make it strong and effective. Senator Mahone and the white men of Virginia had made the Republican party strong in that State and had secured the election of six Republicans to Congress. The contestant, flying in the face of existing conditions, had raised the race issue, and the result had been that Virginia had now only two Republican representatives.

Ignorance could not dominate and overrule intelligence. The Republican party in the South could not be built up on negro votes alone. He (Mr. Cheadle) was not his colleague's keeper, but speaking for himself he said that he could not, under his oath and with his knowledge of the case, vote to seat the contestant; and he hoped, for the good name of the House and for the good name of the great party to which he belonged, that there would be enough Republicans voting with him to retain Venable in his seat.

When Mr. Cheadle concluded he was greeted with applause by the Democrats.

The case then went over until tomorrow, Mr. Haugen stating that he would call the previous question at 2 o'clock tomorrow.

The Speaker announced his signature to the River and Harbor Appropriation bill, and the House took a recess, the evening session to be for the consideration of bills reported by the Committee on Military Affairs.

THE RAUM INVESTIGATION ENDED.

George Fleming, the Last Witness, Tells How He Secured His Evidence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—George B. Fleming was the first witness today before the committee investigating the charges against Pension Commissioner Raum. When he was called to the stand both sides disclaimed having subpœnaed him, and there was a little hitch about his examination, but finally Mr. Cooper consented to examine him at the request of the committee. Mr. Cooper asked if Butler Fitch had not told him that Bradley Tanner had given the names of six or seven Pension Office employés who held refrigerator stock. Witness replied that Fitch had said so, and he (witness) had told it to Mr. Cooper, as well as what Fitch had told him about a deal with the Chinese Legation. Witness also heard Fitch tell Mr. Cooper that his cheek turned "pale" when he read Tanner's testimony.

To Commissioner Raum witness said that he had brought Mr. Cooper where he could meet Fitch. Before the resolution of inquiry had been prepared witness had assured Mr. Cooper that the charges could be proved, but had not mentioned Fitch's name. Witness had written the article on the subject which appeared in the Indianapolis Sentinel and had supplied information about the matter to the St. Louis Republic. Six or seven good men besides Fitch had supplied witness with information about the refrigerator company. Four of them were Pension-Office employés.

The Commissioner sought to get their names, but Mr. Cooper and Mr. Lewis protested against the question, the former saying that the evident purpose was "to get even" with the employés. The Commissioner replied that he desired to bring those men before the committee. Mr. Cooper said the men had said that Bradley Tanner was a stockholder and that was now proved.

Continuing, witness said that he had sent the men to Tanner to talk with him and bring the information to him (witness). He desired to use it in his newspaper business. He had been an employé in the office himself and knew the men to be reliable. His object was not particularly to "put up a case" on the Commissioner, but to get at the truth. Witness finally left the Pension-Office Jan. 28 last. He never had any personal feeling against the Commissioner.

The Commissioner inquired whether witness had not been involved in some shady real-estate transaction in Grand Rapids, but Mr. Cooper objected to going into these personal matters. The Commissioner replied that he wanted to prove that the witness was a rascal.

Mr. Cooper—If you go into that, I want to show that it is true of you. Men who live in glass houses should not throw stones.

The Commissioner—I think your house is as glassy as anybody's.

Mr. Cooper—Well, I defy you.

As the Commissioner pressed the question, Mr. Cooper exclaimed: "If I can't show more rottenness in his [Raum's] record than in that of any man in Washington I will withdraw."

The witness said that if his record as Postmaster was challenged he would refer to ex-Controller Lacey, who had been his bondsman.

Reference having been again made by the Commissioner to the robbery of the post-office, Mr. Cooper asked if the Commissioner expected to show that the witness had robbed it. The Commissioner replied that Mr. Cooper had in his pocket a letter from a gentleman who stated that the witness was suspected of the robbery. At this point the committee insisted on cutting off the examination into this matter, and also refused to hear the testimony as to whether witness had been discharged because he was a Democrat. The witness was then dismissed.

To Mr. Cooper the Commissioner denied that Mr. Lemon had indorsed a note for him at the Second National Bank in addition to the notes held at the Bank of the Republic. The Chairman, having ascertained that there were no more witnesses to be examined, announced that the case was closed, and the committee will at once begin the preparation of its report.

ROUTINE WORK IN THE SENATE.

Many Miscellaneous Bills Passed and the Land-Claim Talk Resumed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—The House bill authorizing the construction of a railway through the Fort Clark military reservation in Texas was reported and passed.

Mr. Evarts reported a joint resolution appropriating $5,000 for a new site for the Lafayette statue, and stated that the site selected was an esplanade of some eighty feet square at the southeast corner of the Treasury reservation, not injuring, he said, but improving the dignity of the Treasury inclosure. After some debate the resolution was passed.

Mr. Blair addressed the Senate on the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution conferring representation on the District of Columbia in the Houses of Congress and in the Electoral College.

At the close of Mr. Blair's speech the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bills on the calendar unobjected to. The following bills (among others) were passed: Senate bill to reimburse certain persons who assisted in suppressing Indian hostilities in Nevada; Senate bill appropriating $30,000 for a public monument in the City of Washington to the memory of John Ericsson; Senate bill to indemnify the State of Pennsylvania for money expended in 1864 for militia called into the military service by the Governor under the proclamation of the President on June 15, 1863.

Also, Senate bills appropriating $125,000 for a public building at Wilkesbarre, Pa.; $20,000 for the purchase of certain manuscript papers and correspondence of Thomas Jefferson, now in possession of his descendants; releasing S. H. Brooks, Assistant Treasurer of the United States at San Francisco, as surety from a liability for $10,000, lost at that Sub-Treasury.

The Senate then resumed the consideration of the Senate bill to establish a United States Land Court and to provide for the settlement of private land claims in the States of Nevada, Colorado, and Wyoming and in the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona, or Utah.

Mr. Dolph moved to amend the fourteenth section by providing that where the lands decreed to any claimant shall have been sold or granted by the United States it shall be lawful for such claimant to execute a release to the United States of all right to the land so sold or granted, and shall receive payment therefor at the rate of $1.25 per acre. Agreed to.

Mr. Wolcott moved to amend the seventh restriction on the court (which limits confirmation to eleven square leagues of land to any one original grantee or claimant) and make the clause read: "No confirmation shall in any case be made or patent issued for a greater quantity than was originally granted by the Government under which the claim had inception."

He argued in support of his amendment and said that it would be better that no bill of the kind should pass rather than a bill so unjust and inhuman as the pending bill.

Mr. Ransom opposed Mr. Wolcott's amendment and replied to that Senator's strictures on the bill. After a long discussion the bill was laid aside without action.

Mr. Plumb offered a resolution to recommit the House Bankruptcy bill to the Judiciary Committee, with instructions to amend it so as to provide for a system of voluntary bankruptcy only, and to report it back so amended at the earliest possible moment. He gave notice that he would ask a vote on the resolution tomorrow.

The private pension bills on the calendar were taken up and eighty of them were passed in thirty minutes.

KENNEDY'S SPEECH EXPUNGED.

The House Judiciary Committee Orders It Omitted from the "Record."

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—The meeting of the House Judiciary Committee today, called to consider the resolutions censuring Representative Kennedy of Ohio for his speech against the Senate and Senator Quay and to expunge the speech from the Congressional Record, was attended by all the members. Representative Kennedy was present and made a statement in defense of his action and an argument to prove that the speech as published in the Record was within the requirements of parliamentary law.

The committee decided by a majority that was large enough to permit Mr. Adams of Illinois to refrain from casting a vote, he having already expressed his opinion of the speech and the duty of the House on the floor, to report a resolution directing the Government Printer to omit the speech from the permanent copy of the Record.

The conferees on the Tariff bill were in session this morning about an hour when the meeting of the House required the presence of its conferees and an adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. But little progress was made.

ATTENDANCE AT THE EXPOSITION.

What Will the Daily Average Be?—"The Tribune's" Great Offer.

The eighteenth annual exhibition of the Inter-State Exposition is now in progress in this city. In order to give THE TRIBUNE's readers an opportunity to exercise their guessing faculties in a profitable manner the following offers are made:

To the person making the closest estimate on the average daily attendance at the Exposition will be given a Dueber-Hampden Railway 14-Carat Gold Watch, value........	$150
To the person making the next closest estimate a Remington Standard Typewriter No. 2, pica, complete, value..	100
To the person making the third best estimate a New No. 9 Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine, antique oak woodwork, value..............	60

The awards will be made at the close of the Exposition from the official figures furnished by the Secretary. The polls will be kept open until Saturday, Oct. 11, at 11 p. m. The prizes are on exhibition at THE TRIBUNE's booth in the Exposition Building.

No limit is placed upon the number of guesses made by any one person. The only requirement is that each estimate shall be made upon a separate coupon.

Fill out the annexed coupon and send it to CHICAGO TRIBUNE Exposition Editor, Chicago, Ill.:

MORMONS STRONG IN THEIR FAITH.

Plural Marriages Numerous and the Church Growing More United.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah., Sept. 17.—The Utah Commission has forwarded to the Secretary of the Interior a lengthy report of its operations and proceedings for the year ending Sept. 1, 1890. The principal feature of the report is the recommendation of further legislation in support of the existing laws. After reviewing the elections held in Utah since their last report the Commissioners say:

During the year there have been frequent expressions of the hope that the church would, in some authoritative and explicit manner, declare in favor of the abandonment of polygamy, or plural marriage, as one of the saving doctrines or teachings of the church, but no such declaration has been made. There is little room for doubting, so complete is the control of the church over its people, that if such a declaration were made by those in authority it would be accepted and followed by a large majority of the membership of the so-called "Mormon Church," and a settlement of the much discussed "Mormon Question" would soon be reached.

On the contrary, in all the teachings in the Tabernacle and the church organs, every effort of the Government to suppress this crime is still denominated as a persecution, and those charged with ferreting out and prosecuting the guilty are denominated as persecutors of the saints.

The church seems to grow more united from day to day under those teachings. At the general conference of the church held at Salt Lake City in April last Wilford Woodruff, a disfranchised polygamist, was chosen "as prophet, seer, and revelator, and President of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in all the world," the first time since the death of John Taylor, in 1887, that that office has been filled.

At the same time George Q. Cannon was chosen "as First Counselor in the First Presidency," and Lorenzo Snow "as President of the Twelve Apostles," all of them being disfranchised polygamists.

"The Council of the Twelve Apostles" was completed by filling all vacancies. A large portion of the twelve apostles and the high dignitaries of the church are polygamists, and all are reputed to be open believers in the doctrine. Indeed, it is believed that no one can be promoted to office in the church unless he professes open belief in it as a fundamental doctrine.

The report then quotes from speeches of President Woodruff, George Q. Cannon, and others in support of the assertion. In conclusion the commission repeats what it said in its last report:

In this matter the Government and Congress should take no backward or even wavering step, but should continue the active and vigorous enforcement of the laws and the improvement of them by the amendment of such as would make them more effective and by enacting such other laws as experience may show to be wise and more efficacious to accomplish the desired end.

Senator Ingalls and Jay Gould.

Senator Ingalls was at his best in his recent speech at Pittsburg upon the occasion of the opening of the Pennsylvania campaign. In his reply to the time-worn declaration that with the Republican party in power the rich have been growing richer and the poor poorer, the Senator said in his most satirical and witty vein, after denying the accusation and establishing its falsity:

Mr Jay Gould and I started out in life about the same time. He had a patent mouse-trap and I had the sheep skin of a lawyer. He set his trap in Wall street, and came very near taking the earth with it, and I want to say to you with entire confidence to go no farther that the only reason why I have not got so much money as Jay Gould has got is because I didn't know how to get it. [Laughter and cheers.] I have examined the revised statutes and every statute that has been enacted since my majority was attained and I have failed to discover any legislation that prevented me from acquiring $100,000,000. [Laughter.] It's too late now. [Laughter.] I have sometimes wondered what would come to pass if some great equitable statute of justice and equity for redistribution could be enacted so that upon a given date, say the 1st of July following, every citizen of the United States should have his $875.30.

I have a shrewd suspicion that within six months from that time we would find very much the same condition of things as now. [Laughter.] Some men would be riding in Pullman cars and some would be walking along by the side of the track [laughter], with their entire earthly possessions in a bandana trunk with a pinlock [laughter] looking for a dry culvert for a bedroom [laughter], and some men would be in Congress and some would be in the penitentiary [laughter], and some would be sitting down in the fence corners waiting to see the procession pass by, and over it all loud and clear would be heard the voice of the leather-lunged Democrat demagogue [applause], who gets his living by the perspiration of his jaw [laughter], rather than by the sweat of his brow [laughter], denouncing the wrongs to labor again. [Prolonged cheers.]

FOR KILLING HIS SON.

LAWRENCE CLARK GETS A VERDICT AGAINST A RAILROAD.

The Lake Shore Will Pay $4,500 for Killing a Boy in South Chicago—A Contractor Gets Judgment Against the City—Infringement Suit Over Pictures of Yellowstone Park—A Wife of 54 Wants a Divorce from a Husband of 70—Damages for $2,000 Asked for a Dog Bite.

A verdict of $4,500 was rendered in the suit of Lawrence Clark against the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern for the death of Willie Clark, who was killed in October, 1888, while crossing the tracks at South Chicago. He was going to church and got his foot caught in a frog.

Divorce Suit of an Aged Couple.

Judge Horton has on hearing the contested divorce suit of Mrs. Phillipena Doehla of No. 541 Franklin street against Henry Doehla, a man of considerable property. Mrs. Doehla is 54 years of age, while Henry is at least 70. They were united in wedlock May 15, 1889, and the wife complains that she was obliged to leave on account of cruel treatment. This charge is denied by Doehla, and he says that complainant married him only for his money. She avers that he has property worth $25,000.

Over Yellowstone Park Pictures.

L. Prang & Co. of Boston secured an injunction yesterday from Judge Gresham restraining the Northern Pacific railway company and Poole Bros., printers, from distributing or publishing a book entitled "Wonderland," containing scenes of Yellowstone Park. Prang claims that the defendants infringed on his copyright of several of the pictures in the book.

She Was Bitten by a Dog.

Before Judge Clifford Mrs. Anna Malloch is seeking to recover $2,000 damages from John Dvorak, a saloonkeeper, because his dog bit her. Plaintiff was living in defendant's house, at the corner of Loomis and Nineteenth streets. Sept. 9, 1888, she went to the woodshed to get some coal, when the dog jumped at her and bit her in the ankle.

Judgment Against the City.

Thomas H. Duffy, a contractor, recovered judgment for $2,189 against the city for paving Harrison street from Center to Ogden avenues. The city claimed that it was not liable because it paid the money to Mike Gerrity, who finished up the work under the contract.

Notes.

The trial to have John Feeney declared insane was discontinued in the County Court yesterday.

Judge Horton yesterday appointed Alonzo Hertig receiver, on bond of $2,500, for the Auditorium Confection company in the creditor's bill brought by the Knickerbocker Ice company.

A bill for separate maintenance was filed in the Circuit Court by Mrs. Elizabeth O'Brien against Edward O'Brien, a yardmaster for the Wisconsin Central railway company. She says he deserted her immediately after their marriage, Feb. 2, 1887, and that he refuses to support her or their child. Judge Horton issued a writ of ne exeat preventing him from leaving the State.

Timothy O'Sullivan filed a bill in the Circuit Court against William Laing and William T. Harkness to remove a cloud from the title of lots in blocks Nos. 6 and 48 in the Notre Dame Addition to South Chicago. O'Sullivan alleges that defendants were to pay him $16,000 for the land, but that they defaulted on the second payment of $5,000. They had the contract of sale recorded, and this formed the cloud sought to be removed. The next suit filed was one by Harkness and Laing, who allege that O'Sullivan would not accept the $5,000 which was offered because of an advance in value of the property.

Daring Work of Bank Robbers.

DALLES, Ore., Sept. 17.—Further particulars of the robbery of the First National Bank show that the burglary was committed early yesterday morning. The discovery was made by Cashier Beall, but the matter was kept quiet in order to allow the detectives a chance to obtain a clew if possible. The concrete pier on which the vault stands was tunneled through and a hole drilled into the safe. The amount secured was $9,500. It is evident that the work was done by experienced hands, and that it took three weeks to accomplish the job. The Cashier smelled sewer gas each morning ten days prior to the robbery, but had no suspicion of what was being done. There is no clew to the robbers.

Couldn't Wait Any Longer.

Two lone maids spoke: "Let's call ourselves
As Time and Tide this year."
They wait, 't is said, for no man, and Behold no man is here.

A DAILY STREET SCENE THAT WOULD EXCITE WONDER IN ANY OTHER CITY THAN CHICAGO.

The spectacle of big frame buildings on wheels and being carted from one locality to another is one rarely witnessed outside Chicago. Here, however, it is a familiar scene, over 3,000 buildings being "moved" last year. The industry—which employs a special army of engineers and workmen—implies some hardship in exposure to bad weather and night air. James Brogan of 106 Desplaines street, for years in the business, says:

MR. JAMES BROGAN, 106 DESPLAINES STREET.

"This exposure to cold and damp weather aggravated my trouble. For years I could not breathe through my nose at all. I suffered from severe headache and pain over the eyes and chest. The discharges from my throat got down into my stomach, causing me to suffer from the worst form of dyspepsia. There was wind, sourness, belching, a bloated, heavy feeling after eating, and, in short, I began to think that my stomach was a failure. Physicians said that if I continued at my business there was no hope for me. 'I was past cure.' I couldn't well quit my work, however, so went to Drs. McCoy & Wildman of 224 State street. The results were happy indeed. They cured me so completely that I have never since had sign or symptom of my former illness, and I have been able to work every day."

FIVE DOLLARS A MONTH.

To those acquainted with the facts, and who have read my challenge in the daily papers there can be no question who are the originators of our style of advertising and our mode of treating catarrh and other diseases of the nose and throat. But to prove to all concerned that we originated our present method of treatment, and that others who use our style of advertising are simply imitators, we make the following liberal offer:

Until Nov. 1 Drs. McCoy & Wildman will treat all cases at the uniform fee of $5 per month. Those placing themselves under the doctors' care prior to Nov. 1 will be treated until cured at the same rate—namely, $5 per month.

ROUTE OF THE NEW LOOP.

A RAILROAD THAT WILL CONNECT SOUTHWESTERN SUBURBS.

Work Being Pushed on the Chicago and Southwestern, Owned by the Northern Pacific—A Union Depot to Be Built on West Twenty-sixth Street—The Inter-State Commission Decides That Oil Barrels Are Part of the Car—Other Railroad News.

Construction work on two of the Southwestern railroad enterprises controlled by the Northern Pacific is being pushed forward. The contractors in charge of the work on the Chicago Central railroad have established a camp at One Hundred and Twenty-third street, west of Western avenue. About thirty teams were at work yesterday. On the Harlem avenue section of the Chicago and Southwestern railroad about 200 men are employed. The iron to be used on this road is now on the ground.

The Chicago Central has two years in which to complete the work of construction, but the Chicago and Southwestern railroad is compelled by the ordinance passed by the Cicero Board to have a line in operation by Jan. 1, 1891. The Southwestern railroad authorities state that the right of way has almost all been secured and that the road will be in condition to operate passenger trains within the stipulated time.

The main line of the Chicago and Southwestern begins at the intersection of Harlem avenue and the main line of the Northern Pacific railroad. From this point it extends directly south on Harlem avenue, along the western line of Cicero and across the canal at Summit. This line then joins the Calumet Terminal road about the center of Sec. 24 of Lyons. Another part of this Chicago and Southwestern line begins at the intersection of Harlem avenue and the line of the Illinois Central railroad on West Twenty-sixth street. A union depot will be built at this junction. From this point it will be carried east just north of Riverside boulevard into the tract owned by the Grant Locomotive Works. It will turn north and join the Northern Pacific main line near the corner of West Forty-sixth and Twelfth streets.

The right of way of the Chicago Central road has only been decided as far north as the Belt line at Seventy-fifth street. A real-estate man employed by the Northern Pacific company states that the Chicago Central will be continued north on an independent right of way to the line of the Wisconsin Central and Northern Pacific railroads at Sixteenth street. When these roads are completed the Northern Pacific will control a suburban loop which will extend from its main line south and west over the Chicago and Southwestern railroad, southeast over part of the Calumet Terminal line to Blue Island, and thence north to the main line over the Chicago Central road. This system of lines will give a key to the suburban situation through Cicero, Riverside, La Vergne, Lyons, Blue Island, and the Ridge property in the eastern part of Worth. In connection with the operations of these roads it is rumored the Baltimore and Ohio railroad has purchased a tract of 320 acres south of La Vergne along the Harlem avenue line. It is stated that this is to be used as a site for round-houses and shops. This report is caused undoubtedly by the fact that the completion of the Chicago and Southwestern road will form a connection with the Calumet Terminal road, which will give the Baltimore and Ohio railroad a feasible entrance to the city.

OIL BARRELS A PART OF THE CAR.

The Inter-State Commerce Commission Decides a Point in Oil Rates.

The Inter-State Commerce Commission has rendered an interesting decision on the matter of the relative rates on oil carried in tank cars or in barrels. The Commission holds that the rate must be the same on equal amounts of oil in car-load lots whether shipped in barrels or in tank cars, and that no charge can be made for the weight of the barrels. The decision says that now a tank used in carrying oil is deemed by the carriers part of the car and the rate is charged only on the contents, while for carriage in box cars the barrels containing the oil are treated as freight and the rate is charged both for the weight of the barrel and its contents. Hereafter the barrels must be deemed part of the box car and the rate charged only for the oil exclusive of the weight of the barrels. The decision is sweeping on this point. The fact that a carrier does not own tank cars but uses such cars supplied by some of its patrons for their own traffic makes no difference in the case. The Commissioners say it is the carrier's duty to equip its road with instrumentalities of carriage suitable for the traffic it undertakes to carry and to furnish them alike to all who have occasion for their use. When a carrier accepts and uses cars for transportation owned by shippers or others, in legal contemplation it adopts them as its own for purposes of rates and carriage, and neither the manner of acquiring cars, nor inability to furnish its general patrons the use of cars similar to those furnished by some shippers for their own traffic, can excuse or justify a carrier for discrimination in rates that may give one shipper advantages over another; nor can any device, such as payment of unreasonable rent for use of cars furnished by shippers, be practiced to evade the duty of equal charges for equal service.

MAY WITHDRAW SEVERAL TRAINS.

General Managers Think the Business Does Not Warrant the Expense.

The general managers will today take hold of the question of greater economies in railroad management in earnest. They will meet and try to come to some agreement for the withdrawal of a number of Saturday night and Sunday passenger trains. It is generally agreed that there are more of such trains than the traffic will warrant. They have been added by what the managers choose to call the demands of competition, but the more imperative demands for reduced operating expenses have brought the roads into a frame of mind where it is thought probable an agreement can be made to withdraw a number of trains. Even more important than this movement in the passenger service is the endeavor which will be made to come to some understanding looking to the abandonment of excessively fast-freight time and the running of fewer special fast-freight trains. Competition in the direction of fast-freight movement has reached a point where a Western shipper with half a dozen carloads of beef, for instance, will be granted a special train, which will be run through at a rate making it almost necessary to sidetrack the passenger service. There will be some extensive reforms in this direction if managers can agree upon a line of action at all like what they individually believe is desirable.

W. W. Finley arrived here yesterday and announced his acceptance of the recent appointment as Chairman of the Western Passenger Association. He will relieve Mr. Goddard Oct. 1.

BOUGHT BY THE NORTHERN PACIFIC.

The St. Paul and Duluth Said to Have Been Absorbed.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—There is every reason to believe that within a very short time the St. Paul and Duluth has passed under the control of the Northern Pacific. It is a well-known fact that the latter road has for some time been trying to get a majority of the St. Paul and Duluth stock and that some months ago it would have succeeded had not a large block of the stock suddenly been raised in price. It is said that the discovery that the Northern Pacific held a half interest in the Duluth terminals of the St. Paul and Duluth caused the stock of the latter road to weaken to such an extent as to make it possible to secure the much-needed block which had previously been raised in price. For a year or more back the Northern Pacific has been looking eagerly forward to securing a direct route to St. Paul in order that it might find it worth while to establish a line of package freight boats to ply between Duluth and Buffalo. The Transit and Northern steamship lines both have contracts with two or more of the great trunk railways terminating at Buffalo, which will be in force for another two years. If the Northern Pacific should now commence building a line of boats it could have them built in time to secure connections with one or more of the great Eastern trunk lines.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—According to its annual statement the gross earnings of the St. Paul and Duluth for the last year were $1,410,527, an increase of $3,661. Its surplus amounts to $161,068. The Northern Pacific's fiscal statement for the year ending June 30 shows: Earnings, $22,610,502; expenses, $13,089,136; net increase over the previous year, $1,677,440. After deducting dividends and charges from the total net income there is a surplus of $578,159.

Mulford Scores a Point.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—Edward A. Mulford, the Chicago ticket broker, today dismissed his suit for $25,000 damages against the American Ticket Brokers' Association so far as it applies to Levi Solomon, Edward List, and Isaac Frank, but it stands against George McKenzie, George W. Frey, and George Frank. The three last-named refused to consent to Mulford's admission to the association, which was made the basis of the compromise on which he dismissed the suit. Mulford has compelled a majority of the Executive Board to sign a circular letter exonerating him of all charges made against him.

Completed a New Railroad.

ALTON, Ill., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The last spike on the extension of the St. Louis, Alton and Springfield railroad, from Alton to Elsah and Grafton, was driven this afternoon, and the first train arrived here at 7 o'clock this evening.

The Manitoba's Pacific Extension.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba today filed with the Secretary of State a Pacific extension mortgage to the Central Trust company of New York for £6,000,000. The mortgage is given by the Manitoba company on its Pacific extension, commencing near the Grand Marias River in Montana and extending westerly through Montana, Idaho, and Washington to a point on Puget Sound. The extension is to be built by the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba at the request of the Northern company, the latter authorizing the former to issue its bonds to the extent of £6,000,000.

New Chicago-St. Louis Route.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The Jacksonville Southeastern line, with headquarters in this city, has added another road to its system—the Chicago and St. Louis—articles of lease having been signed today. In a short time the Jacksonville Southeastern will be extended into St. Louis from Edwardsville, when the Santa Fé will run through vestibule trains over this system from Chicago to St. Louis, competing with the Wabash and Chicago and Alton.

Railroad Notes.

There is trouble over passenger rates from Lincoln (Neb.) to Chicago. Some of the roads claim that the Alton has put in a cut rate. The Alton says it has done nothing of the kind, but is merely meeting the rates made by its competitors, and that it has a right to sell tickets to Lincoln via Kansas City at as low a rate as other roads make via Omaha.

Eastbound shipments of dressed beef last week amounted to 967 cars. The greatest percentage was secured by the Michigan Central, which took out 299 cars, or 31 per cent. The Chicago and Grand Trunk got nearly 19 per cent, and the Lake Shore came next with 15 per cent. The Wabash got 13 per cent, the Panhandle 11 per cent, the Fort Wayne 6 per cent, and the Baltimore and Ohio 3½ per cent.

At the meeting of the Western Freight Association yesterday the matter of adjusting grain rates to accord with the reduction proposed by the Rock Island and the Alton was put into the hands of a committee, which will be busy for some days checking up rates on this basis. The only other business that came up was the matter of uniform classification. This was referred to a committee of five to investigate as to its effect on Western industries. Nothing further will be done about it till this committee reports at the October meeting.

Excursion rates have been granted, on the certificate plan, for persons attending the following meetings: Eighty-second Regiment, Indiana Volunteer Association, North Vernon, Ind., Sept. 18 and 19; Order of American Mechanics, Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 22 to 24; Third Ohio Regimental Association, Springfield, O., Oct. 8 and 9; Mississippi Valley Medical Association, Louisville, Ky., Oct. 8 to 10, E. S. McKee, Secretary, Cincinnati, O.; State Assembly Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association, Washington, Ind., Oct. 21 to 23; First Brigade, Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, Springfield, Ill., Oct. 15 and 16; Grand Lodge of Illinois Knights of Pythias, Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 21 to 23; Woman's Board of Missions of the Interior, Chicago, Oct. 28 to 30; American Secular Union, Portsmouth, O., Oct. 31 to Nov. 2.

HE IMPERSONATED R. M. EASLEY.

"Joke" Played by a Hoaxing Democrat from the West.

An interview in the TRIBUNE yesterday purporting to be with R. M. Easley, of the Hutchinson (Kas.) News, was the work of a hoaxing Democrat from the West who impersonated Mr. Easley for a little while. Mr. Easley was made to say some shocking things about prohibition and protection—shocking because Mr. Easley is a Republican and a Protective Tariff and Prohibition Republican at that. Here are some of the things that the man who claimed to be Mr. Easley said:

> Kansas is two-thirds bankrupt, if the truth were known. Nine-tenths of the farms there are mortgaged up to their full limit. And why? There are three reasons—protection, prohibition, and poor crops. There is a pretty large sprinkling of asininity, too, in the Kansas farmer.

This is what Mr. Easley said yesterday about his principles:

"Prohibition in Kansas is a grand success, and to it principally can be attributed that wonderful jump just shown in the census from 996,096 to 1,680,000 in ten years. As regards crops this year in our State the drought did considerable damage in some portions of the State, but as a whole the crop is worth much more this year than last. Instead of nine-tenths of the farms being mortgaged recent statistics show less than one-half, and for the last six months more mortgages have been paid off than put on."

DEFENDING BOSTON HARBOR.

Outline of the General Plan Adopted by the Secretary of War.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 16.—The War Department has begun the work of coast defense under the general plan already briefly outlined in these dispatches. The Board of Ordnance and Fortification last week approved the scheme of chief of engineers, and advertisements for proposals for guns and mortars to be used in that scheme have appeared. The Fortifications act, making appropriations for coast defenses, was not signed till late in August, and the prompt action of the department indicates the importance of the system. The Fortifications bill appropriated $235,000 for coast defenses in Boston Harbor. This will allow only a small beginning of the great project which, in its completed state, would take over $7,500,000. The complete plan contemplates the establishment of marine mines, torpedo plants, rapid-firing gun batteries, and heavily-armored high-powered gun batteries.

The plan adopted by the Secretary is one of several recommended by the engineering officers. Alternative schemes are proposed in the event of the inability to secure the territory required in the approved project. This project embraces positions on Fort Warren and Grover's cliff. The present works on the former point are to be strengthened by the erection of one eight-inch high-power breech-loading rifled gun on a disappearing carriage, to cost $50,000. It is likely that in addition there will be placed a battery of eight twelve-inch mortars, now in course of construction. The sum of $185,000 is allotted for the establishment of another battery of eight twelve-inch mortars on Grover's cliff. This point is not owned by the Government, and if no satisfactory terms can be obtained from the present holders, the Secretary of War has authority by Congress to condemn the land. The appropriation of $500,000 is available for the purchase of land needed for the coast defenses this year, but this amount must be divided between three localities; one on Coney Island, where a mortar battery is proposed; another in San Francisco; the third in Boston. The proprietors of Grover's cliff may see fit to accept the hint given by the framers of the Fortifications bill, to the effect that "the Secretary of War may accept on behalf of the Government donations of lands or rights pertaining hereto," required for coast defenses.

Such is the work outlined for the present year in a system of defense whose necessity has been earnestly recommended by Presidents since Grant. The action of the present Congress, perhaps, is due more to this continued effort of successive Executives than to any individual endeavor. Now that Congress has recognized the merit of the claims of the defense people, it may be depended upon to continue the provisions for the safeguards of our seaboard cities and the discouragement of foreign invasion.

Tied to the Tail of a Horse.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Sept. 17.—John Clinton made complaint against two brothers named Kennedy, whereupon warrants were issued for their arrest. The two Kennedy brothers became incensed at him while working at a thrasher on Eureka flat, near Walla Walla, because of his refusal to join in a game of cards with them. A long rope was produced and he was tied to the tail of an unruly horse and dragged a quarter of a mile across the prairie. The rope slipped from the horse's tail, thus saving the young man's life.

WEALTHY MEN IN COURT.

THEY ARE FINED $50 APIECE FOR MAKING TOO MUCH SMOKE.

Inspector Young's Idea of How Violations of the Ordinance Can Be Prevented—Some Cases are Simply Careless Neglect—The Numerous Inventions of Consumers Show That There Is No Longer Any Excuse for Offenders.

The Smoke Inspector has the violators of the smoke ordinance on the run. He had a good day yesterday prosecuting them and in several cases had fines imposed upon some of the wealthiest citizens of Chicago. Yet Mr. Young does not persecute them. His policy is as he explained to Potter Palmer's attorney in Justice Bradwell's court yesterday when the Judge astonished the lawyer by imposing a $50 fine on the rich hotel-keeper. Inspector Young cares nothing about collecting the fines. The city does not want the money, he says, but it wants the smoke nuisance abated, and if provision is made to stop the furnaces from smoking within a certain period the fines are remitted. In Mr. Palmer's case the violation of the ordinance was caused by the smoke-burners being neglected and out of repair. It was not a case of refusal to make proper provision for burning smoke, but on the contrary it was shown that the engineer had orders to keep the chimney free from smoke.

Other prominent citizens suffered a similar fate as Mr. Palmer. Perry H. Smith, as the owner of the Casino Theater, was fined $50 by Justice Prindiville; J. V. Farwell & Co., Rand, McNally & Co., the Keeley Brewing company, and Marshall Field & Co. were each sentenced to pay that amount into the City Treasury. The J. W. Reedy Elevator company, the Conrad Seipp Brewing company, and Campbell Bros. obtained a continuance of their cases before Justice Prindiville.

The efforts to clear the atmosphere of Chicago have found recognition abroad. Smoke-Inspector Young received a letter from the Mayor of Cincinnati yesterday asking for information how the work was done. A representative of the New York Mail and Express has been traveling around with one of the inspectors for a few days collecting information on the subject to be imparted to the Gothamites.

The Illinois Central railroad has written the Health Department promising to introduce smoke burners on its engines as quickly as possible; also to make experiments with hard coal and coke, and, with a device of their own invention, for burning oil. They have appointed a smoke inspector of their own to prevent smoky locomotives on their lines in the city limits, and have fitted up two suburban engines for burning hard coal.

No Longer Any Excuse for Violators.

There is no longer any excuse for a violation of the city smoke ordinance on account of any lack of proper devices to consume the smoke. Several inventions that are now in practical operation have been described in THE TRIBUNE. There is one that has been in the market less than a year and has met with considerable success in its short career. It is used by Armour & Co. in their packing-houses in Chicago, Kansas City, and Omaha, and the firm recommends it highly—in fact, calls it perfect. The device is in operation at the South Side Electric Light company, John Cudahy's packing-houses in Chicago and Milwaukee, Albert Houston Chicago, Central Illuminating and Power company, Paris Laundry, Miller L. Hendricks, the Madison Street Theater Building, and four furnaces are being put in at the County Jail.

It is called the Weber furnace. The inventor does not claim to be able to attach it to every kind of boiler, but to all tubular stationary boilers. It is constructed on the principle of water fuel or combustion of steam and utilizes brick arches to create the draught. A bridge wall thirty-six inches thick supports the boiler, being separated from it by a layer of asbestos and allowing for the expansion of the boiler. The bridge wall is broken by three arches into each of which a steam jet is introduced, blowing the steam back through the arches into the large open space behind the bridge wall and under the boiler.

The air is admitted through a valve in the door in front of the fire. The disassociation of the water-gas under the influences of the white heat in the arches, and the admission of plenty of air causes not only the complete combustion of the volatile carbon just released from the coal but adds to the heat by the combustion of hydrogen. At a place where the device was seen in operation yesterday it acted almost to perfection, the amount of smoke that escaped not being noticeable. It is claimed that the fire-clay holding the brick arches together will last two years without repairing. At an experiment made at the Armour packing-house it is claimed the Weber furnace in a ten hours' run showed an economy of 12 to 15 per cent in fuel, and an increase of efficiency in generating steam of 25 per cent over the ordinary setting. Any kind of coal, even screenings, can be used without causing smoke.

The device is not yet widely known. One of its attractive feature is its simplicity.

Municipal Misgovernment.

Pittsburg Dispatch: What we need is not reforms in methods and forms so much as a change in social tendencies. Let the influences which are concentrating wealth at the cost of ignorance and poverty among the masses be checked, and the fundamental intention of republican institutions will assert itself. Let them keep on, and the misgovernment of American cities will be among the least of the evils that follow.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

HAVE YOU VISITED OUR REMODELED musical establishment recently? If not it will amply repay you to do so, as marked improvements have taken place in all of our many departments.

Casual visitors sometimes imagine that our entire stock is shown on the main floor of 162 and 164 State-st. We not only have these two stores from cellar to roof, but also the three upper floors of 160, 158, and 156 State-st., filled with an unequaled stock of musical goods.

In addition to these great warerooms we have a factory on Randolph-st., opp. Union Park, in which is produced the greatest variety of musical instruments of any factory in the world. Nor is this all. We have a warehouse for storage of goods in bulk cor. Michigan-av. and Madison-st., hence we have no hesitation in saying that ours is the largest and most completely equipped music-house on the globe.

The moral of this is, that you can always buy better goods at lower prices from the man doing the largest business, because he turns his stock over more frequently and is content with a smaller profit.

In this advertisement we refer particularly to our Piano and Organ Departments, in which are represented the following well-known instruments:

PIANOS.
KNABE,
KROEGER,
FISCHER,
NEW ENGLAND,
PEASE.

ORGANS.
PELOUBET REED-PIPE PARLOR ORGANS,
LYON & HEALY CABINET ORGANS,
ÆOLIAN SELF-PLAYING ORGANS.

Residents of Chicago should not fail to visit our warerooms before purchasing. Non-residents are invited to correspond with us, stating their wants, and we will cheerfully furnish catalogues and all necessary information.

CLAIRVOYANTS.

A CLAIRVOYANCE—MME. MARREE, THE great and noted clairvoyant and astrologist, born with a double veil and greatest prophetic gift of second sight in clairvoyance of the nineteenth century; $5,000 challenge to any one who can equal her in consultation on dead and living friends or enemies, on business matters, marriages, and losses of every description. Reveals mysteries, designates hidden coin or minerals, locates lingering diseases. Mme. Marree is the greatest living natural clairvoyant on earth. She reads your secret and open life with as much ease as though in ordinary conversation. All believing themselves conjured or bewitched should wear the charm of the ancient talisman for good luck. Advice to young men how to gain riches and what best adapted for, and to business-men their gain or loss in worldly goods. Advice to ladies how to gain happiness and peace. Mme. Marree predicted President Harrison's election and the assassination of Presidents Lincoln and Garfield. Was the only one predicted the World's Fair in Chicago from the commencement. Her predictions are always exactly and truthfully fulfilled; you believe what you hear and know yourself. Warns the public to beware of all who imitate her name and advertisement. Office hours from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. 337 West Van Buren-st., above Aberdeen, first flat. Always at home. Consultation sent by mail. All call and know the truth.

Together holding average deposits of eight millions of dollars, which puts Helena financially on a level with cities like Rochester, N. Y., Indianapolis, Ind., Grand Rapids, Mich., and Columbus, Ohio, all classed as among the wealthiest and most prosperous in the Eastern States, with populations ranging above one hundred thousand each.

The combined wealth of the citizens of Helena in mines, real estate, cattle, and other property is largely above one hundred millions of dollars, and is the result of but a few years' effort in the development of resources, marking Montana as a State more bountifully endowed by nature than any other portion of the habitable globe.

THE STATE OF MONTANA with less than two hundred thousand people produces annually in gold, silver, copper, and lead, cattle, horses, wool, hides, sheep, etc., exportable commodities amounting to $60,000,000.00, nearly equaling in value those of the State of Texas, with a population of two-and-a-quarter millions.

FINANCIAL.

Clearings at the principal cities of the United States yesterday and a week ago were:

	Sept. 17.	Sept. 10.
New York	$146,836,128	$115,611,146
Boston	15,134,281	15,107,589
Philadelphia	14,080,897	11,293,489
St. Louis	3,712,224	2,490,466
Baltimore	2,342,939	2,008,523
New Orleans	1,371,238	1,048,599

New York exchange was quoted as follows yesterday: Chicago, 80c to 60c discount; Boston, par to 10c premium; St. Louis, 75c to 90c discount.

Now that the feeling is becoming general that the corner has been turned and we are on the way toward an improvement in the money market bankers are already becoming restless as they see the unnecessary proportion of reserve they are carrying without any profit. The hoarding up of large reserves is not necessarily good banking. A bank by that plan may become little more than a safety deposit vault, which is not satisfactory to either stockholders or the business community. As soon as the desire for profit overcomes the fear that extraordinary demands are to be made the bankers will begin to put out some of this surplus until their reserve is brought down to something like the usual amount. If the situation continues to improve in New York and the strained feeling throughout the country is relieved it will soon be discovered that the local stringency is a theory and not a condition. There is money enough here to carry on the business of the city comfortably, even taking into account that that business is 25 per cent greater than it was a year ago. So soon as the strain, which is based mainly on fear, is relaxed and the banks again are as liberal in proportion to their resources as they ordinarily are the evidences of stringency will disappear.

The purchase of $16,000,000 4s by the Treasury yesterday is looked at with much satisfaction here. It will liberate over $20,000,000 cash and put most of it into the New York banks where it will do the most good. This ought to give a temporary relief that will be sufficient in connection with the other Government disbursements. The return flow of money, however, is what must be looked for to give permanent relief, and the beginning of that movement is not far away. A considerable improvement in country collections, which have all the time been excellent, is noted here as the result of the cool weather. Country retailers report an unusually brisk trade.

New York exchange was in better demand than for many days. Not only was the demand good but the offerings were light, and the result was that rates went up from 80c discount at the opening to 60c discount at the close. Sterling was firmer. Rates quoted here were 480¼ for sixty-day bills and 484¼@484½ for sight drafts.

It was a featureless market at the Stock Exchange. Whatever the prospects may be for easier money for the brokers in a few days it is evident they are getting little of it yet. At times there was a full point difference between regular and buyer 30, which is equal to 18 per cent. Such transactions are not healthy to say the least. In a good many spots the market shows strong indications of wanting to go higher, just as it has almost all the time since the money stringency nearly put an end to speculative trading. With easier money a rise in a good many of the stocks seems likely. Gas bonds are badly demoralized. Gaslight 5s were offered at 88 with only 85¾ bid. There was neither bid for nor offer of Consumers' 5s. Yesterday's sales were as follows:

The trend of opinion among English investors concerning American breweries is unquestionably in the direction of a gigantic consolidation of the brewery properties in which British capital is interested. Martin and Phillips of London suggest in their September share market report that if the whole of these undertakings were formed into one great combination, as the Anglo-American Brewery Corporation, enormous savings would be effected, and the union would prove an irresistible barrier to the attacks of Yankee competition trickery. "It would be to the interest of every shareholder to support such a scheme," they say, "for by it a permanency would be given to the large dividents now paid, the shares would advance enormously in value, and reasonable criticism, as to the prospects of those concerns individually, would be silenced."

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—[Special.]—The sentiment of the street was in favor of higher prices, and the result was a steady but cautious buying by the bulls and a pronounced effort to cover by the opposing contingent. Prices were from ⅛ to ½ better at the opening than last night's closing, and the market held firm up to noon. Lackawanna bounded up 1¾, to 143, almost immediately after the opening. Missouri Pacific made an equal advance of 1¾. Northern Pacific common and preferred, New England, and North American made gains of ¾ each in the first hour, and the rest of the railroad list was better by ⅛@¾. The trust stocks were quite active. Sugar in particular came to the front with a 2 point advance, to 75¾, and Chicago Gas went up ¾. Silver started at 116 and climbed up ¾.

The early part of the afternoon saw but little change in the market. It remained fairly firm but quite inactive. The heaviest raiding was in Chicago Gas and Lackawanna.

Shortly after 1 o'clock the Secretary of the Treasury announced that he had purchased $16,774,000 of 4s at 126@128¾ and had offers of $11,000,000 more at and above 126¾. It is understood that $15,500,000 of these bonds will be redeemed at the Sub-Treasury in this city. The market did not respond at once to the new condition of affairs, and seemed to rest about where it did, though a few of the stocks showed positive weakness for a time, especially Burlington, which was sold off nearly a point.

Money on call easy, ranging from 3 to 7 per cent, last loan 3, closing offered at 2. Prime mercantile paper, 7@9. Sterling exchange quiet and steady at 480¾ for sixty-day bills and 484 for demand.

The total sales of stocks today were 303,756 shares, including Atchison, 7,590; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, 37,400; Lake Shore, 3,000; Louisville and Nashville, 6,768; Missouri Pacific, 14,180; North American, 22,450; Northern Pacific preferred, 12,310; Pacific Mail, 4,845; Reading, 7,100; Richmond and West Point, 5,345; St. Paul, 28,795; Union Pacific, 5,090.

GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

The leading produce markets were active yesterday and irregular, fluctuating wildly occasionally. The weather through the wheat country was clearing after rains in the eastern portion, and conditions were more favorable for a movement. In the corn-belt the weather was all that could be desired with normal temperatures. Light frosts were reported in Wisconsin and Michigan.

The death of Christoph Bunge was posted yesterday.

Minneapolis says it will be a week before free receipts can be expected, as the wet weather has so delayed harvesting.

Advices from the Jim River district place the wheat yield there at about 3½ bu to the acre. This is less than expected, although former estimates of 5 and 7 bu seemed low enough.

Puts on December wheat sold late at $1.00½@1.00⅝ and calls at $1.03⅝@1.03¼.

A number of private cable messages were received on the official estimate of the French crop, and all agreed that the figures were too large. One bulletin said that the crop might reach 300,000,000 bu, but because of its poor quality it would not be equal to 280,000,000 bu. The official figures are 336,000,000 bu.

M. Sands, a furniture dealer at Salina, Kas., should be measurably satisfied with his recent transactions. He came here some three months ago and started in with a cash investment of $350; as a result of good judgment or "luck," or both, he returned to his home this week with $32,000, having been on the right side of the grain pits nearly every day.

Hutchinson had a man in the wheat pit hammering December by offering big lots at an eighth under the market. When it got down where he wanted he began buying May and kept it up all through the session. "English George" Smith was a liberal buyer of wheat at the bottom. St. Louis was a big buyer on the break early. New York reported foreigners buying wheat there.

"These fellows in the country sold their flaxseed to the trust a long time ago, that they might save the small commission charges for handling, and are now obliged to buy it back at a sharp advance in order to settle contracts, because they have not the seed to deliver; serves 'em right." Such remarks as this were heard in the seed crowd yesterday, when cash lots showed an upturn of fully 5c for the day.

Last Friday advices were received by a number of the larger commission houses to the effect that the Russian crop estimates were being considerably reduced, and that the figures would show a marked decrease of the crop. It was generally known and was printed in THE TRIBUNE of Saturday. It had little or no effect, the market showing a decline both days. Yesterday the same information came in a little more definite form, perhaps, a message reading: "Reliable Russian estimate places the total yield 30 per cent—40,000,000 bu—below the recent reckoning." On this the market was bulled from $1.01⅛ to $1.02¾. It only goes to show that it makes a good deal of difference how the crowd feels when it gets a piece of news.

One of the big commission houses on the first floor of the Board of Trade Building received a sample of grain by mail yesterday from Minneapolis, and the expert of the house after examining it said it was undoubtedly some of the wheat that had been badly affected by the recent frosts while in shock. They decided that if there was much up there like the sample, December wheat would be a good purchase. They invited a number of other experts to look at it and eventually it got into the hands of a few sample men. They returned a verdict to the effect that it was a pretty fair sample of barley, and the commission house is wondering how its experts could have been so mistaken. They were now waiting for a letter from the sender of the sample which shall forever settle the question whether it is "frosted wheat" or a fair sample of barley.

THE MARKETS.

Flour showed some signs of life, much to the delight of the commission-men, who have been doing little of late. The inquiry on the other side was much better, quite a number of workable orders being reported. The feeling abroad is evidently improved.

The feeling at the opening in wheat was strong, as there were reports of higher prices at a number of domestic markets, St. Louis especially noting an upward tendency. Foreign markets were generally quiet and steady. The opening price for December was ⅛@¼c above the closing of Tuesday on covering by the short interest.

Longs took advantage of the advance to throw overboard a great deal of stuff which the market could not hold and a decline of 1⅜c followed. The down turn was helped by the general credence given the official French figures of a great increase in the French crop. Just then came the dispatches questioning the accuracy of the French figures and other advices on the Russian situation that infused the bulls with life, drove the shorts to cover, and sent the market up. After the flurry it seesawed under scalping operations and had eased off somewhat when the report of the Government bond purchases was received starting another sharp bulge. There was a break just at the close on the reported failure of a banking house at Boston. Closing cables were higher and the feeling strong. December opened at $1.02@1.02⅛, the outside being ¾c above the latest figures Tuesday, broke to $1.01⅛, reacted to $1.02¾, eased off to $1.02⅜, advanced to $1.02⅝, declined to $1.02⅜@1.02⅛, sold up to $1.03⅜, fell off to $1.02⅜, and closed at $1.02⅜. Sales in store and to go to store were made at 99c@$1.00 for No. 2 red and 90c for No. 3 Turkish. Free on board lots of No. 4 red winter sold at 85@87c, No. 3 do at 91@94½c, and No. 3 spring at 90@95½c. Total cash sales about 65 cars.

Although the frost predicted for Tuesday night failed to materialize there were enough private messages noting unexpected damage to corn by the frosts of last Friday to hold prices steady at the opening. There was a larger shipping demand, as the market is now on a shipping basis with New York, and the purchases of cash and the near futures by shipping houses lent considerable strength to the feeling. Hutchinson's purchases were large and were mainly responsible for the only marked advance of the session. There was an improvement late in sympathy with wheat, but Hutchinson's purchases had more effect than the outside news. May opened at 50¾c, the closing price Tuesday, improved to 50⅝c, declined to 50@50⅛c, advanced to 51⅛c, fell off to 50½c, reacted to 50¾@50⅝c, and closed at that. Sales in store and to go to store were made at 48½@48⅝c for No. 2, 48⅞@49⅛c for No. 2 yellow, 48½@49c for No. 2 white, 47⅞@48c for No. 3, 46⅛c for No. 3 white, and 48@48⅜c for No. 3 yellow. Sample sales were at 46@48c for No. 4 mixed and 47½@48⅛c for No. 3 and No. 3 white. Total cash sales about 500 cars and 78,000 bu.

Oats were strong to 1c higher. The receipts and cash offerings were smaller than a recent average, there was a good demand for samples, largely on shipping account, and with other markets firm speculative offerings were restricted, May shorts wanting moderate quantities. Interest was chiefly in that month, which ranged at 40c early to 41⅛c, closing at 40⅝c bid, or ⅛c net advance, with little doing in near futures. October was changed to May at 3½c difference, next month selling at 36¾@37⅛c and resting at 37⅛c, with September about ⅛c discount. No. 2 in store sold at 37@37⅛c. Free on board lots sold at 36½c for No. 3 mixed, 37⅛@38⅛c for do white, and 39@41c for No. 2 white.

Rye advanced about ⅛c, with receipts small and offerings restricted on either cash or future account. No. 2 in store sold at 61c and by sample at 55@58c for No. 3. Total, about 15 cars. October advanced from 62c to 62⅞c at the close, with 64⅛c paid and bid for December. Other months were nominal. Barley recovered the small down-turn of the previous day, the supply proving rather small and the demand sufficient to absorb everything, with few cars selling at figures below 60c. Recorded sales free on board were at 57@71c for No. 3 and 53@62c for No. 4. Total spot about 54 cars. Futures were inactive, with September nominally 78@80c. No. 2 sold at 77c in store. To arrive lots sold at 65@70c. Total, 60 cars and 40,000 bu.

Millstuffs were in the usual favor, bran tending to firmness, with sales at $10.00@12.50. Middlings sold at $14.00@15.50 and shorts at $14.00.

Provisions were moderately active and quite strong early, in sympathy with the leading grain markets. Trading was mostly for January delivery, though Fowler sold October lard and Armour October pork. Hutchinson sold on the advance. January pork opened at $11.90, sold up to $11.97½, back to $11.90, up to $12.05, eased off, and closed at $11.97½ bid. Cash lots were $10.00@10.25. January lard was quiet and a little firmer, opening at $6.65, selling up to $6.70, and closing at $6.67½ bid. Cash lots were $6.25@6.27½. There was a fair trade in ribs, better than Tuesday. January opened at $5.82½, sold down to $5.80, up to $5.87½, declined to $5.82½, and closed at $5.82½@5.85. Cash lots were $5.35@5.45. Cash sales included 200 brls mess pork at $10.25, 100 brls clear butt pork at $11.50, 1,000 tcs lard at $6.25@6.27½, 300 boxes short clear sides at $5.80@5.87½, and 100,000 lbs dry-salted bellies at 5⅞c.

Flaxseed was stronger than for some time previously, closing at an advance of 4@5c. Out of 100 cars posted as received relatively few were offered on the open market, and after initial trading in No. 1 cash at $1.47 prices gradually advanced to $1.49½ paid at the close, with rejected at $1.46, and no grade at $1.40. Total cash sales about 30 cars. October sold in small lots at $1.46@1.49 and year at $1.48@1.48½, closing nominally $1.49. The demand was good for both cash and futures, with sellers indifferent. Timothy seed was firm at 2c higher till near the close, when there was a reaction, especially in March, which closed at $1.39, or 1c net decline. Early sales were at $1.42, but Speck came in and offered freely at $1.40, with some business at that point. January sold at $1.36, September at $1.30, and next month at $1.31. Cash lots were held at considerable firmness, sales of 8 cars being noted $1.10@1.28 for common to nearly prime. Clover seed for December delivery sold at $4.37½, with cash lots nearly nominal; for November $4.30 was bid.

In the wholesale markets for street produce there was a liberal display of fruits and vegetables, with prices in the main steady to firm. This was apparently true of such fruits as apples and peaches when choice, though the ruling prices were too high to allow any popular demand, these varieties more nearly coming under the head of luxuries this year than usual. Dairy products were quiet, with a belief held by some dealers that cheese must decline in the country districts before there can be much incentive to push sales here. Eggs were firmly held, with receipts rather small, and the trade taking fair quantities from cold storage.

The following were the imports of flour, wheat, and corn into the United Kingdom on the dates named:

	Week ending Sept. 13, 1890.	Week ending Sept. 6, 1890.	Week ending Sept. 14, 1889.
Wheat, qrs	308,000	346,600	301,000
Corn, qrs	181,000	453,000	154,000

Lake freights were unchanged on the basis of 2c for wheat and 1¾c for corn to Buffalo. Charters were reported for 365,000 bu corn, 101,000 bu oats, and 17,000 bu flaxseed.

GENERAL MARKETS.

BUTTER—There was possibly a little more inquiry, but it was difficult to move lines except at weak prices, while small lots of choice ruled fully steady. Medium grades were in large supply and slow at inside figures. Quotations: Fancy separator goods, 21½@22c; fine, 19@21½c; good to choice, 16@18c; fine dairies, 17@19c; medium to fair 12@17c; packing stock, fresh, at 7½@8½c; old, 4½@6c.

CHEESE—Offerings were large, and although the Eastern markets were a shade firmer the movement was but moderate and only at figures which look low compared with asked prices at the factories. Quotations: Fine full cream cheddars, 8¾c; do twins, 9@9¼c; single flats, 9¼@9¾c; Young Americas, 10@10½c; hard skims, flats, 3@4½c; brick cheese, 11½@12½c.

GREEN FRUITS—Trade centered in fine stock, peaches, apples, and pears answering to this description ruling firm. Grapes were plentiful. Quotations: Good to choice or fancy apples, $2.50@3.50 per brl, and windfalls or common stock $1.00@2.25; bananas, 75c@1.75 per bunch; Concord grapes, in so-called 10-lb baskets, 25@30c; Messina lemons, $6.50@7.50 per case; Rodi oranges, $7.00@8.00 per case; peaches—Michigan fifths, 65c@$1.00; Bartlett pears, $5.00@8.00 per brl and $2.25@4.00 per keg. California fruit—Crawford peaches, $1.50@2.00 per 20-lb box; Bartlett pears, $3.00@4.75 per box of about 40 lbs; plums, $1.50@2.00 per box of 20 lbs; Muscat grapes, in half-cases of 4 baskets, $1.00@1.25; Tokay do, $1.25@1.75.

HAY—No change occurred, with the demand not urgent and trade quiet. Sales were: On track—1 car No. 1 timothy at $9.00; 14 cars upland prairie at $6.50@10.50. Receipts, 769 tons; shipments, 31 tons.

HIDES—A moderate inquiry was reported, but at easy prices, with quotations practically unchanged: No. 1 heavy or light green salted, fully cured, 7@7½c per lb; No. 2 do, 5¾@6c; salted bull hides, 5¾@6c; calf skins, 8@9c; deacons, each, 25@30c.

MELONS—No change of consequence occurred, with the demand less than recently, and sales slow unless the quality of the offerings was just right. Quotations: Watermelons, $50.00@65.00 per car-load and $1.25@2.25 per dozen for common to choice. Michigan muskmelons, 40@75c per crate for Osage, Japans, or Hackensacks, and Illinois at 25@40c per crate. Gems, 50@65c per basket.

POULTRY—Receipts were unusually large, including 8 cars, and, while there was a good demand, buyers were naturally disposed to claim concessions, and in many instances prices were fully ½c lower. Quotations were: Live hen turkeys, 10@10½c per lb; gobblers and mixed lots, 8½@9½c; live chickens, 9@9½c; roosters, 5@5½c; spring chickens, 9½@10c; live ducks, 8½@9½c; geese, $4.50@6.50 for fair to choice full-feathered.

POTATOES—There was a good demand for choice and ripe potatoes, but poor lots were dull and easy. Quotations were as follows: Choice to fancy Western grown, such as Burbanks, Rose, and Beauty of Hebron, 80@90c per bu in car-lots; common to good do, 70@80c; Eastern grown, 95c@1.05. Sweet potatoes—Jerseys, $2.75@3.50 per brl and Baltimore $1.75@2.50.

VEGETABLES—Aside from onions and tomatoes, which were slightly firmer, prices were unchanged, with offerings proving ample. Quotations follow: Home-grown cabbages, $1.50@2.00 per crate and $3.50@5.00 per 100; good to choice Michigan celery, 20@35c per doz; cauliflower, 50@75c per doz; egg plant, 50@75c per doz; fancy head lettuce, 25@50c per doz; yellow onions, $2.25@3.00 per brl; string beans, 75c@$1.00 per bu; green corn, 8@12c per doz; tomatoes, 40@75c per bu; rutabagas, $1.25@1.50 per brl.

WHISKY—The market was steady on the basis of $1.13.

LIVE-STOCK MARKET.

The following is a statement of the movement of live stock for the periods indicated, with comparative figures:

Dates.	Cattle.	Calves.	Hogs.	Sheep.
Receipts—
Monday, Sept. 15	15,268	1,282	25,774	8,379
Tuesday, Sept. 16	9,842	860	17,712	9,071
Wednesday, Sept. 17	15,000	900	22,000	12,000
Last week	47,148	4,149	70,812	26,950
Shipments—
Monday, Sept. 15	2,636	171	10,801	2,592
Tuesday, Sept. 16	2,692	219	6,469	4,121
Wednesday, Sept. 17	3,000	400	8,000	2,000
Total	8,328	790	25,260	8,718

Today's (Thursday's) receipts are estimated at 25,000 hogs, 18,000 cattle, and 10,000 sheep, against 32,338 hogs, 16,775 cattle, and 8,306 sheep one week ago, and 19,066 hogs, 13,340 cattle, and 9,194 sheep one year ago.

CATTLE—The cattle market was very unsatisfactory. Most grades sold 5@10c lower, and at the decline trade was slow, particularly so for poor to fair natives, which were in liberal supply, and as buyers preferred range cattle at the prices a good many undesirable natives remained unsold. Some range cattle remained unsold. Native steers averaging 940@1,712 lbs sold at $2.80@5.15, bulk at $3.75@4.75. Some 1,250-lb steers sold at $4.75. Western rangers sold at $2.00@2.50 for cows and $2.20@4.00 for steers. Only two or three small lots of Dakota steers sold above $3.25. Through Texas sold at $1.55@2.10 for bulls, cows, and heifers, $2.00@3.15 for steers, and $2.25@3.45 for steers. Native cows sold at $1.00@3.00, largely at $1.70@2.20. Stock cattle sold at $2.00@3.00, bulk at $2.20@2.65. Quotations are as follows:

Extra beeves, 1,450@1,700 lbs	$4.95@5.20
Good to fancy 1,300@1,550-lb steers	4.10@4.90
Poor to medium steers	2.80@4.00
Cows	1.00@2.55
Stockers and feeders	2.60@3.10
Veal calves	2.50@5.00
Western rangers	2.40@4.05
Texas steers	2.10@2.95
Texas cows	1.40@2.15

HOGS—Yesterday's receipts were larger than Tuesday's arrivals, but were 8,000 smaller than a week ago. The market since the close of last week has been gradually going down for poor to fair heavy, while the best grades of heavy and light have more than held their own, largely owing to the poorness of the quality, the proportion of "good" hogs being smaller than the demand, which at present is unusually large, especially on shipping account. Most of the packers are anxious for hogs, while a few hold out and hammer the market. Yesterday's general market opened steady, but closed 5c lower for heavy packing grades, steady to a shade higher for best heavy grades, and 5@10c higher for light weights of desirable quality. The demand for light hogs has been larger than the offerings. Two bunches of light on the singeing order sold as high as $4.95, and a bunch of over 500 light sold to a packer at $4.90. Light sold at $3.90@4.95, largely at $4.70@4.90. Heavy sold at $3.90@4.75, largely at $4.15@4.25 for packers and $4.35@4.60 for shippers. Mixed sold at $4.05@4.75, bulk at $4.35@4.70. Pigs sold at $2.25@4.40. Some 191-lb corn-fed pigs sold at $4.70, but 177-lb pigs sold at $4.00 and 138 lb pigs at $2.25. A load averaging 138 lbs sold at $2.50.

SHEEP—Good sheep sold at former quotations, while common lots sold 10c lower. Lambs also declined 10@20c, selling largely at $5.50@5.65. Native sheep sold at $3.15@5.00 and Texas and Western at $3.60@4.90.

A GREAT SILVER VEIN.

Fifty-three Millions in Sight in a Mexican Mine.

SILVER CITY, N. M., Sept. 14.—A number of large mining transactions have been made in Mexico within the last few weeks. The mines sold have nearly all been silver mines and the purchasers are mainly Americans. This increased activity is due entirely to the advanced price of silver. American investors seem to have confidence that the price of silver will be maintained, while owners of Mexican mines who have been anxious to sell for some time are only too glad to get the price they ask for their mines without speculating on the probable course of the silver market in the future. There are many rich mines in Mexico, and the total amount of precious metals produced yearly would be much increased were it not for the fact that most of the mining districts are remote from railroad communication, and consequently only the very rich mines can be worked. Mr. A. H. Morehead of this place, who has just returned from an extended trip in Mexico, brought back several specimens of very rich silver ore, some of which would compare favorably with the ore taken from the Black Hawk mines in this county or the Lake Valley mines in Sierra County. The mine from which this specimen came is in Durango, 110 miles from railroad communication. Experts who have examined the mine report that there is $53,000,000 worth of ore in sight. This so completely overshadows any mine in this Territory that the very best of them suffers by comparison.

The Georgetown silver mines, which have been worked for many years, where more than thirty miles of underground workings can be shown, have produced altogether less than half the amount in sight in this great mine in Durango. This mine is one of the best in Mexico, and is one of the few mines where rich ore is found in large quantities.

As Americans become interested in Mexican mines the Mexican method of mining is gradually superseded by improved methods. Many mines in the interior of Mexico are still worked on the same plan that was in vogue more than a hundred years ago. Mines are worked to the depth of several hundred feet without mining machinery of any description. The ore is brought to the surface in rawhide buckets carried by natives up wide ladders. These laborers, while they are employed at an expense of a few cents per day each, cannot compete with improved hoisting machinery, which they believe to be an agency of the devil, and with which they will have nothing to do. An American can operate a mine in Mexico on the Mexican plan, and employ Mexicans at ridiculously low rates, but just as soon as he commences to put in mining machinery he must employ other miners and pay good wages. American miners will not go to Mexico unless they can get better wages than are offered on this side of the line, and as it is more economical to operate mines with skilled miners and improved mining machinery than it is to employ natives, there are hundreds of Americans employed in Mexican mines.

The product of Mexican mines, especially silver mines, is increasing more rapidly than the product of the mines in the United States, and it is quite probable that this year's silver production in Mexico will be larger than that of the United States.

Great Iron Deposits North of Duluth.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 15.—It is now a demonstrated fact that the rich iron deposits of the Vermilion and Mesabi ranges north of Duluth extend into the province of Ontario, and there is not a little excitement among iron explorers and surveyors of this section. Over 200 explorers from this range are now north of the international boundary, on what is known as the Aticokan iron range, the continuation to the north of the fields on which are situated the mines of the Minnesota Iron company of Duluth. These men report very rich ore and great exposed beds rising from 100 to 200 feet above the surrounding country and in vast quantity. Analysts of this city who have tested the ore say that it runs as high as 68 per cent metallic iron, and is below the Bessemer limit in phosphorus. Unlike ore beds to the south, and like the Minnesota ranges, it is in exposed bodies, the glacial epoch having evidently cleaned off all soil and left the ore bare. It rises in such bodies that for years open pit mining will be carried on.

At present there is no railway to this extensive field, but the Canadian Pacific, which runs to the north, is surveying a line into the district.

In the Vermilion iron district there is great activity and the shipments are about 3,400 gross tons daily over the Duluth and Iron Range railway. Of this, 2,000 tons come from the Minnesota company's mines, and 1,400 from the Chandler. Small shipments are also being made from the Pioneer mine. The ranks of productive mines in this district will be greatly enlarged next season, as half a dozen on which exploratory work is now going on have been so far developed as to insure profitable mining. Among them the Zenith, recently sold, is putting in heavy machinery and already has two test pits in good ore. There are several near it, and the Mallman, twenty-five miles from the Minnesota, has just been sold for $100,000, and is in the hands of a strong company. The mines on the west end of the same range, 100 miles from the Minnesota, will also be shippers next year.

There are in all in the iron district tributary to Duluth thirty-five properties now being explored and developed for iron, and in every one the indications are such that they may safely be classed as mines in two years. This is a greater number than have ever been worked here before, and shows the activity of mining here.

CANADIAN ANNEXATION SENTIMENT.

Real Solution of the Reciprocity Question—Open Talk of Separation.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 16.—The fact can no longer be disputed that the annexation question is fast becoming one of the live issues of the day, and will play an important part in the political future of Canada. The sentimental loyalists endeavor to belittle the movement, but, nevertheless, are whistling to keep up their courage. It matters not what part of the Dominion one looks to there is to be found evidence of dissatisfaction at the existing state of affairs. Leading public men have not hesitated to call attention to the increasing popularity of the movement for closer trade and social relations with the United States—in fact, in some instances, going so far as to espouse on the public platform political union.

One of the Government organs has come out squarely for separation from England. The Quebec Telegraph says: "If permitted to gauge current events in Canada we think that annexation to the United States is making great headway among the people. It is coming, and that before long. Sir John Macdonald may preach all kinds of doctrines, he may climb upon Johnny Bull's back and become the last man on earth to accept the platform, but dollars and cents will bring it about. The McKinley bill deals a hard blow to the commerce of Canada. England, we are told, is as ready to give up Canada and Newfoundland as Heligoland. Now, what can we do in this part of Canada without the United States? We are positive that at least this part of the country would be in a thriving condition if we had America merged into one general confederation. How would Brother Jonathan meet us but with an expression of joy and comfort, dollars and cents? Property would boom and commerce with the world would be carried with a ring which would bring comfort and glory to the masses.

"A few days ago the Stars and Stripes were raised over a custom-house in Montreal, and now they are flying over the grounds of the Toronto exhibition. What is to prevent them from being raised over the nation at some future period? Something must be done because we cannot stand this tariff tinkering at Ottawa any longer. This country is, in plain words, going to the Old Nick, and if, at the next general election, the reformers do not become aware of the situation, we will be starved out of existence by the United States tariff. England is neither a mother nor a friend to us. We have flattered her too much, and now is the time, when one of her grandchildren is here, that we should talk as plainly as possible of the situation.

"If the capitalists of London can buy up the great stock companies of the United States, if they can place millions of dollars in the wild lands of that country, if they are scared to invest a single dollar in British securities, then let us annex so as to secure their aid and hand. Sir John ought to feel surprised at the enormous amount of money that Britishers are investing in the United States."

The article has caused a decided sensation here. Government officials state that such treasonable and seditious language should not be overlooked.

McKinley's Bill in Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 16.—The McKinley bill, now before Congress, continues to be the sole topic of conversation among Canadian politicians. Its effects upon Canadian export trade until new outlets for our surplus products are discovered will be very serious. A conservative estimate is that the bill will put an end to the export trade in eggs, amounting in value to $2,000,000 a year, but the greatest blow is aimed at meats and live stock.

The fish duties are not regarded as very serious. The Lower Province papers declare that the efforts of the Canadians should be directed to breaking the American fishing ports on the Atlantic, by shipping direct from our own ports to the places where the fish are to be distributed. The lumber schedule does not alter the duty on spruce boards or deals, but it reduces the duty on pine boards and pine shingles by one-half. Laths will pay the same duty as before, but the duty on pickets, palings, and lumber for wharf buildings is reduced one-half.

It is understood that the Dominion Government will soon announce the abolition of the export duty on pine logs, in order to meet the alternative provision in the McKinley bill regarding Canadian sawn lumber. The Canadian Lumbermen's Association is not averse to this step. In fact, it has assured Sir John Macdonald that this tax is injurious rather than beneficial to Canadian lumbermen in the American market.

The McKinley bill, it is calculated, will reduce Canadian exports to the United States. After the abrogation of the reciprocity treaty in 1854 they fell from an average for the three years before the repeal, according to American official statements, of nearly $75,000,000 per annum to an average of $57,000,000 per annum.

Canada Looking for New Markets.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 16.—That the Dominion will have to look out sharply about her for countries with whom she can extend her commercial relations is now more forcibly than ever brought to the attention of the Dominion Government, in view of the large increase proposed at Washington in the United States tariff, which, if carried into effect, will practically close that market against $14,000,000 worth of products exported to that value annually from Canada to the United States during the last few years. This is equal to 33⅓ per cent of the total yearly exports from Canada to the American market. The proposed increase in duty on agricultural products will strike a severe blow at Canada, as out of the total value of exports of agricultural products last year ($13,414,111) $9,125,707 went to the United States. The question now suggests itself, where could Canada replace this market for the sale of the products of her farms should the proposed amendment to the United States Tariff bill be carried into effect?

The Dominion Government is now looking to the South, and in the hope of extending trade relations with Jamaica has appointed a Commissioner to inquire into the possibility of extending trade in that direction. From official returns it is shown that of the total imports into Jamaica last year 55 per cent went from Great Britain, 9.2 per cent from Canada, 33.9 per cent from the United States, and 1.9 per cent from other countries. The total value was £1,597,600. As regards exports the United States took 50.2 per cent, Great Britain 37.3 per cent, Canada 2.3 per cent, and other countries 10.2 per cent. Total exports, £1,614,824. Trade with the United Kingdom is falling off, with the United States increasing, while Canada is barely holding her own, and, going back to previous years, she has lost. It seems rather late in the day for Canada to attempt building up a permanent trade with Jamaica. It is only three years ago that the Dominion Government in following out its general policy refused to entertain proposals that were made at that time by the Government of Jamaica to enter upon negotiations for freer trade in the form of a reciprocity treaty and for which purpose a deputation from the Government of that colony visited Canada.

The Hon. A. G. Jones, member of Parliament of Halifax, who is largely engaged in the West India trade, in speaking of the attempt now being made by the Dominion Government to extend trade relations with the West Indies said: "For years I tried to find products outside of fish that we could send to the West Indies and could sort the cargoes with, but never met with satisfactory results. I tried boots and shoes, but the prices were too high. I sent out some mottled soap, but I found that the retail price there was the same as the wholesale price here. I tried what I thought was a very desirable kind of cotton for the climate, and which I also considered very low—five cents a yard, but the English prices of a penny and a penny and a farthing knocked out any hopes of sending cotton to the West Indies."
